Cars Badly Needed

New York, June 17 (AP).—A flat embargo was imposed on all rail freight shipments destined for American ships in United States ports today.

This action was taken as the two-day sitdown of CIO seamen tightened its grip on the Nation's maritime commerce.

At the same time sailing of the liner America was postponed.

Shippers across the country were ordered by the American Association of Railroads to send no more consignments to United States ships in East, West and Gulf Coast ports.

Union spokesmen claimed 700 ships are affected by the sitdown.

The AAR said the embargo would prevent clogging of the ports and undue detention of freight cars badly needed elsewhere.

Similar Embargo in 1946

George Randall, the association's manager of port traffic here, explained the action would not tie up all overseas shipments since more than half of American outbound cargo is handled in foreign bottoms.

A similar embargo was put into effect in the 1946 maritime strike eight months ago.

The America, largest United States passenger vessel, was to leave tomorrow afternoon for Cobh, Southampton and Cherbourg with 1000 passengers, much of whose luggage already had been taken aboard. The United States Lines set Friday as a new tentative sailing date.

Curran Wires Truman

The postponement came after National Maritime Union members had announced termination of articles of voyage for the sailing.

Joseph Curran, NMU president, sent to President Truman, Secretary of State George C. Marshall and other high officials telegrams declaring the seamen were "locked out by the shipowners" and adding:

"The arrogant refusal of the shipowners to bargain in good faith with our unions demonstrates clearly that they rely on the Taft-Hartley bill to destroy the labor movement."

Operators here have labeled the stoppage a "pure, simple, unadulterated strike."

No Grain, Coal Delayed

Government officials in Washington said no shipment of grain or coal for Europe had been delayed as far in the maritime dispute, but W. R. Godber, Interstate Commerce Commission agent here, said coal shipments to New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore would be allowed only if there were assurance that the vessel for which the coal was destined would not be tied up.

Bevin, Bidault in Wide Accord At Parley on Marshall Plan

Paris, June 17 (U.P.).—British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault reached "wide agreement" tonight on methods for putting into effect Secretary of State George C. Marshall's proposal for putting Europe back on her feet.

The agreement presumably covered the main points of the French plan presented yesterday for setting up four committees to survey Europe's needs in food, coal, steel and transport. British and French experts in all four of those fields were present at tonight's session.

The talks between Bevin, Bidault and Prime Minister Ramadier started at dinner at the British Embassy and continued late tonight.

"We are off to a good start," a British spokesman said optimistically. "The measure of agreement is rather wide."

Under the French plan, all European countries—including Soviet Russia, the western powers hoped—would be represented on the four main committes. The details of the plan have already been presented to General Marshall.

The chief problem was the attitude of Soviet Russia and its satellites in eastern Europe. The Moscow Communist newspaper, Pravda, gave the first intimation of this attitude yesterday in a blistering attack on the plan.

French Communist newspapers followed up today by calling Bevin a "traveling salesman of Wall Street" and "a recruiting sergeant for Truman's 'collaborationists.'"

Bevin met with the British cabinet in London this morning before he flew here. He is said to have been given authorization to go all-out for earliest possible implementation of the Marshall plan.

The British Foreign Secretary will spend all day tomorrow in conference with Bidault and other leaders and will return to London tomorrow evening for a Commons foreign debate Thursday.

A Foreign Office spokesman said in London that no hard and fast agreement on the Marshall plan should be expected of Bevin's visit.

But both Britain and France were intensely interested in the plan as offering the sole hope of early European rehabilitation.

Diplomatic circles reported that both Bevin and Bidault were in contact with Moscow, trying to sound out Russian Foreign Minister Viacheslav M. Molotov.

Communist comment, however, gave little hope that Russia was friendly, at least at the moment.

Soviet Delay Expected on Hungary Pact

Unconfirmed Report Sees Reds Waiting For Consolidation Of Balkan Position

Budapest, June 17 (U.P.).—Russia may delay ratification of the Hungarian peace treaty until Hungarian Communists consolidate their position, a Russo-Hungarian alliance is concluded and a Balkan federation is formed, political circles reported today.

The report was not confirmed. However, according to talk in political quarters, ratification is not expected here until:

1. The Hungarian economic and political situation is more "stabilized."
2. An alliance has been negotiated including mutual military aid.
3. A Russian-dominated Balkan federation has been formed.

Talks toward such an alliance are reported to be part of the discussions of Eastern European leaders under way in Belgrade.

Reds Break Up Rally

[Dezso Sulyok declared meanwhile that Communist brawlers who broke up a Freedom Party rally Monday in Szeged had proved his point that Hungary was a police state, and said he would schedule no more speeches unless his party is guaranteed freedom of assembly, the Associated Press reported.

[The outspoken Freedom Party leader, who has defied the Communists ever since they engineered last month's coup d'etat, said he had written a letter to the Allied Control Commission asking that his party be accorded the same liberty of expression as that enjoyed by the Communists.

[The Control Commission for Hungary — composed of British, Russian and American representatives—sanctioned the formation of the Freedom Party last year.—Editor's note.]

The Communist-inspired purge took another step today when the political committee of former Premier Ferenc Nagy's Smallholders Party announced that five of its members in Parliament had been asked to submit "voluntary" resignations.

Further Purge Intimated

A member of the committee said that more such resignations could be expected soon. A request for "voluntary resignation" automatically deprives a deputy of his party membership.

Communist Interior Minister Laszio Rajk said at a press conference:

"Counterattacks by antidemocratic forces in Hungary are not yet over and more must be expected."

This apparently was an intimation that the purge, with Rajk in charge of police, would continue.

Political circles reported also that an agreement had been reached between the Russian and Hungarian governments on ownership of the Hungarian Credit Bank, under which Russia would get 35 per cent of the oustanding shares. The remaining 65 per cent would be privately held until a nationalization law was passed.

Before the war most of the bank shares belonged to the French branch of the Rothschild family. These were taken over by the Germans when France fell. Now Russia claims ownership on the ground that they are "German" assets.

Well-informed sources said that Ladislav Toth, special Hungarian envoy to the Vatican, had returned here after the failure of negotiations aimed at renewing diplomatic relations.

Truman's Tax Veto Sustained In House by 2-Vote Margin; Ends Hope of Cut This Year

PRESIDENTS, PAST AND PRESENT—President Harry Truman (left) and former President Herbert Hoover (right) walk with Harold Dodds, president of Princeton, yesterday at the university's Bicentennial Celebration. President Truman, who received his tenth honorary doctor of laws degree, said in his address that training the Nation's youth was a "military necessity." Republicans React With Threats of Taking Issue to Voters in 1948

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

The House yesterday buried the GOP's four-billion-dollar tax-reduction bill for 1947 and possibly for two years to come.

By a mere two-vote margin, it sustained the President's "wrong bill, wrong time" veto. The vote was 268 to 137, just short of the required two thirds to override.

It was the first licking well-disciplined House Republicans had suffered at the hands of Mr. Truman. They reacted with many a threat of a 1948 election test.

But the Knutson bill, as such, was dead. It is doubtful if Republicans will attempt to revive it next year. Leaders said flatly there will be no try at re-enactment this session.

Only two Republicans—Merlin Hull (Wis.) and H. Carl Anderson (Minn.)—voted to uphold the President's hand. They joined 134 Democrats and one American Laborite to provide the sustaining margin.

35 Democrats for Overriding

Thirty-five Democrats voted with 233 Republicans to override.

An advance organization job by Democratic leaders pulled in enough previously dissenting votes to make the veto stick. Former Ways and Means Chairman Robert L. Doughton (D., N. C.) and 10 other Democrats who had voted for tax reduction on one or both former tests, swung over in support of the veto.

Representative Harold Knutson (R., Minn.), Doughton's GOP successor as Ways and Means chief, said his committee will go right ahead with studies for a general tax overhaul in 1948, but he declined to predict this will mean income tax cuts in 1948.

Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr. (R., Mass.), and House Appropriations Chairman John Taber (R., N. Y.) said tax reduction "may have to wait until there's a change of Administration."

Campaign Issue Predicted

Senator Walter F. George (D., Ga.) said his guess was Republicans would not try to enact a similar bill in 1948 but would make campaign use of the President's veto.

In fact, the campaigning has already begun. Said House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck (Ind.):

"The moral of the veto and the House vote is that we need more Republicans and fewer Democrats in Congress . . . Mr. Truman's veto is a boomerang that will return in '48, bearing his Republican successor into the White House."

Halleck charged the President, Democrats generally and "spendthrift bureaucrats" have done all they could "to block our efforts to bring down the cost of Government." He said the veto reflected the "spend, spend policy."

In the Senate, Republican Steersman Robert A. Taft (Ohio) echoed Speaker Martin's forecast

District Heads Term Welfare Unit Incapable

Congress Is Asked To Transfer Control To Commissioners

Washington's Commissioners told Congress yesterday the Board of Public Welfare "is inherently incapable" of smooth welfare administration.

In a letter to House District Chairman Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.) they asked passage of a bill giving the Commissioners full control over welfare, and reducing the present board to a purely advisory role.

They presented a bill to carry out their plan. Preliminary hearings on the proposal have been held by a House District subcommittee headed by Representative A. L. Miller (R., Nebr.).

In their letter, the Commissioners gave these reasons for urging their bill:

"1. The (Welfare) board as an administrative body is inherently incapable of running the (Welfare) department smoothly, regardless of the high quality of its members.

"2. The placing on it of administrative responsibility negates the very valuable service which it could perform in this complex and delicate field if it were relieved of such responsibility.

"3. The claim that the situation would be solved by giving the board 'full autonomy' is wholly illusory. The board already has full autonomy for all practical purposes, and the gesture of passing a law purporting to grant it would have no effect on the situation."

Under the bill, the job of the Board of Public Welfare would be to "visit, inspect and investigate" welfare institutions and activities, to make general studies of District social conditions, and to make recommendations to the Commissioners.

Mead Testifies May Asked Aid For Garssons

Freeman Collapses, Taken to Hospital With Heart Attack

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

Former Senator James M. Mead (D., N. Y.) yesterday testified that A. J. May tried to get him to help the Garsson munition companies.

The War Department tied up about a million dollars the Garssons claimed was due them in 1945, Mead said, and former Congressman May tried to get the money paid. Mead said May saw him on the Hill, called him on the phone and came to his office a number of times on behalf of the Garssons.

Mead was called to the District Court as a witness for Murray and Henry Garsson, who are on trial, with May, for bribery and conspiracy.

Prosecutor William A. Paisley claims the Garssons bought May's influence for $50,000, when he was House Military chairman, and they were piling up 70-odd million dollars in war business.

Freeman Collapses

Mead headed the Senate War Profits Committee until he opened his campaign for Governor of New York last year. He said he thought his committee opened its investigation of the Garsson companies about April, 1945.

Joseph F. Freeman was brought to trial with May and the Garssons, but was cleared several weeks ago by Justice Henry A. Schweinhaut. He has testified several days for the defense. He went back to the witness stand yesterday morning, but a few minutes after court began he found he could barely talk.

Justice Schweinhaut told him

Training Can Speed Peace, Truman Says

Program Is Justified By Necessity, He Tells Audience at Princeton

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

Princeton, N. J., June 17.—President Truman today chose the colorful backdrop of Princeton University's bicentennial celebration to appeal for an appreciation of universal training as "vital to the national welfare."

The training program which he has presented to Congress for action is justified because of military necessity, he told a convocation of 6000 persons.

"Generosity of impulse and abundant good will" of peace-loving nations are not enough to guarantee world political stability, he said. Only "slow progress" can be made toward peace unless peace-seeking nations' "moral leadership is supported by strength."

Training the Nation's youth, the President intimated, was a necessary part of our foreign policy. Unless we remain strong, free nations would fear that we would not fulfill our pledge to maintain their freedom. In that case, he

Aim at Labor Bill

Veto Caravan Reaches D. C. From West

Organized labor's original Western "veto caravan" of protesters of the Taft-Hartley labor bill reached Washington City limits at 11 p.m. yesterday to find their Northern and Eastern cohorts safely bedded down.

Lack of housing accommodations in Columbus, Ohio, and admittedly poor timing spoiled the planned en masse entry into Washington, caravan leaders reported.

When all are present and accounted for, including stragglers who had not caught up with the Pacific Coast contingent when it pulled out of Frederick, Md., at 9 o'clock last night, close to 400 autos and buses will comprise the protesting band, spokesmen said.

The "marchers" are lobbying for the President's veto of what they term a "slave labor" measure, and will attempt to sway sufficient congressional votes to prevent passing the bill over a veto.

Advance parties of the motorized protest march began arriving at Turner's Arena, three-day headquarters for the protesters, as early as 3:30 p. m. yesterday.

By 9 p. m., nearly 1000 AFL and CIO delegates had been registered, having arrived here in some 150 automobiles and 5 buses. Most of them were from New York and the New England States. As fast as they came in, they were assigned housing accommodations,

July 26 Limit For Congress Session Set

Republicans to Meet Again to Decide Adjournment Form

House and Senate Republican leaders late yesterday agreed on an adjournment push that would send Congress home by July 26 at latest.

Only such party-indorsed measures as Army-Navy unification, the presidential succession bill, log-jammed appropriations and non-controversial items on the President's "must" list were placed definitely on the session's end agenda.

No UMT Decision

Leaders of the two houses failed to agree definitely on what will be done with the Wagner-Taft-Ellender housing bill, universal training, and many another major item.

Senate Republican Steersman Robert A. Taft (Ohio), who presided, told newsmen another conference will be called in about two weeks to discuss these. But his plain implication was that Congress is about to rest its case on what has already been enacted, or is already programmed.

Only adjournment point undecided was whether Congress will quit "sine die"—which means only the President could call it back—or whether Congress would simply recess, subject to recall.

If the recess procedure, favored by House leaders, is adopted, Taft said only Republican leaders of

Truman Pleased With House Vote On Tax Bill Veto

By a Post Reporter

Princeton, N. J., June 17.—President Truman expressed himself as highly gratified with House action today sustaining his veto of the tax bill.

Mr. Truman inquired of reporters for details of the House vote. They were able to inform him only that his disapproval had been backed up by a two-vote margin.

That's two votes more than he expected to have, he chuckled.

"Do you think that they will sustain the labor bill veto?" a newsman asked.

The Chief Executive grinned at the leading question. He didn't know that there would be a veto, he finally replied. He declared that he had not yet made up his mind.

House District Group Approves 5-Day Week for D. C. Firemen

A 5-day work week for Washington firemen starting July 1, 1948, was approved by a House District Subcommittee yesterday after it heard a bitter attack on Fire Chief Clement Murphy.

Murphy and Commissioner John Russell Young testified against the five-day week bill.

Then they and the subcommittee heard Capt. Joseph W. Conroy, head of No. 19 Engine Company and president of the Firemen's Association, charge Murphy had demoralized the department.

For his statement against the bill, Conroy said Chief Murphy "will occupy the same place in the hearts of firemen that Judas Iscariot does in the hearts of Christians." He said a fire chief never before had testified against his own men.

Subcommittee Chairman J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.) cut the attack short, telling Conroy, "We're not interested in personalities, we're interested in the bill."

Conroy's appeal for the five-day week was backed by George J. Richardson, secretary-treasurer, International Association of Firefighters. The bill would require about 150 more men. First-year cost would be $446,988, rising in the sixth year to $534,806.

Commissioner Young said, "In our financial position we do not think we can support the increased expense."

Chief Murphy said he was preparing a substitute plan to keep the present six-day week, but do away with the 24-hour day fireman work every other Saturday when they move from the day to the night shift. He said only 27 more men would be needed for his plan.

Murphy declared it was the first time he had ever opposed legislation to increase firemen's benefits. "I was in conflict with myself several days over this matter," he said. "My wish for Conroy is that he is as good to the individual fireman and to the fire department as I have been. He's free to blast me when he pleases. As a union man he has the right."

Little Acquitted Of Prison Camp Brutality Charge

Lieut. Comdr. Edward N. Little, USN, yesterday was acquitted of charges that he mistreated American enlisted personnel while serving as a company commander and mess officer in a Jap prison camp.

A Navy general court-martial found the 39-year-old Naval Academy graduate innocent on all three counts on which he was tried, the Navy Department said.

Little went on trial at the Naval Gun Factory here March 10. His long trial was held secretly at his request.

The court, composed of five Navy captains and two commanders, freed Little of these charges: maltreatment of a person subject to his orders, conduct to the prejudice of good order and discipline, and conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman.

The charges, the Navy said, were based on "allegations concerning his conduct toward his fellow prisoners when he was senior officer in a Japanese prison camp." Detailed specifications, however, were not made public.

Little was captured by the Japs when Corregidor fell in 1942. He won the Silver Star for gallantry in the last fighting in the Philippines and was a survivor of the Bataan "death march."

Round-the-World Passenger Flight Leaves New York

New York, June 17 (AP).—The first commercial around-the-world passenger flight in aviation history began at LaGuardia Field at 1:18 p. m. (EST) today when a Pan American World Airways Clipper took off with 21 airline, publishing and public officials aboard.

The flight, inaugurating regular round-the-world passenger service, will return here June 30, after stops in Newfoundland, Britain, Turkey, Saudi Arabia, India, Siam, the Philippines, China, Japan, Guam, Wake Island, Hawaii, San Francisco and Chicago.

The plane landed at Gander, Newfoundland, ending the first of the flight at 5:50 p. m. (EST), the airline reported, and took off at 6:50 p. m. (EST) for Shannon, Eire.

Among the passengers was Francis H. Russell, director of public affairs in the State Department.

House Votes to Extend Curbs On Rents, Allow 15% Increases

By The Associated Press

The House stamped its final approval yesterday on a bill extending rent controls until next March but permitting 15 per cent increases if tenants "voluntarily" agree to pay them in return for leases extending through 1948.

The bill, which also frees building materials from most restraints, now goes to the Senate.

The product of a Senate-House conference committee, which ironed out differences between the two chambers, the measure won House approval after a last-ditch flurry of protests against the rent increase provision.

With rent controls due to expire altogether on June 30 unless Congress acts by then, opposition to the measure dwindled and advocates of more stringent Government rent control found themselves confronted by a this-or-nothing choice.

The measure was approved by standing vote of 163 to 73. A few minutes earlier, by a tally of 114 to 87, the House rejected a move to send the bill back to committee.

Representative Monroney (D., Okla.) termed the bill "thoroughly bad" but said he was going to vote for it because "15 per cent is better than 100 per cent. Some protection from eviction is better than no protection."

He said Congress had not heard from the "hundreds of thousands of tenants who are going to suffer—only from the landlords."

But Representative Wolcott (R., Mich.), chairman of the House Banking Committee, asserted that no one will be forced to enter into the "voluntary" agreements to boost rent.

He said that decontrolling building materials gives "the building industry a free hand to go out and lick the housing shortage."

Tram Strike Hurts Trade In St. Louis

St. Louis, June 17 (AP).—Downtown retailers today estimated their trade 30 to 40 per cent below normal as the strike of streetcar and bus operators which has paralyzed public transportation entered its fifth day.

While most workers managed to get to their jobs by ride-sharing and hitchhiking, thus holding absenteeism to about normal, spokesmen for many downtown stores described business as poor.

A large furniture concern advertised that its salesmen would call for customers at their homes, bring them to the store and then return the shoppers to their front doors.

Mass turnouts of automobiles continued to congest traffic along main thoroughfares.

Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann scheduled another conference today with representatives of the public service company and the striking operators, members of Local 788 of the AFL Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes.

The union was due to reply to a company proposal to let the courts determine the validity of an arbitration award rejected by the operators.

3950 Return at Chrysler

Detroit, June 17 (U.P.).—Some 3950 workers returned to their jobs at two Chrysler Corp. plants today but another 2560 remained idle by a strike in the company's De Soto division plant.

A corporation spokesman said the length of the De Soto stoppage would determine whether the 3950 employes at the Chrysler Kercheval and Jefferson plants would remain on the job.

A total of 8510 were thrown out of work yesterday when 85 workers in the material assembly department of the De Soto plant struck to protest a disciplinary layoff given an employe accused of handling equipment carelessly.

The company was forced to lay off 1800 additional workers at De Soto and 3950 day shift and 2000 night shift employes at Jefferson and Kercheval. A sympathy strike idled the remaining 675 workers at De Soto.

Meanwhile, a strike at Muskegon, Mich., made idle 3100 UAW employes of the Campbell, Wyant and Cannon foundry. The company said it was forced to send home the workers because of a walkout by several employes who refused to work with two nonunion men.

N. Y. Paper Tells Of Meeting With Communist Officials

New York, June 17 (AP).—The World-Telegram said today that Harry Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (CIO), held a secret conference yesterday with top officials of the Communist Party.

Present with Bridges at the meeting in the apartment of Murray Winocur, secretary of the CIO Maritime Joint Policy Committee and one of the leaders of the current maritime stoppage, the World-Telegram said, were William Z. Foster, national chairman of the Communist Party; John Williamson, the party's national labor secretary; Robert Thompson, New York State secretary, and Al Lannon, the party's "national coordinator for the marine industry."

The story said that Bridges, approached as he left the building and entered a taxicab, said in response to questions about the conference:

"What conference? I don't know what you're talking about. I just ran down the street after this car. I didn't come out of any building."

At Communist Party headquarters, a public relations officer said today that the story was "not true." He said, however, that he was speaking only for himself and that Foster, Williamson and Lannon were "out" and could not be reached for comment. Thompson also was reported by a party spokesman to be "out" and not expected back today.

Bridges was the subject of lengthy deportation proceedings several years ago. The Department of Justice asked that he be deported to his native Australia on the grounds that he was a Communist.

After two hearings, the United States Supreme Court ruled he had not been proved a member of the Communist party.

Story Termed 'Flat Lie'

San Francisco, June 17 (AP).—Morris Watson, editor of the Dispatcher, CIO Longshoreman's paper here, and a spokesman for Harry Bridges, head of the union, said today:

"I have been authorized and instructed by Mr. Bridges to say that the New York World-Telegram dope story carried by the wire services to the effect that Mr. Bridges met with high officials of the Communist Party yesterday in New York, is a flat lie, obviously concocted for the purpose of prejudicing the cause of the Eastern maritime unions."

prepared for them in advance by local labor organizations.

But few of the early arrivals were on hand at the Arena to greet their Pacific Coast brethren when they pulled in, some 250 strong in 39 autos and 2 buses. They were met at the District limits by a police escort.

Organization of the "veto caravan" is credited to West Coast labor organizers who sought to "understand" actions of their congressional delegates in voting for the labor bill. When their Congressmen refused their invitation to fly home, expense free, to explain, relatively minor labor leaders conceived the caravan. It caught on.

By last night, the caravan had won recognition from national labor officials.

The Western contingent, which left the coast last Thursday and picked up supporters en route, was virtually intact on arrival at Columbus, Ohio, Monday night. There they were split up when they found the city's hotels could not accommodate them and 15,000 Shriners attending an international convention.

They planned to meet again in Frederick, Md., yesterday afternoon to head for Washington en masse at 3:30 p. m. By 9 p. m., when the caravan did start, many of the stragglers had not checked in.

This morning, they will be briefed on lobbying arrangements at a special rally at the arena. This afternoon, they will visit with their Congressmen and tonight they'll have a mass meeting at the arena.

Tomorrow they plan to parade through Washington streets, demanding veto of the bill and congressional action to sustain such veto. A dance is scheduled for the night, with Friday's program left open and dependent on the success of their "veto caravan."

Jury Probes Perjury Charges Against Heads of Allis Union

A Federal Grand Jury here yesterday began an investigation into perjury charges against two union officials, Harold Christoffel and Robert Buse, of Allis-Chalmers Local 242, UAW-CIO, West Allis, Wis.

They were accused of having stated falsely under oath to the House Committee on Labor that they were not Communists. The committee requested the Justice Department to prosecute. Christoffel is honorary president of the local and Buse is president.

The case may prove to be a forerunner and an advance test if the Taft-Hartley Labor bill becomes law.

Under the Labor Act now before President Truman, union officials would be required to file affidavits stating that they are not members of the Communist Party. In the event of a dispute over the truth of such an affidavit the union officials would be subject to prosecution for perjury.

The House Labor Committee heard considerable testimony that a 1941 strike of Local 242 was led by Communists in an effort to slow America's defense during the period of the Soviet-Nazi alliance.

Representative Charles Kersten (R., Wis.), a member of the Labor Committee, was the grand jury's first witness.

Chairman Fred A. Hartley, jr. (R., N. J.) is also a scheduled witness.

The House Committee on Un-American Activities meanwhile has been forced to postpone indefinitely an inquiry into Communist leadership of labor unions. Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. J.) said the delay was necessitated because committee members have been subpenaed in connection with impending trials of Communist Leaders Eugene Dennis and Leon Josephson, both charged with contempt of Congress.

Hearings will have to be postponed until committee members and staff can be available, Thomas said.

The committee was to start next week with public hearings into charges by Bridgeport, Conn., local union leaders that the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers Union, CIO, is Communist-dominated.

An inquiry was also in progress on charges of Communist domination of the Winston-Salem, N. C., local of the Food, Tobacco, and Agricultural Workers Union, CIO.

July 26 Set as Adjournment Limit for Congress Session

Senate District Chairman C. Douglass Buck (R., Dela.) yesterday moved to prepare for Washington's sesquicentennial celebration in 1950.

Senator Buck introduced a joint resolution, drafted with the advice of Washington official and civic groups, to set up a 15-member commission that would run the celebration.

Buck Bill to Prepare For Sesquicentennial

the two houses would be empowered in the recess resolution to call Congress back.

He noted that the President had power to call Congress back at any time, and said he could act for the Democratic leadership. Under wartime arrangement in vogue for the last six years, leaders of both parties in Congress were voted joint authority to recall Congress.

Senator Taft told reporters Congress "possibly" might adjourn by July 25, but July 26 was the date tentatively set. House leaders had indicated they would be ready to adjourn by July 18.

Not docketed for House action, but apparently slated for a Senate vote were the Federal aid to education bill, favorably reported by a Public Works Subcommittee, and the Taft-Fulbright bill creating a new Department of Welfare, Education and Security, now on the Senate calendar. The favorably reported Wagner-Taft-Ellender bill also is slated for Senate action, but is not on the House leaders' list.

Not definitely on either docket were the more controversial minimum wage, FEPC and anti-poll-tax bills. Leaders said they didn't discuss universal training, which apparently will go over until next session.

Taft said universal training is "on an agenda of about 10 things, only about two of which will go through."

Taft said the conferees discussed the 25 items taken up with the "big six" at the White House Monday. He said the list "isn't very important" but most of the measures on it will be passed in one form or another.

Among items on the list he ruled definitely out was the so-called Mundt bill, authorizing the State Department's world-wide information and cultural program, including "Voice of America" broadcasts. The bill is now before the House.

Taft said he thought the Senate would adopt the "compromise" plan of Senator Joseph H. Ball (R., Minn.) to vote a six-million-dollar temporary appropriation for the program. The House failed to provide any funds.

Among items on the President's list which Taft said were "in the works" were extension of some parts of the Second War Powers Act, extended authority for the Maritime Commission to operate tankers, continued export controls, and extended ODT powers. He said the last might be handled by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Representing the House at the conference were Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr. (Mass.), Majority Leader Charles A. Halleck (Ind.), Majority Whip Leslie Arends (Ill.), House Rules Chairman Leo Allen (Ill.) and Representative Clarence Brown (Ohio).

Taft's group represented the Senate Republican conference. Besides the Ohioan, the Senate group included Senate Majority Whip Kenneth S. Wherry (Nebr.), Senator Owen Brewster (Maine), Senator William F. Knowland (Calif.), Senator Homer Ferguson (Mich.), Senator Raymond E. Baldwin (Conn.), and Senator James P. Kem (Mo.).

Oil Supply Depends on 6 'Ifs'

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Six "ifs" stand in the way of a severe gasoline shortage this summer and a serious furnace oil shortage this fall, Secretary of State Marshall and about 50 other Government and oil company officials were told yesterday.

The meeting, called by Secretary Krug to consider the threatened shortages, was told by Max Ball, director of the Oil and Gas Division of the Interior Department, that no Nation-wide crisis will result, if

1. Conferences between tanker crews and operators, scheduled to start today, do not end in strikes.
2. Congress continues the power of the Maritime Commission to charter tankers for oil shipments before present authority expires June 30.
3. Refinery workers do not strike.
4. More American tankers are sold for foreign registry.
5. More steel is made available for more pipe lines and to make more tank cars for liquified gas.
6. There is not a severe winter.

Unless all these conditions are favorable, Ball said, the country may experience unheated homes and uncooked meals next winter and spot shortages in gasoline, particularly in the Midwest, this summer.

Last night, Capt. Granville Conway, Coordinator of Emergency Export Programs, said that if the present maritime strike should spread to the nation's tankers, the situation would be "just terrific."

So far the strike has not interfered seriously with food and fuel shipments, Conway said. Loading of ships has continued, but the crisis will develop when the loaded ships fail to leave port and loading stops.

Oil experts at the meeting said that a hot summer and heavy tourist travel will cause localized gasoline shortages in August. Such shortages may disappear, they said, when cold weather cuts down motor travel.

A cold winter, they added, would likely bring on severe shortages of natural gas, bottled gas and fuel oils, particularly in the Middle West.

Attending the meeting besides Marshall and Krug were Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Edward H. Foley; Undersecretary of War Kenneth C. Royall; Undersecretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan; Undersecretary of Commerce William C. Foster; War Assets Administrator Robert M. Littlejohn; J. Monroe Johnson of the Office of Defense Transportation, and representatives from all other cabinet offices.

Freight Stops To U. S. Ships

John W. Gibson planned talks with both sides here in an effort to end quickly the stoppage involving five CIO unions with 200,000 members. The stappage began last Sunday midnight when contracts of the unions expired.

Unions involved besides the NMU are the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union; the American Communications Association, which is negotiating with employers on both coasts; the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, which has agreed to a one-year contract extension on the West Coast and is negotiating for a similar agreement on the East Coast, and the Marine Cooks and Stewards, who also are seeking an extension of their contract.

Ask 15, 20% Raises

The NMU and ACA are asking 20 and 15 per cent wage boosts, respectively, as well as other contract gains.

The NMU presidents' instructions to his men to continue maintenance work on their vessels but not to sail them remained in effect. Under this policy, he estimated 700 ships were tied up.

However, shipping activity continued brisk on the West Coast. The ILWU agreed to a one-year contract extension there and its members remained at work. But the union agreed to cooperate in a formal strike call if one is issued. Most West Coast vessels are manned by AFL seamen. These men also continued on the job.

The Hampton Roads port at Norfolk, Va., reported at least six ships ready to sail were tied up when their NMU crews walked uff. Several tankers and colliers, not affected so far by the stoppage, left the port.

Hampton Roads Hit

Norfolk, Va., June 17 (AP).—Shipping in Hampton Roads felt the crippling effect of the National Maritime Union (CIO) "no contract, no work" policy today with at least six ships ready to sail, but unable to because their crews had walked off.

Five of these six ships were loaded with coal, four scheduled for transatlantic crossings and one to Canada. The sixth, the SS Western Sword had been scheduled to sail "light" after having unloaded a shipment of sulphur here.

Four other ships with NMU crews were loading coal today and three other NMU manned ships were registered and ready to load. It was expected that the sailing of these also would be held up.

46 Ships Idle in Baltimore

Baltimore, June 17 (AP).—Some 46 ships remained tied up in Baltimore harbor today as strike of 3000 CIO seafarers rounded out its second day.

Shipping circles feared there would soon be a glut of idle ships at wharves and anchorages. About 20 ships were loaded or unloading cargo but their crews either had one "on the beach" or stayed aboard and refused to sail.

About 2000 of those involved are members of the National Maritime Union and the remainder are members of the National Union of Marine Cooks and Stewards or radio operators belonging to the American Communications Association.

Only one American flag ship has left the port since the strike started Monday morning, and it was manned by an AFL crew.

Chest 'Nonsupport' Suit Is Dismissed

Justice James M. Proctor of District Court yesterday dismissed a suit brought by an unemployed Washingtonian to compel the Community Chest Federation to contribute to his support.

The justice ruled the court did not have jurisdiction in the case. The suit was brought by William M. DeLay, 922 F st. nw., naming the Federation, the Family Service Assn., and Herbert L. Willett, jr., Federation head, as defendants.

that the sustained veto ends tax-reducing efforts this year.

Said Taft: "My personal opinion is that there will be no further tax action this session."

Second Tax Veto

It was the second tax bill in history vetoed by a President, and the only such veto ever sustained. Former President Roosevelt's veto of the 1944 tax bill was overridden after Senate Democrats, led by Kentucky's Alben Barkley, revolted.

Yesterday's House vote was taken without debate and without an advance quorum call. Leaders decided against the hour's debate permitted. Unchallenged from the Democratic side, Knutson simply told the House:

"I know of no bill that has been discussed more than this one. It is filled with sophistry. But I do not know that anything would be gained by further discussion."

When the close vote was announced, Halleck demanded a recapitulation of the count. The recapitulation confirmed the prior vote.

Veto Seen Aiding GOP

Spokane, Wash., June 17 (AP).—B. Carroll Reece, Republican National Chairman, said today in an interview, that the death of the tax reduction bill would mean that "the now discredited New Deal spending philosophy . . . will be even more emphatically repudiated in 1948."

Reece said that the bill would have actually increased tax revenues through stimulation of commerce and industry and thus helped retire the national debt.

3rd Party Rejected

Wallace Bid For Morse Rebuffed

By the United Press

Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.) said yesterday that Henry Wallace "is mistaken" in his belief that Morse would go along with a third political party.

Wallace told a group of National Youth lobbyists Monday that "I think Senator Morse would go along with us" in a third party, if one developed.

Yesterday Morse issued a statement making it plain that he would do no such thing.

"It is my deep conviction that the only hope for sane and sound progressive politics in America is through liberalizing the Republican party," Morse said.

"What we need is neither reaction nor leftism but a progressive middle-of-the-road course of action which will perpetuate our constitutional form of government and protect individual and human rights, including protection of the economic weak from the exploitation of the economic strong.

"The fatal weakness of any third party movement is that it would become the party of the leftists, and their political philosophy is as dangerous to the welfare and rights of the American people, both as individuals as population, as is the blind reaction of those who want to return us to the economic pattern of the 1920's."

Berlin Papers Hail Wallace

Berlin, June 17 (AP).—Russian-controlled newspapers here gave banner headlines today to Henry A. Wallace's suggestion that President Truman and Prime Minister Stalin confer in Berlin.

Wallace "speaks with the voice of reason," said the Soviet-licensed Nacht Express.

Wallace Tour Concluded

New York, June 17 (AP).—Henry A. Wallace said today he had no more speaking engagements and no political plans "until the fall." He added: "I will be busy during the summer with duties as editor of the magazine New Republic."

U. S. Reds Trying To Use Wallace, Berle Charges

Cleveland, June 17 (INS).—Adolph A. Berle, jr., former Assistant Secretary of State, charged today that American Communists seek to use Henry Wallace in the next election to defeat President Truman for opposing Russian imperialism.

The former government official, now State chairman of the Liberal Party in New York, made the accusation in an address before 900 delegates to the twenty-sixth convention of the AFL-International Ladies Garment Workers Union in Cleveland.

Berle immediately expressed a hope that the former Vice President and Commerce Secretary would "see through this shoddy business and not permit himself to be used."

"A European campaign was commenced" against President Truman by Communist propaganda bureaus, Berle charged, as soon as he proclaimed his dislike of aggression by anyone.

Bevin Consults With French

munist evening paper Ce Soir said today:

"The British Foreign Secretary will appear in Paris as a traveling salesman of Wall Street banks, putting forward an attempt to Americanize Europe as a demonstration of international solidarity."

The companion Communist paper, l'Humanite, said the Marshall plan would reduce France to the status of a colony and definitely cut Europe in two.

Faced with the retreat of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek before the Communists in China, l'Humanite said, the United States is now turning to Europe in search of markets for its economic expansion."

Czechoslovakia, Cuba Compared By Ambassador

Annapolis, Md., June 17 (AP).—Czechoslovakia's Ambassador, Dr. Juraj Slavik, here today for a radio interview, said his nation's freedom and independence were "a most cherished treasure."

The Ambassador, appearing on one of a series of programs conducted by Ian Ross MacFarlane (Wann), comporade his country's position with Cuba's.

Whereas the two countries were about the same in shape, he remarked, his own nation had Germany and Hungary as neighbors and as "good neighbors Russia, Poland and Austria."

He described Czechoslovakia as "a democratic, progressive country, independent and sovereign," and invited Americans to visit it this summer.

"We have nothing to hide," he added.

Figures, Documents Presented as an Introduction to Case

Jerusalem, June 17 (AP).—The Jewish Agency laid its preliminary claims for a Jewish Palestine state before the United Nations Commission on the Holy Land today, as the 11-nation body held its first formal open hearing amid flashing photographic bulbs and ceremonious introductions.

Moshe Shertok, 53-year-old Russian-born political chieftain of the agency, presented a series of figures and documents and reviewed Jewish accomplishments in Palestine.

"This should not be regarded as the presentation of our case, but merely as a factual and statistical introduction to it," he said.

Shertok was introduced by the commission's chairman, Emil Sandstroem, chief justice of Sweden. During Sandstroem's opening words, a photographer's flashbulb exploded with a bang and bomb-conscious spectators instinctively ducked for cover.

Session Opens Amid Threats

The session opened amid threats by the Urgun Zvai Leumi and Stern gang, which may bring large scale violence to the Holy Land before the week is over, the United Press reported.

[Irgun pamphlets scattered in Tel Aviv warned the British that they have only "a few days" to commute the death sentences of three Irgunists, imposed yesterday, before the Irgunists go into action with reprisals, the UP. said.

The Stern gang issued similar threats in a four-page memorandum to the commission, declaring Sternists would be compelled to "adopt most drastic measures" unless the British met the terms of a truce offered by the Stern gang, according to the dispatch.—Editor's note.]

After Shertok had completed an hour-long resume citing industrial and agricultural contributions of Jews in Palestine, he was asked by Dr. Nicholas S. Blom of the Netherlands:

"Who decides who is a Jew in Palestine?"

"Religion usually decides," Shertok said. "He is not required to be active in religion, but if he takes another religion he automatically leaves the Jewish community.

Marriage to Non-Jew

"If he marries a non-Jew, then the person he marries does not become a member of the (Jewish) community unless she takes the religion by performance of certain religious rites."

Asked by Blom about the number of Jewish converts, Shertok said he did not have the figures with him, but could supply them. He added that "We discourage proselytization."

Shertok then was asked about relations between the Palestine government and the Jewish Agency, which is the official spokesman for the Holy Land's 600,000 Jews.

"Present relationships are unknown," he replied. "Before 1939, there were frequent contacts at all levels, but the White Paper caused conditions to become abnormal, which they have remained because the White Paper conflicts with the mandate."

Jewish sources said privately that the agency might suggest the partition of Palestine, into Arab and Jewish areas, as one possible solution to the Holy Land's problems. These informants said the "majority of Jews in Palestine" would accept partition, if the Jewish state thus formed would include most of the coastal plain, the Negeb Desert area to the south, and Galilee.

Commission members declined to comment on a plea from Irvun Zvai Lemme, Jewish underground organization, which asked the international body to intervene to stay the execution of the three Irgun members sentenced yesterday to death for participation in the recent mass delivery from Acre Prison.

Moslems Shout For Holy War

Cairo, Egypt, June 17 (U.P.).—A mass meeting of 15,000 Moslems today roared for "Jehad"—a holy war—as speaker after speaker urged them to prepare for bloodshed in defense of Palestine, North Africa and other Arab areas "threatened by foreign intervention."

Truth Maintains Liberty, Pope Says

Ottawa, Ontario, June 17 (INS).—Pope Pius XII declared tonight in a special message on the eve of the Roman Catholic Marian Congress in Ottawa that liberty can be maintained only through truth.

The pointiff's message was addressed to James Cardinal McGuigan, archbishop of Toronto and papal legate to the congress which has as its purpose an appeal to the Virgin Mary for her intercession in obtaining permanent peace.

The five-day festival is expected to be attended by 200,000 worshipers.

Missing Soprano Found at Farm

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

ROSEMARIE VON TRAPP, 18-year-old soprano member of the famous Trapp family singers, returned safely yesterday to her Stone, Vt., chalet-like home from a storm-lashed mountain forest in which she had wandered without food for 60 hours following a family tiff. The tall, slender girl, who left home Saturday a few hours after graduating from Mount St. Mary's Academy in Burlington, walked into a farm-home with her braided hair disheveled and her clothing drenched and torn. It was said that she left possibly because she had been brooding over the recent death of her father, Baron George von Trapp, World War I commander of an Austrian U-boat fleet, who fled to the United States to escape Nazi persecution prior to World War II.

Truman Calls Training Vital

warned, they might not be able to resist "the encroachments of totalitarian pressures."

[The train carrying President Truman back to Washington from Princeton arrived here at 6:25 p. m. (Eastern Daylight Time).—Editor's note.]

The President, who was awarded an honorary degree of doctor of laws, spoke at what was certainly the most colorful and intellectually distinguished ceremony in the country today.

Behind him was ivy-colored Nassau Hall, tradition-filled heart of Princeton's campus. Before him, under towering shade trees, were the Princeton faculty and scholars representing more than 400 American and foreign colleges and universities, gathered to do honor to the 200th anniversary of Princeton's chartering.

Their academic hoods of every vivid shade, their scholastic caps of every shape, their ermine stoles and a scattering of American and foreign dress uniforms made an unforgettable rainbow.

Flanking the President on the platform were 36 other distinguished military, religious, scientific, and learned and civic figures on whom President Harold W. Dodds of Princeton also conferred honorary doctorates.

'Preventive' Training

Mr. Truman's address received occasional applause, but its essence, conforming to the solemnity and stateliness of the ceremony, was not such as to provoke cheers. His message was serious; it dealt with education for peace and education for government affairs.

Universal training, the President argued, would be in itself education, "an experience in democratic living, out of which should come in increased measure the unity so beneficial to the welfare of the Nation."

It would make American youth not only better equipped to serve their country in a military way, but also better "mentally, morally and physically." And above all, it would be training of these men "not . . . in order to win a war, but in order to prevent one."

More bluntly, Mr. Truman insisted on the necessity of the universal training program—which President Roosevelt before him sought unsuccessfully—as the only device by which America can "maintain effective reserves."

Speaks of Mind Training

It is needed to provide national military strength required to support out foreign policy, "until such time as the growing authority of the United Nations will make such strength unnecessary."

But the President, turning his remarks to the Nation's educational institutions, spoke also of another kind of training, that of the "minds of men," in which "the defenses of peace must be constructed."

That is "the supreme task which our educational institutions must set for themselves," he said.

In addition, Mr. Truman broached an idea for a program which apeared to be close to that of the British civil service.

More and more, he pointed out, have people entrusted the Government with increased power and responsibility as an agent of peace and a guardian of democratic rights.

But this expanded role of government demands effective administration. The Government, successful in recruiting men of specialized training, has been "much less effective in obtaining persons with broad understanding and an aptitude for management."

He asked universities, therefore, to study the needs of government and train students with exceptional abilities to enter the Federal service.

Meantime, he acknowledged, the Government on its part "must take several steps to make its career service more attractive to the kind of men and women it needs."

The chief obstacle at present, he admitted, is salary limitations. He proposed laws to "bring salaries more nearly into line with the heavy responsibilities that executives carry at the higher levels in the public service."

He asked also for a systematic training program of civilian employes once they have entered the Government. He proposed, without going into details, a joint university-Government training program.

With this, and with more attractive salaries, he looked forward to the founding of "a career group of administrators skilled in the various aspects of management."

Receiving honorary degrees with the President were Cardinal Tisserant, famed Orientalist and Vatican librarian, resplendent in his red robes and cap of eccelesiastical office; General Eisenhower and Admiral Nimitz, in khaki and white, respectively; elder statesman Bernard M. Baruch; towering 3 inches above the next tallest man on the platform.

There was former Admiral Ben Morcell, commander and founder of the Seabees; Douglas Southall Freeman, historian-editor of the Richmond News Leader; President Mildred McAfee Horton of Wellesley, the only woman to receive the honorary degree; the poet-essayist-critic T. S. Eliot; Serge Koussevitzky of the Boston Symphony; Warren R. Austin, chief of American delegates to the U. N., Chief Justice Vinson and the Governor General of Canada, Viscount Alexander of Tunis, in the salmon-colored robes of his British University.

Among other recipients were Judge Learned Hand, Charles F. Kettering, Alfred P. Sloan, jr., Vannevar Bush, and John Von Neumann, famed mathematician and inventor of an electronic computer which may render all mathematicians, including himself, superfluous.

Another great mathematician, Princeton's Albert Einstein, sat on the platform. Next to him was former President Herbert Hoover, who received an honorary degree from the university in 1917.

President Truman came to Princeton this morning in his special train, with Mrs. Truman, Admiral Leahy, Eisenhower, Nimitz and Vinson.

His party was met by President Dodds, robed in their gowns and led into the long academic procession.

After the ceremony, the final event of a series which has been conducted through the academic year as part of the bicentennial celebration, Mr. Truman and his party were Dodds' guests for luncheon in the university president's house.

In Petkov Case

U. S. Protest Rejected by Bulgar Head

Sofia, Bulgaria, June 17 (U.P.).—Premier Georgi Dimitrov last night rejected United States protests concerning the arrest of opposition leader Nicola Petkov and claimed Bulgaria was not violating the freedom clause of the peace treaty by clamping down on "Fascists and organizations against the United Nations."

Dimitrov complained the United States State Department was placing the Communist-controlled Bulgarian regime on trial "together with the trial of Petkov."

He said Bulgaria hoped "all of those anxious in Petkov's fate will be armed with patience and await the just verdict of the Bulgarian sovereign court and will abstain from actions which would be of a nature to hinder the establishment of necessary formal relations between Bulgaria and the United States."

"Short-sighted people thought the arrest of Petkov would cause disturbances, riots and even guerilla activities against the fatherland front government," Dimitrov said. "Now they can be convinced nothing of that sort happened.

"Order and calm reign throughout Bulgaria."

2-Group Study Of Reds' Atom Plan Is Slated

Lake Success, June 17 (AP).—A tentative agreement was reached today to split up consideration of Russia's new atomic control proposals between two major committees of the U. N. Atomic Energy Commission.

That was the principal achievement of a two-hour procedure wrangle at a closed session of the commission's working committee.

At the outset, United States Representative Frederick Osborn said he and Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko had failed in private conversations to settle their differences over procedure after last Friday's session.

Gromyko at that time had insisted the Soviet and American proposals should be considered simultaneously by the political committee, while Osborn had contended that the Soviet proposals should be discussed first by the working committee.

Osborn slightly modified his position today by saying that relevant parts of the Soviet plan might be considered by the political committee in connection with other working papers now before that group.

Gromyko insisted that his proposals were before the political committee and should be considered by that body. He offered no objections, however, when Australian Delegate William R. Hodgson, committee chairman, suggested that the political committee take up relevant points of the Soviet proposal in connection with other proposals.

Gromyko later agreed that the working committee might go ahead with discussion of two major Soviet points, one dealing with the composition of a control agency and the other with the veto question.

Rhee Asks 'Clear-Cut' Government for Korea

Seoul, Korea, June 17 (U.P.).—Dr. Syngman Rhee demanded Monday that South Korea have either a clear-cut communist or democratic government. He said that a "chop suey government" with some communists participating would not work.

Rhee, former president of the exiled Korean government at Chungking, China, said he had little confidence that the Russo-American joint commission for Korea would give Koreans "democratic independence."

Nagy Charges Kovacs Forced To Confess

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

Hungary's ousted Premier, Ferenc Nagy, charged yesterday that "the most inhuman methods" had been used to extort a "confession" from Bela Kovacs, arrested leader of the anti-Communist Smallholders Party.

Nagy

Nagy, who is here in Washington as an exile, told a press conference he was "absolutely convinced" of the untruthfulness of Kovacs' "confession." It was on information allegedly supplied by Kovacs that Nagy was dismissed as Premier.

"Kovacs has been a friend of mine for 20 years," said Nagy, "and he could not have taken part in any conspiracy. His crime was that he opposed the campaign of the Communist to increase their power. It pains me to think of the methods by which a 'confession' was forced from him."

Nagy said he had no positive proof of the use of torture by the Communists to get confessions, but said it had been "public knowledge" through the "grapevine" in Budapest, especially in the few weeks preceding his resignation.

Speaks in Hungarian

Nagy faced the press at the Burlington Hotel on Vermont ave., where he is making his Washington headquarters. He spoke in Hungarian, with an interpreter present to translate his answers.

He repudiated a newspaper report from Shannon, Eire, that he had blamed President Truman's policy in Greece and Turkey for recent events in Hungary. He explained he had been interviewed at the Shannon airport on his way here by a reporter who knew no other language than English, and that finally an interpreter was found who could speak only "primitive French." The result, he said, was a complete twisting of what he really meant.

Nagy said his job in exile was "in all cases to inform the world of what is happening in Hungary" and to be "the spokesman of a voiceless people." He said he had no plans as yet to see either President Truman or Secretary Marshall, although he would see State Department officials.

In a formal statement Nagy conceded that among those accused by the Communists "there might have been some people who had talked and written fantastic and childish things, but the leaders or the rank and file of the Smallholders Party did not plot against the country." He declined to name the people in question or the "childish things" they had said.

"The events in Hungary, as well as in many other countries in southeastern Europe, make it distinctly clear that the Soviets and Communists do not seek fair and genuine cooperation, but dominance," his statement said. To them, the coalition is only a means to save the appearance of representative government, and nothing short of unconditional surrender is considered by Russia as a friendly gesture.

"As a consequence of Russian and Communist conspiracy, Hungary has lost her independence. The Hungarian people are no longer responsible for the words or deeds of their imposed rulers. I protest against the aggression to which my country has fallen victim.

"A leader of the duly elected majority, ousted from my office by a Russian Communist conspiracy, I am a trustee for the cause of Hungary, until the Hungarian people will be granted an opportunity to express their will in free and unfettered elections and to carry out their own decision."

Pravda Blames U. S. Diplomat in China Clash

Moscow, June 17 (AP).—Pravda declared today that the circumstances suggested that a United States diplomat "prepared and organized" a clash June 5 between Chinese and Outer Mongolian troops, and said the fight took place when Chinese forces had invaded Outer Mongolia.

(The Chinese Central News agency reported last week that Mongolian troops, supported by warplanes bearing Soviet markings, had invaded China's remote Sinkiang Province. A Chinese government spokesman accused Russia of partial responsibility for what he called the invasion of China. Outer Mongolia was recognized as independent by China last year following a plebiscite, in fulfillment of the Chinese-Russian treaty of 1945. Soviet Russia and Outer Mongolia have a treaty providing for mutual aid.)

In a dispatch from Shanghai, the Communist Party newspaper quoted travelers from Sinkiang as saying that J. Hall Paxton, U. S. Consul in Tihwa, Sinkiang capital, was the diplomat involved.

Pravda said these travelers reported that Paxton, under direct orders from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, had taken extensive photographs last April in the vicinity where the borders of Russia, The Mongolian People's Republic and China meet.

"These circumstances," the newspaper said, formed the "foundation for the rumor that Paxton prepared and organized this incident on territory of the Mongolian People's Republic."

Pravda said that a United States State Department representative had asserted that "the only information which he has on the situation is a report of the American Consul in Sinkiang."

"He also asserted his information coincided with that of the Chinece Central News Agency," the dispatch continued. "These reports have created the impression that the American Consul has been a participant in reports of the Chinese Central News Agency on the above mentioned incident."

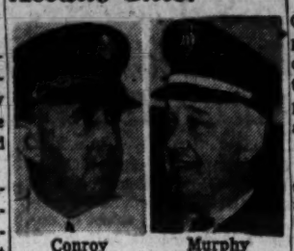
(An Associated Press dispatch from Nanking Wednesday said a Mongol cavalry battalion rode 50 miles into Sinkiang Province June 6 on a punitive compaign, apparently to force the release of eight Mongolian soldiers seized by a Chinese border patrol.)

Paxton Is Virginian

Danville, Va., June 17 (AP).—Hall Paxton, mentioned in the Pravda article, is a son of Mrs. John W. Paxton, now in Danville. He gives his home as Danville but he was born at Galesburg, Ill.

He lived his early life in China as the son of Presbyterian missionaries. His China experience is said to have enabled him to master several Chinese dialects useful in later appointments as a diplomat in the Orient.

Fire Captain Assails Chief



Conroy Murphy

At yesterday's House District Subcommittee hearing on the bill which would give firemen a five-day week, Capt. Joseph W. Conroy of Engine Company 19, charged that Fire Chief Clement Murphy "has contributed nothing to the Fire Department but demoralization." Murphy would not answer the personal attack. "I refer to my record of 29 years service," he said. (Story on Page 1)

Chicago Sales Tax Rejected by Mayor

Chicago, June 17 (AP).—A proposed one-half per cent city sales tax to overcome an anticipated nine-million-dollar deficit in the Chicago municipal treasury this year was rejected Monday by Democratic Mayor Martin H. Kennelly, who said it would be "inequitable."

A citizens advisory committee that made the proposal said it was reconsidering other possible solutions, including business licensing.

Former Officer In Navy Draws Fine, Sentence

New York, June 17 (AP).—Former Navy Commander John D. Corrigan, 47, convicted last week of conspiring to deprive the Government of his impartial services as a Navy officer, was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment and fined $5000 in Federal Court Monday by Judge Henry W. Goddard.

Robert H. Wells, 47, Corrigan's partner in the industrial engineering firm of Corrigan, Osburne & Wells of New York and Chicago, also convicted, was sentenced to a year and a day in prison. The firm was fined $10,000.

The defendants were convicted of conspiracy to use Corrigan's wartime post as a factory inspector for the Naval Bureau of Ordnance to divert the business of war manufacturers to the Corrigan firm on threat of making unfavorable reports to the Navy on the war plants' production methods.

Chinese Reds Make Landing

Peiping, June 17 (U.P.).—Chinese Communist amphibious forces reportedly landed south of Tangku, only 26 miles east of Tientsin, today, threatening government positions throughout North China and Manchuria.

Reports from Tangku, a port on the Gulf of Chihli, said that between 5000 and 6000 Communists already had established a firm beachhead and had started northward to the mouth of the Grand Canal, connecting Tientsin with the gulf.

The last remaining American force in China—1900 Marines—was embarking on ships in Tangku harbor, scheduled to sail for home Thursday. Apparently the Communists planned to take over the area as soon as the Marines depart.

Press reports said strong Nationalist forces were sent to Tangku and that the small Chinese navy was steaming toward the port.

Martial law was tightened in Tientsin and Peiping, already threatened by Communists in the north.

Military sources indicated that the Government's frantic efforts to reinforce Tientsin and Peiping would prove futile. The Communists held the cities until October, 1945, when United States Marines took over. The Communists evacuated, but not too far. They have been able to cut the Tientsin-Peiping Railway at almost any time they wished and have maintained headquarters in the hilly area between the two cities since the end of the war.

The Communists apparently control the railway between Tientsin and Tangku, since United States Marines announced they would evacuate in small boats along the Grand Canal.

Since all railroads to Manchuria go through either Tientsin or Peiping, except a branch road through Chahar Province—already under Communist control—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's forces throughout the northeast are in peril.

My two years with Truman
by
GEORGE E. ALLEN
Manager of Truman's 1944 Vice Presidential Campaign and one of the President's closest personal friends

President Truman's close personal friend and former "political handy man" tells the authoritative, inside story of the Truman Administration. George E. Allen's frank, outspoken article reveals how President Roosevelt announced his choice of Truman (rather than Wallace) for Vice President in 1944. He discloses the "fast one" Harold Ickes pulled on Truman, and how Stalin reacted when Truman told him about our new weapon, the atom bomb. You'll also find out how Truman came to okay Henry Wallace's explosive foreign policy speech —and then fired Wallace a few days later. Allen predicts what Truman's chances in '48 will be and who will run with him—and against him. You had better read it, for everyone will be talking about this fascinating and enlightening article in today's Post.

Jail Unlikely For Curley For a While

Mayor James M. Curley of Boston is not likely to start his 6 to 18 months in prison for mail fraud for some time.

The 72-year-old Curley lost his last hope of appeal in the Supreme Court Monday, and the District Court may be officially notified to that effect today. District Attorney George Morris Fay will then be free to have Curley haled into court and started to a Federal prison.

However, Curley is in a Conasset, Mass., hospital with diabetes and high blood pressure. After he was told that the Supreme Court had turned him down, he asked for a priest yesterday morning, and was given the last rites of the Catholic Church. Dr. Edward H. Schott said he was nervous and restless.

In such a case, Curley's lawyers —William E. Leahy and Nicholas J. Chase—may ask for delay, until he is able to come to court.

Beside this practical matter, there still are legal measures left for Curley. Justice James M. Proctor has 60 days in which to take up any plea for a lighter sentence that Curley's counsel might file. A new trial might be asked for Curley, on the ground that new evidence had been discovered.

Besides these hopes, there is always the writ of habeas corpus. As soon as Curley is in the hands of the marshal he would be free to ask for his liberty if he could find any ground for claiming his imprisonment was wrong.

to go to the first-aid room and he walked slowly out of court. Once outside he sagged and two marshals hauled him to a cot. His attorney, Austin F. Canfield, president of the District Bar Association, brought Mrs. Freeman to his side and she went with her husband to Casualty Hospital.

Freeman has been troubled with a throat ailment, but he was found to have suffered a heart attack as well. He said last night he did not know when he went to court yesterday that he was sick, that he felt bad but laid this to a cold he caught during the weekend.

Freeman was ordered to stay in the hospital a week or 10 days, which may prevent his finishing his testimony for the defense as well as cross-examination by the Government.

Charles J. Margiotti, chief Garsson counsel, said he would ask leave to bring Freeman back to the stand if he was able to come at any time during trial. If Freeman could not come, Margiotti said, he might ask the court to go with the jury to the hospital, or to allow him to be questioned in his room and have his answers read in court.

Building of D. C. Asphalt Plant To Be Considered

Officials are thinking of building a $300,000 asphalt manufacturing plant to reduce the cost of repairing Washington's streets.

House District Appropriations Chairman Walt Horan (R., Wash.) disclosed the idea will be studied, after he heard highway officials tell of mounting costs of repair work.

"Street repair here costs too much money," said Horan. "Cost of all street paving materials have skyrocketed."

Horan said he will join with Representative Karl Stefan (R., Nebr.) to seek reopening of the District's highway material testing laboratory. He estimated the District has lost $150,000 since the plant was closed by appropriations bill riders 14 years ago.

Quadruplet Dies; 3 Others Gaining

Miles City, Mont., June 17 (U.P.)—Donna Mae Randash, smallest of the quadruplets born here Saturday, died just before midnight last night.

The other three babies born to Mrs. Edward Randash of Baker, Mont., were taking mixture of milk and water through an eye-dropper every two hours. Dr. Elna Howard, attending physician, said they were gaining strength.

Major Mississippi River Flood Expected

Keokuk, Iowa, June 17 (U.P.)—Heavy rains poured torrents of water down Iowa streams today and Army engineers warned that a major flood would hit a 150-mile stretch of the central Mississippi Valley within 24 hours.

Hundreds of farmers in lowland areas had fled taking with them furniture, chickens and livestock. The number of homeless, which reached 20,000 in Iowa, Missouri, Illinois and Nebraka a few days ago and then dropped off, was building up rapidly as floodwaters rose.

Great areas of farmland were under water from recent floods. Whole villages were flooded. And rising floodwaters were spreading over new areas.

Corn Crop Blasted

The Iowa Department of Agriculture predicted that most of the flooded bottomland in the southern half of this tall corn State would produce no corn—the Nation's basic crop—this year. Crop losses in Iowa alone, the department said, will run into the "millions of dollars."

Heavy rains in northern Iowa brought one flash flood and predictions of others. A flood hit Waverly, Iowa, on the Cedar River, and inundated the entire southern section of town (pop. 5000).

Col. W. N. Leaf of the Army Engineers at Rock Island, Ill., said the danger area on the Mississippi extended from Wapello, Iowa, to Clarkesville, Mo. Surrounding the area nearly 400,000 acres of the Nation's richest farmland, protected from the river only by levees already weakened by last week's floods.

The Sny Levee, south of Quincy, Ill., was endangered by the pounding Mississippi. The Red Cross at St. Louis said the levee might give way at any time. The agency was preparing evacuation of the 600 residents of Hull, Ill. If the levee breaks, the agency said, it will have to care for 1500 to 3000 persons in the area.

Above Keokuk, the Des Moines River had spilled over its banks for 12 miles between Alexandria, Mo., and St. Francisville, Mo. The water spilled toward Wayland, eight miles from the river, where evacuees from Alexandria still were waiting for last week's flood waters to recede from their homes.

Resignation Voided As Salary Is Doubled

John H. Webb, secretary to the Prince Georges County Board of Electrical Examiners, tried to resign yesterday, but instead had his salary doubled.

Webb, who has held the post since establishment of the board eight years ago, submitted his resignation unaware that a salary increase from $50 monthly to $100, recommended by the Board of Insurance Underwriters, had been favorably received by the commissioners.

Senate Group's Approval Of Perlman Is Predicted

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

The nomination of Philip B. Perlman, Baltimore lawyer, to be Solicitor General, will probably win the approval of a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee, informed sources predicted yesterday.

The subcommittee droned through several hours of examination of the Baltimore Democrat yesterday afternoon without learning anything more serious than that he tried for several years to have the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad reduce his retainer for legal services.

There will be a further hearing in Perlman's qualifications, but no date has been set.

Senator Forrest C. Donnell (R., Mo.), acting chairman in the absence of Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.), yesterday took Perlman and Claude N. Gray, president of the Baltimore Transit Co., back and forth over the story of Perlman's legal services for the Baltimore Transit Co.

Gray testified that the National City Lines, a holding company, owns 31 per cent of the preferred stock of the Baltimore Transit Co., and "somewhat less" than 20 per cent of the common stock.

Donnell pointed out that the Justice Department is bringing action against the National City Lines in California for violation of the Sherman antitrust law. Perlman might have to prosecute that suit if he became Solicitor General, Donnell said.

Gray replied that the Baltimore Transit Co. is not a party to the suit in any way.

Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.) interjected that he wanted the record to show that in any case in which he had previously had even a remote connection, the Solicitor General, like Supreme Court justices, could disqualify himself and not conduct that particular action for the Government.

"It's inevitable that any lawyer who has led a busy and active life will some time run into one of these conflicts if he becomes a justice or an Attorney General," McGrath declared.

F. M. Cross, general counsel for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, testified that over the course of a dozen years the B&O had paid Perlman retaining fees of $37,500.

He had originally been engaged to handle the legal details concerning a proposed operation of the Western Maryland Railway by the B&O. When the proposed operation did not seem to materialize, Perlman repeatedly wrote the railroad to reduce his retainer, or give him work justifying it.

Finally, at his own insistence, he was released as a member of counsel for the railroad.

A Marylander

Bruce Named Argentine Ambassador

President Truman yesterday nominated James Bruce, Maryland corporation executive, to be Ambassador to Argentina, succeeding George Messersmith, who recently resigned.

Bruce, 54, is vice president of the National Dairy Products Corp., and a director of 14 corporations.

Mr. Truman's action completes a series of shifts marking this country's swing to more cordial relations with the Argentines.

Messersmith and Spruille Braden, Assistant Secretary of State for Latin-American affairs, and an exponent of a "firm" Argentine policy, resigned after Mr. Truman's recent announcement that he is satisfied with the South American republic's purge of Fascist influences.

Bruce is a graduate of Princeton University and the University of Maryland. In World War I he was assistant military attache to Italy and representative at the 1919 Peace Conference in Montenegro and Albania.

Young Germans Enlist in French Foreign Legion

Coblenz, Germany, June 17 (AP). Young Germans by the hundreds are marching off to war.

The French Foreign Legion, fighting sporadically in Indo-China and other trouble spots, maintains four recruiting centers in Western Germany, and volunteers are coming from all parts of the devastated Reich.

Eighty per cent are from the Russian and British zones where economic conditions are most difficult.

Highway Safety Group Will Hear President Today

President Truman will address the opening session of the Action Program Group of the President's second Highway Safety Conference, in meeting here today.

The three-day conclave, dedicated to the reduction of the national traffic fatality figure by 10,000 in 1947, opens today in the auditorium of the Department of the Interior. Some 700 traffic experts and State officials are expected to participate.

Delegates will evaluate results of last year's battle against highway accidents and plan further safety activities, said the conference chairman, Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, Federal Works Administrator.

Citizens to Elect

Denny Assails Bill to Control Broadcasts

By The Associated Press

Charles R. Denny, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, told Senators yesterday a proposed new restriction on political broadcasts would be "a serious limitation on free speech."

His criticism was aimed at a proposal which would make radio stations available during political campaigns only to actual candidates, their chosen representatives, or persons named by responsible officials of parties with candidates on the ballot.

He appeared before a Senate Commerce Subcommittee headed by Senator White (R., Me.), which is considering the White bill to overhaul the Communications Act of 1934.

Denny also opposed a proposal in the White bill to bar political broadcasts 24 hours before a national, State or local election.

He said he agrees with the objective—to prevent the making of sensational and uncorroborated charges at the last hour before the election, when the opposition would be unable to answer.

But the FCC chairman pointed out that the same charges could be made at the last minute the radio was available to politicians.

Denny also advised against adoption of a requirement that the source of news, and the source and responsibility for editorial and interpretative comment (which would have to be identified as such) must be announced at the beginning and end of each program.

"I think it's unworkable," he said.

White conceded that the provision was a very difficult one to frame, but said he thinks the listening public should be advised whether it is hearing "fact or fiction."

Denny came prepared with a 67-page exhaustive analysis and criticism of the bill. He objected to so many sections of the measure that Senator Magnuson (D., Wash.) asked if he thought there is need for any new legislation on broadcasting at all.

Denny said the commission has no particular objection to some of the proposals, but he added:

"As we see it, there is no urgent need for the legislation proposed."

Action Postponed On Wool Price Act

By the United Press

The Senate yesterday postponed until today action on the controversial wool price support act because of the absence of Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley, Ky., who is expected to make a strong protest against the measure.

The compromise version, which may run into a presidential veto if the Senate approves it, was adopted by the House Monday over vigorous objections of Secretary of State George C. Marshall and other administration officials who oppose its quota-tariff provisions for foreign wool imports.

Earle Escapes 15th Plane Crash With Minor Hurt

Ambler, Pa., June 17 (AP).—Former Gov. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania said he felt "pretty good" today after stepping from his fifteenth airplane crash with only a minor scratch.

Earle, his son, Lawrence, and Pilot Donald Leas landed an amphibian on its pontoons here yesterday. The pontoons were ripped off, but the three escaped except for a slight cut on Earle's wrist.

Earle crashed at the same spot on Christmas Day, 1938.

2 Men Indicted

The Arlington Circuit grand jury Monday returned three indictments, two of them against the same man.

George H. Turner, 22, of 118 Tanner st., Falls Church, Va., was indicted for housebreaking and for intent to commit bodily harm upon his wife, Ella Turner, last May 19.

According to police, Turner entered the home of Mrs. Ruby Simpson, at 2115 N. Military Road, Arlington, in an attempt to get his wife, employed there as a maid, to leave with him. He was apprehended by police while leaving the home.

The third indictment was returned against Theodore Roosevelt Simons, 31, of 2028 S. Oakland st., Arlington, charged with assaulting Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Epps with a knife on May 21 in their home, 1362 S. Rolfe st., Arlington.

District Court Ruling Saves Millions for U. S. Government

Justice David A. Pine handed down a decision yesterday in District Court which saved the Government between 600 and 700 million dollars.

He ruled against the United States Graphite Co., which had sued the Department of Commerce for claims involving the Amortization Act.

This single court action involved only $175,000, but a decision against the Government could have set a precedent for other claims totaling in hundreds of millions, according to Edward H. Hickey, special assistant to the Attorney General.

In 1943, the United States Graphite Co., then manufacturing marine and aircraft engines, decided it needed a factory addition. In order to get a deduction for amortization of the entire cost of the factory addition on Federal income and excess profits tax payments, the company filed for a certificate of necessity.

This certificate, which permitted the company to amortize the cost of its plant expansion because it was engaged in war work, was granted. However, on July 17, 1944, the Government informed the company that the tax amortization allowable on anything built after that date would be limited to 35 per cent of cost.

The company's main contention was that the law does not authorize the Government to limit amortization.

Wife Hears Pastor's Dying Words on Radio

Ontario, Calif., June 17 (U.P.).—Mrs. Cora McNay sat before her radio today, listening to her husband, the Rev. R. E. McNay, conclude his daily church program with the words: "Lord, we thank Thee for this beautiful day."

Then there was a scuffling sound, a moment of silence and then the minister gasped: "Call a doctor, I'm ill."

He died a few minutes later, in a hospital.

Court Asked to Void Pentagon Fare

The Capital Transit Co. asked District Court yesterday to set aside the commuters' rate between Pentagon area buildings and the local street railway line.

The transit company contends the Interstate Commerce Commission orders for the rate were unconstitutional. The suit asks that District Court set up a three-judge court to decide the case.

Persons employed in nearby Virginia agencies such as the Pentagon can now ride from their homes in Washington to their offices for little more than 13 cents each way.

Recently the Capital Transit Co. protested this fare, contending that under the arrangement it received only 5.83 cents on each ride. The present rate for District fares it was pointed out is 10 cents each.

Capital Transit does not run buses to Virginia, but under the interstate arrangement, meets the Virginia buses of other firms.

The transit company claims it operates at a loss and that the ICC ruling is unjustly confiscatory.

Trapped Miner Saved

Pottsville, Pa., June 17 (AP).—A 26-year-old miner was rescued today after 14 hours entombment 25 feet underground in a caved-in coal mine. George Sleva, 26, of St. Clair was taken to Pottsville Hospital for treatment of shock and a bruised shoulder. His condition was described as good.

Relief Payments Increased in April

General public assistance to members of families jumped nearly 195 per cent during April over the same month last year, the Board of Public Welfare revealed yesterday.

Individual cases increased from 692 in April, 1946, to 1017 during this year, the board reported.

The number of families on relief rolls increased approximately 138 per cent during the same period, the report said.

Welfare officials said the increase was probably due to increased unemployment, particularly among older persons and youths.

PROBABLY that faithful Buick of yours still can show a clean pair of heels to other cars on the road — probably still rides and runs like a charm. It makes you realize how wise you were to have picked a Buick in the first place.

Even though time always takes a toll, Buicks do carry their years well. They can keep their eagerness to go, their light-hearted gait and gentle comfort — particularly when they are rewarded with the considerate care that Buick dealers know how to provide. It's care that brings out your car's youthful spirit — care that lets you feel that suddenly it's young again.

Buick car care is something far different from what's regularly called service. It's something that only a Buick man can give. Because he is trained in all the needs and preferences of Buicks. The tools he uses are the right Buick tools. And any replacement part your car may need is a Buick-engineered part.

So it's easy to see why your car is so ready to give you its best when it receives regular Buick car care — care by men who know Buicks through and through and love them heart and soul.

THIS WORM TURNS A BIG CAR

A Buick steers with a finger touch. Part of the secret is a stream of 66 steel balls that circle the worm on the steering column. With these balls there is so little friction that steering is feather-light — so little wear that the gear stays taut and firm without frequent take-ups.

Your Buick dealer lubricates this gear with just the lubricant Buick intended. Anything heavier would make steering stiff in winter — anything lighter fails to give full protection against wear.

It's another instance of how Buick care keeps Buicks best. And the same holds true in whatever your car needs — lube job tune-up, major or minor repair.

Two Drivers Stage Race On Boulevard

Two race-minded drivers—a man and a women—used the Washington-Baltimore blvd. for a 95-mile-an-hour speedway last night before State police flagged them down, Maryland authorities said.

The woman was arrested, but the man was let go because of "diplomatic immunity." The woman, Mrs. Alberta Brown, 37, of 2535 Georgia ave. nw., was charged with speeding and driving in the wrong lane.

State Trooper William Crist said two wildly careening cars, both 1947 sedans, raced by him on the boulevard at Savage, Md., headed in the direction of the District, shortly after 7 p. m.

Christ couldn't keep up with the pace, which he said ranged from 80 to 95 miles an hour, so he radioed ahead. Trooper Albert Suitt picked up the chase as the two automobiles sped through Laurel.

Suitt forced one car to the side of the road a mile out of Laurel and left Crist to make the arrest. Continuing the chase, Suitt finally overhauled the second car at Berwyn, Md.

"I had to let the man who was driving this car go," said Suitt. "It was a diplomat's car."

The trooper said he couldn't discuss the matter further.

House Committee Testimony Is Challenged as Evidence

By Robert Bruskin
Post Reporter

A legal torpedo may blow out of District Court today conspiracy charges against 16 members of the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee board.

Defense Attorney O. John Rogge late yesterday filed a motion that Justice Richmond B. Keech exclude as evidence all testimony taken before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

The evidence was used as the basis for indictments charging conspiracy to withhold records from the committee and contempt of Congress.

Rogge based his plea on an 1856 law which specifically forbids the use of testimony taken at congressional hearings as evidence in criminal proceedings except for perjury.

The purpose of that act, said Rogge, was to assure complete information to Congress at hearings without fear by the witness that anything he said would be used against him.

Judge Keech indicated he would rule on the motion this morning.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Charles B. Murray admitted that it would be difficult to try the case without the House Committee testimony.

Without the testimony, Rogge said, the Government would be unable to prove that an overt act occurred on the conspiracy charge in Washington.

As for the contempt charge, Rogge said the Government would probably be unable to prove that the 16 defendants had custody of the Refugee Committee's books without calling the defendants themselves as witnesses. The 16 members can refuse to testify against themselves.

In hearings before the House Committee April 4, 1946, each of the defendants testified that they, individually, did not have possession of the organization's records.

Earlier, Rogge announced he would call Henry A. Wallace as an "expert" defense witness to prove the House Committee is unconstitutional. This type of evidence up to now has been excluded by Judge Keech.

Financier Calls Ex-Wife Unfit to Raise Daughters

Towson, Md., June 17 (AP).—Financier Frank M. Nicodemus today sought to wrest custody of two daughters from his divorced wife with evidence that she carried on with a private detective he hired and their 17-year-old daughter knew about it.

Nicodemus, 58-year-old vice president of Commercial Credit Corp., charged that Bessie M. Nicodemus is "morally unfit" to care for their 12- and 17-year-old daughters. He asked they be given into the custody of a neutral party, since the girls already have indicated an unwillingness to live with him.

Offered in evidence were recordings of a five-hour date which private detectives testified the 42-year-old divorcee had with an agent hired by Nicodemus in a Baltimore hotel room which had been wired for sound.

Judge J. Howard Murray indicated he might listen to some of the five-hour recordings later, in private.

Nicodemus has been paying his wife $500 a month alimony. She formerly was his secretary.

Billion-Dollar GOP Savings Called 'Paper'

By The Associated Press

Republican claims of "savings" of $1,411,690,732 in the independent offices appropriation bill were challenged yesterday by Democrats as the House started debate of the 1948 supply measure for 33 miscellaneous agencies.

Representative Hendricks (D., Fla.) told the House that approximately one billion dollars of the claimed savings in the $8,167,869,027 measure are on "paper." The actual budget reduction is only $330,540,732, he said.

The remainder, he added, represents budget revisions made by the Administration, appropriation cancellations and transfers, and increased revenues over what had been anticipated earlier in the year.

Certainly, Hendricks declared, the Republicans cannot take credit for spending reductions recommended by the Administration or for the fact that receipts from ship sales will be larger than anticipated.

Republicans, however, insisted that the budget revisions would not have been made by Administration agencies if the Appropriations Committee had not started an investigation.

Hendricks and other Democrats on the Appropriations Committee indicated they would offer no amendments when the bill is read tomorrow. There are none in sight from the Republican side, and the prospect is the bill will go to the Senate late tomorrow or Thursday without a single change.

Survey of Hospital Rates Approved by City Council

A proposed "impartial survey" of the current controversy between Alexandria's City Council and the Alexandria Hospital over rates charged for the care of indigent patients was unanimously approved by the council last night.

The survey would be conducted by a committee to be designated by the Alexandria Council of Social Agencies, which offered to mediate the dispute about a month ago when negotiations between the city council and the hospital broke down.

The committee, as suggested by the social council, would include one member from each of these organizations: the city council, the hospital's board of trustees, the Community Chest hospitalization committee, the Alexandria Medical Society and the Council of Social Agencies.

The function of the committee would be to study in detail the hospital's finances and to make recommendations on rates to be paid by the city for the care of charity cases. To date, the hospital has demanded a daily rate of $8.81 plus an outright assistance grant of $30,000, while the council has agreed only to pay $7 a day for indigent patients.

Unless a compromise can be reached, the hospital will refuse hospital care to indigents after July 1.

At last night's session, the council also named two members of the city school board to take office July 1. They were Edward Reed, chairman of the board, who was reappointed for a two-year term, and Joseph S. Everley, named to succeed Armistead L. Boothe.

On motion of Councilman Paul L. Delaney, a conference with officials of the Alexandria Water Co. was set for next Tuesday night to discuss possible acquisition of the utility's holdings by the city. Delaney revived a proposal for municipal ownership of the water company two weeks ago, when members of the council objected to the utility's plans to furnish water to a mammoth Fairfax County apartment development.

Jon Hall Admits Publicity Fable

Santa Monica, Calif., June 17 (U.P.).—Actor Jon Hall admitted today that he was lying—for publicity purposes—when he told newspapermen yesterday that he and his wife, singer Frances Langford, were shot down during a plane flight.

The plane was shot down, all right, but Hall and Miss Langford weren't aboard.

The handsome screen hero confessed that he was just "thinking of publicity" when he told reporters yesterday that he, his wife, and Pilot Bill Horner walked away from the landing after a bullet nicked 6 inches off one propeller blade.

Truman's Air Safety Board Silent After First Meeting

President Truman's newly-appointed Safety Board held its first meeting yesterday and began work on a program directed at bringing greater safety to air transportation.

The meeting was in the office of Civil Aeronautics Board Chairman James M. Landis, who heads the new board. Landis said later there would be no statement.

Meeting with Landis were Theodore P. Wright, Civil Aeronautics Administrator; Milton W. Arnold, vice president of the Air Transport Association; Capt. H. B. Cox, American Airlines pilot representing the Airline Pilots Association (AFL), and John W. Crowley, associate director of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

Crowley attended in place of Dr. Jerome C. Hunsaker, chairman of the NACA and fifth member of the new board, who is ill.

Appointment of the new board was announced by President Truman Sunday, less than 48 hours after the Nation had been horrified by the third major air disaster in 16 days, the crash of a big DC-4 against a mountainside near Hillsboro, Va. This latest crash brought the death toll for the three disasters to 146.

The pilots' union has suggested an additional crew member to take some of the load off the pilot and copilot. Among steps which the board might recommend are:

1. Tightening of inspections and checkups by the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

2. Dispersing some of the congestion around busy air terminals during unfavorable weather.

3. Increasing the crew of four-engine planes.

4. Addition of new devices to simplify the job of determining poistion during instrument flight.

Wife Left Reno To Get Rents, Suit Charges

A Washington consulting engineer charged yesterday that his wife, now divorcing him, came back here from Reno secretly in June. While here, he claims, she collected $1000 in rents from their tenants and then took the money back to Reno with her.

The charge was made in a suit filed in District Court by Richard C. Darnell, 3396 Highview ter. se. He wants the court to keep deeds to $120,000 in D. C. property out of the hands of his wife, Dorotha Marie Darnell.

The Darnell marital troubles first reached District Court in 1945 when she asked a divorce on grounds of adultery. Later she dropped the case and, according to the husband, went back to live with him.

Now, he charges, she is in Nevada to get a quick divorce and to get control of the property they now hold jointly.

According to the suit, when difficulties first arose, the couple put the deeds to the property, located in southeast Washington, in escrow. The plan was, according to the suit, that the property be divided between them if there was a divorce, or held jointly if there was a reconciliation.

Darnell contends the temporary reconciliation is enough to entitle him to joint ownership. He says his wife terms the deeds-in-escrow "continuing security."

9-Year-Old Girl Injured in Fall

A 9-year-old girl suffered undetermined injuries last night when she plunged through a skylight on an apartment building and fell two floors down a stairwell.

She was saved from an 8-story fall when she struck the seventh floor railing and managed to hang on at the sixth.

Hospital with a possible fractured pelvis.

She was Micheline Boudrias of 1028 Connecticut ave. nw., who had gone to the sun deck of the building at 1724 17th st. nw. with her parents and the friends they were visiting.

The skylight gave way shortly after she had been sitting on it with her younger sister, Claire, 6. The girl's father, George Boudrias, said she apparently stood up on the painted glass after the younger child walked away.

She was taken to Children's Hospital.

Film Villian Paroled

Hollywood, June 17 (U.P.).—Lawrence Tierney, film villain, today was ordered paroled from the county prison farm tomorrow after serving half of a 90-day sentence for drunkenness. Members of his family said the actor had joined Alcoholics Anonymous while at the farm.

7 Shut-in Pupils Graduate Today From D. C. Schools

Seven students who have been going to school at home will receive diplomas today at 1:30 p. m. during a radio broadcast over Station WMAL. Four will be graduated from high school and three from junior high.

The seven are shut-in pupils who because of injuries or illness can not attend regular classes. They are taught by the public school's visiting instruction corps. Six of the seven will be in the studio for the graduation which is broadcast so that their 100 "schoolmates" can listen in. The high school graduates are:

Carl Baumann, 18, of 1317 4th st. sw.; Donald Eugene Behe, 19, of 1922 14th st. se.; Frances Demma, 18, of 1368 Emerson st. ne., and Jean Judson, 17, of 2311 15th st. nw.

The junior high graduates are:

Betty Jane Cook, 17, of 3123 G st. se.; Ramona Grant, 17, of 405 Massachusetts ave. nw., and Betty Jean Hurley, 15, of 4213 Ingomar st. nw.

Lords Threaten Transport Bill

London, June 17 (U.P.).—The House of Lords today passed three "highly objectionable" amendments to the Labor government's transport nationalization bill.

The Lords have now passed eight amendments, all opposed by the government, to the bill, which provides a sweeping program of transport nationalization, including long-distance road haulage.

Dear Fellow Christians:

The question may arise quite properly in your mind, "Why was this committee formed"? The answer, we hope, will receive your careful consideration.

It is the inherent quality of Christians in following the teachings of Christ, that we feel compassion for and give succor to those who through the brutal forces of hate and bigotry have been rendered helpless in body and spirit.

The tragic plight of the Jews of Europe during the past decade is a horrible chapter in the history of civilized mankind. The fall of tyranny in Europe was an empty victory for the one and a half million Jews. UNRRA is being liquidated, United States Army relief funds are being curtailed, and yet the problem of keeping the spark of life in these people increases.

The American quota for United Jewish Appeal to meet the needs of the coming year is $170,000,000 of which the Washington quota is $2,000,000. Isn't it within our Christian hearts that we, the people of the Washington area, should want to give aid to our Jewish citizens and neighbors in making this quota possible? The Christian Committee's self-established quota is $200,000.

Won't you, fellow Christian, open your heart and your purse to this cause? Please make your check payable to United Jewish Appeal and mail to the Christian Committee today.

Sincerely,
Frank R. Jelleff
C. T. Barron
CO-CHAIRMEN.

Christian Committee OF THE UNITED JEWISH APPEAL of GREATER WASHINGTON • 1216 F ST. N.W., WASHINGTON 4, D. C.

Prince Georges Cuts School Bond Issue

The $2,200,000 school construction bond issue asked by the Prince Georges County Board of Education was slashed nearly 10 per cent yesterday by the Board of Commissioners.

A two-million-dollar issue was approved by the commissioners in the afternoon after the original request had been voted down in the morning. No date for the offering of the bonds for sale was set.

Reconsideration of the request was made after Superintendent of Schools G. Gardner Shugart told the board that he could scale down the estimated expenditures to come within the smaller figure.

The Board of Education's request was voted down after Commissioner John H. Beall stated that issuance of the four-million-dollar authorization approved by the State Legislature last spring should be evenly divided between 1947 and 1948. The vote in this case was 3-0, with Commissioner D. Leonard Dyer not voting after his three colleagues had voted against the measure.

Following Shugart's acceptance of the $200,000 cut, the issue was approved 3-1. Commissioner Harry W. McNamee dissented.

Improvements contemplated with proceeds of the issue include:

New senior high schools at Marlboro and Oxon Hill.

A new elementary school at Landover Hills.

Purchase of land for new high schools at Bladensburg and in the Hyattsville-University Park section.

Preparation of plans for a new high school at Fairmount Heights.

The commissioners reappointed all present members of its advisory board for a two-year term.

This board, which advises the commissioners on matters of road construction and general county improvement projects, is composed of Edgar Merkle, chairman; T. Hammond Welsh, sr., Irwin I. Main, Caesar L. Aiello and Col. Joseph L. Aman, executive secretary.

Italian President to Resign, Poses Problem for De Gasperi

Rome, June 17 (U.P.).—President Enrico de Nicola of Italy said today that ill health m[a]kes his immediate retirement imperative. It was expected he would present his formal resignation to the Constituent Assembly on June 24, the end of his first year in office.

The 70-year-old De Nicola's unforeseen move immediately threatened Premier Alcide de Gasperi's 17-day-old attempt to govern Italy without Communists or leftwing Socialists. By custom De Gasperi would be forced to present the resignation of himself and his cabinet to any new President named by the Constituent Assembly.

De Gasperi would be renamed as Premier, but many pitfalls would beset his path in attempts to form another government from which leftists are excluded.

De Nicola's chief of cabinet, Umberto Collamarino, said the President has been a sick man for months and that he had called a conference with De Gasperi and Communist Assembly President, Umberto Terracini, for 9:30 a. m. tomorrow "to discuss the situation."

De Nicola told de Gasperi that a nervous condition and a throat ailment made retirement imperative. De Gasperi prevailed upon him to make no official announcement until after the vote of confidence on the government scheduled for this weekend, which de Gasperi is expected to win.

De Nicola, conservative and former monarchist, was elected June 28. Mentioned as possible successors were former Premier Ivanoe Bonomi and Foreign Minister Count Carlo Sforza.

Kansas City Man To Prosecute Any Fraud in Primary

By The Associated Press

Attorney General Clark yesterday appointed Richard K. Phelps, Kansas City attorney, as a special assistant to prosecute any Federal law violations in last summer's Kansas City Democratic primary.

Clark's office announced Phelps has bene given "full and complete authority" to go ahead with any prosecutions he deems warranted.

Phelps is a former United States attorney for the Western Missouri District. He was active in all of the so-called Pendergast election cases during which 250 persons were convicted.

A State grand jury has indicted 71 persons for alleged frauds in last summer's primary in which Enos Axtell, with support from President Truman, ran against Representative Roger C. Slaughter for the Democratic nomination to Congress.

Wheat Support Price Is Put at $1.80 a Bushel

Farm prices for wheat will be supported at $1.80 a bushel until July 1, the Department of Agriculture announced yesterday.

The support price, fixed at 90 per cent of parity, is based on a parity price for wheat of $2.02 on May 15.

The support price is between 10 and 15 cents below current market prices for wheat.

U. S. Interest Urged In World Health Unit

Dr. Louise Pierce, member of the staff of Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, yesterday urged United States participation in the World Health Organization, saying that "no germ is an isolationist."

"If we believe in the United Nations, this is a really wonderful means for implementing that organization," she told a House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee studying the legislation.

Brig. Gen. James S. Simmons, retired, wartime chief of the Army's Preventive Medicine Service, called the measure necessary for American security.

Two Nurses Absolved In Deaths of Infants

Cleveland, June 17 (U.P.).—Two student nurses on duty in Massillon City Hospital June 6 when two infants were found dying in their cribs, were absolved of all suspicion in the deaths after undergoing lie detector tests here today.

Massillon Police Chief Stanley Switter said the tests "take all suspicion off" Nurses Marian Silleck and Murna Croft.

Synthetic Silk and Wool May Be in Offing

New York, June 17 (U.P.).—A Harvard scientist disclosed tonight that he had been able to duplicate the work of nature in making fibrous proteins — an achievement that may open the way for synthetic silk and wool and new types of germ-killing compounds.

The scientist, 30-year-old Robert B. Woodward, associate professor of chemistry at Harvard University, won fame in 1944 by his synthesis of quinine in collaboration with Dr. William E. Doering, now of Columbia University.

Writing in the Journal of the American Chemical Society, Dr. Woodward said he had been able to put together atoms of carbon and nitrogen with the general molecular structural characteristics identical with those of fibrous proteins.

Such protein molecules—the molecules are made up of atoms—are the building blocks for hair, muscle, nerves, skin and other forms of living matter.

The process, described by Woodward, is called a "self-propagating reaction," which hitches carbon and nitrogen atoms end-to-end to form molecules having the same general structural characteristics of those of natural proteins.

At the start of the process are the so-called alpha amino acids. It was reported that amino acid chains consisting of 10,000 units already have been made by the new process, and Dr. Woodward believes that molecules even longer than in nature today can be produced. Because of this, Dr. Woodward believes the synthesis of silk or wool can be accomplished.

Dr. Woodward's discovery also opens the way for further research in the field of germ-killing compounds. By the technique of duplicating fibrous proteins, it may be possible for science to modify certain virus proteins, changing them into harmless organic substances.

Sotto Voce

The fate that seems to be in store for the State Department foreign information program is nothing short of disastrous. By a series of pettifogging delays the unrepentant isolationists in the House have prevented the Mundt bill from reaching the floor. This is the bill that would continue after July 1 the short-wave broadcasts, the American libraries abroad and the other informational and educational services which seek to present a true picture of this country. The strategy of the House diehards is to kill the program entirely by talking it to death. The disturbing part is that now the Senate Republican leadership, which should know better, apparently has thrown in the towel. Influential GOP Senators are reported to have consented to a compromise which would narrow the information activities to a constricted broadcasting program with an appropriation of only six million dollars instead of the 34 million originally asked.

Important as are the overseas broadcasts in themselves, their consideration should not exclude other significant aspects of the foreign information program. If the present congressional tack continues, for example, it will force the closing of our libraries abroad. In many capitals these libraries constitute virtually the only source of accurate factual information about the United States. The libraries are fountains of Americana. They contain reference books, periodicals, copies of official publications. They are becoming increasingly popular. Another essential which congressional parsimony would eliminate is the distribution of the texts of important American speeches and policy statements—texts which otherwise would not be available in many areas of the world. These activities in making the truth known about America add up to a composite package of the most effective advertising we could have.

The issue now becomes a matter of principle. Either we present the facts, along the line established by the Mundt bill, or we leave it to the Kremlin to explain our motives. No American who knows the diet of falsehood dished out by Pravda can want that. But we may rest assured that if we do not continue to tell our story, no one else will do it for us.

Wallace Wha' Ha'

The turnout for Mr. Wallace on Monday night was a tribute in great part to the asinine effort to prevent his appearance. Many Americans went to the Watergate to demonstrate that they believe in free speech. What Mr. Wallace had to say was far less important to them than the need to rebuke the totalitarians in our midst. For that reason we rejoiced in the assemblage at the Wallace speech.

What the throng heard was a rehash of Mr. Wallace's well-known views, except for one thing, and that was his threat to split the Democratic Party and head a ticket of his own. The new party would be dedicated to the spirit of Mr. Roosevelt of which Mr. Wallace is self-appointed caretaker. Now, as Mrs. Roosevelt has said, nobody knows what Mr. Roosevelt would have done in present circumstances. He was a pragmatist—a man who played sometimes by ear and sometimes from inspiration. But in the Roosevelt experience we may have the key to his reaction to Mr. Wallace's peace proposal. Mr. Wallace would simply have the President ask Mr. Stalin to meet him in Berlin and iron out all Russo-American differences. Well, the same suggestion came from Japan before Pearl Harbor. Did Mr. Roosevelt accept Prince Konoye's overture? Not according to the record, and so we may have an idea of his course of action in relation to a meet with Stalin.

Mr. Wallace thinks that the real differences dividing America and Russia should not be brought up at his proposed Truman-Stalin confab. Germany, for instance, should be scrupulously eschewed. What differences would they then discuss? Only Mr. Wallace knows, but he gave no bill of particulars. Nor would he give an iota of credit to the fact that since VE-Day the President and Messrs. Byrnes and Marshall have been exploring a deal with Russia with an assiduity and a patience which deserve full marks from the American people. Secretary Marshall has even included Russia in his continental plan of economic assistance.

Where the present Administration is vulnerable is in the new plan to sew up this hemisphere in an arms compact. Mr. Wallace thrust at this plan with point and effect. Yet, in spite of the handle that the President has given him in this respect, Mr. Wallace could not resist making a misstatement. It is simply untrue to say that we are arming the reactionaries in China. The hands-off policy in China that Secretary Marshall stated on January 8 still obtains. Mr. Wallace's appeal remains to the credulous and the simple-minded. Just to demand peace is not to get it, not even if the President were to go to Berlin to ask it in the name of the American people. In Russia's present mood he would have to sell peoples and principles down the river for a deal with Russia. And even that, as we found at Munich, would bring on war, not peace.

Next Step

We hope that every member of Congress and many of their constituents will read Twentieth Century Congress by Representative Estes Kefauver and Dr. Jack Levin. In this relatively small volume the writers have amassed a truly enormous volume of common sense about democratic government. Like ourselves, they believe that popular government can be preserved only by making it function efficiently. They acknowledge notable steps forward in the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946. But at best those changes were only a beginning. Some of them may actually prove disadvantageous unless Congress completes its task of setting its house in order. To halt congressional reform now would be as shortsighted as abandonment of work on a house after the foundation and part of the first story had been built.

Of all of the many problems with which these authors deal, we think none is more important than the establishment of a routine working relationship between the President and Congress. "Congress has done nothing so far," Messrs. Kefauver and Levin write, "to prepare itself to function efficiently when political control is divided—a phenomenon that has occurred no less than 28 times in its legislative history." Some progress toward leadership in policy-making may be found in the creation of Majority and Minority Policy Committees in the Senate. But liaison on the policy-making level is lacking as between Senate and House and between Congress and the White House. Congress is still floundering around in legislative confusion as profound as was the financial confusion that afflicted it before the Budget and Accounting Act was passed in 1921.

The remedy which Messrs. Kefauver and Levin suggest is a national legislative policy committee consisting of the Vice President or President pro tempore of the Senate, the Speaker of the House, the majority leaders and their whips and 13 committee chairmen from each house. Its duty would be to outline for Congress a suitable course of action and to draft and enact legislation to carry out those policies. Representative Kefauver does not visualize regular meetings between this group and the President. Rather he would leave contact with the White House largely to the President's liaison man on Capitol Hill. This nucleus of congressional leaders would receive recommendations from the President. But it would then formulate its own conclusions as to our national needs and its ablest member would outline its program before a joint session of the two houses, thus claiming part of the play that now goes to the President's "state of the Union" message.

Here is an interesting variation from the type of executive-legislative liaison usually suggested. We doubt that the proposed national legislative policy committee would function as well as the joint legislative-executive council suggested by the La Follette-Monroney Committee and dropped by the House. Mr. Kefauver's committee seems to us to be too large and we think that personal meetings with the President and/or Cabinet members are the best guarantee of easy working relationships. Of course, both the majority and minority leadership groups would have to be included in the policy-shaping body at times like the present when Congress and the White House are under the control of different parties. Far more important than the form of liaison body, however, is the idea behind it. What we desperately need are means of uniting the resources and wisdom of the two political departments of the Government in shaping a program for Congress to approve or reject. That, we are confident, can be readily accomplished within our present framework of government, and it will be accomplished if a majority of our legislators approach the problem with the sincerity and judgment that have been manifested by Mr. Kefauver.

Crippling Technicality

No Congress would knowingly vote to cripple our judiciary system, yet that would be the result of a series of steps that have been taken on Capitol Hill. A group of Congressmen bent on economy are raising points of order against every item in appropriation bills not authorized by law. They found that secretaries for Circuit and District Court judges had not been authorized by law. Consequently, they struck from the judiciary appropriations bill the entire item of $1,800,000 which was intended to pay the salaries not only of judges' secretaries but also of law clerks, messengers, custodial employes, librarians and other personnel. Obviously the courts could not operate without these numerous employes. The bill must necessarily be corrected in the Senate.

It might be assumed from this freak action on the part of the House that the judicial branch had been negligent in asking for legislative authority to hire secretaries. Actually Congress has been making appropriations for judges' secretaries since 1904. The absence of any statute authorizing such appointments was first made an issue last year. The administrative office of the United States Courts hastened to prepare a bill giving the necessary authorization. That measure passed both the Senate and House, and agreement in conference was reached, but the bill died when the Seventy-ninth Congress adjourned.

This year a similar bill was introduced in January, but only this week was it passed by the House. Action must still be taken by the Senate, and there is not much prospect that the measure will be law before the end of June when action on the appropriations bill should be completed. Obviously the Senate will have to take a less stiff-necked attitude than did the House if the Federal Courts are to continue to operate without a shocking impairment of their efficiency. We think the Senate should also give thoughtful consideration to restoring the small sums needed to provide official reporters for new judges added to the Federal bench, for the correction of salary inequities, and for providing reporters when judges are sent to distant jurisdictions to bring over-burdened courts abreast of their work.

That Price Drop

Several correspondents have taken exception to statements made in our editorial of June 10—Prices Turn Downward. In that editorial we stated that "there is ample evidence, general and specific, to support the view that prices not only can be brought down but are actually coming down." In support of that statement we cited the drop that had occurred in certain wholesale price indices since the end of March and emphasized in particular the price declines that had taken place in the scrap markets which are generally regarded as a sensitive indicator of changes to come.

Of course the writer of the letter published on this page today protesting against our conclusions is quite right in asserting that few consumers can find evidence of price declines in the stores. This is a fact that we pointed out in our editorial. The reason is that retail prices are affected by changes in wholesale prices only after a lapse of time. One does not look for evidences of price trends in retail markets, but rather in the wholesale field. Nor, it should be added, does the current upturn in food prices, meats in particular, at wholesale as well as retail levels, invalidate our general conclusions, as another critic implies. Despite those increases, the latest BLS indices of wholesale prices for farm products and foods are below the March peak levels. We see no point whatever in comparing the prices now ruling with those of a year ago in view of our purpose, which was to produce evidence of a possible turn in the post-OPA inflationary price movement.

The recent sharp rise in meat prices, moreover, is due to a variety of causes of a temporary nature, such as heavy buying for export at a time when slaughterings are at a seasonal low. Domestic consumption of high-grade meats has also been exceptionally heavy—stimulated, no doubt, by the abstention practiced during the many months when choice meats were unobtainable at any prices. Fears that export controls may be abandoned July 1 are also believed to have encouraged speculative buying of meats. In a period of adjustment such as we are now undergoing, in passing from a controlled war economy to a free economy, sudden price squeezes of this sort are to be expected. But they are exceptional cases that by no means indicate general price trends.

In our opinion, a much more significant indication of the future course of prices is afforded by the cumulative evidence that supplies of many commodities are catching up with demand. Rubber prices, for instance, have declined, and as a result retail as well as wholesale prices of tires and tubes are being reduced. Toward the end of last week grain futures also dropped sharply coincident with Secretary Anderson's statement that he anticipated a drop next year in foreign demands for wheat. As wheat from the new crop, expected to be of record proportions, begins to reach the markets, the pressure on wheat prices will be relieved, and prices should decline.

Finally, we think it is worth noting that half of the BLS commodity group indices reached top levels some months ago and in four of these five groups subsequent declines from the peak have been substantial, as our correspondent admits. Here, we submit, is official evidence to support the claim that inflationary pressures are weakening and the period of adjustment is at hand.

MODERN COMPOSERS

The instruments change, and the makers of music reach their hands for the shifting forms.
Key signature and time, octave and mode dissolve like smoke, man made, and in time man discarded.

What is solid? What is sure?
Nothing. And the weak ones despair, they piddle with emptiness, stall for time.

But the strong ones hear out of chaos the new songs ringing; vaguely but surely they hear them, and strive to catch them, frantic, for time grows short, and the grasp is not easy, many must fail to find perfection that waits for others.

And so the new harmonies
plague and devil their minds; and the great chorus, baffling, half hidden, sings far off in their ears like a giant river roaring behind a mountain.

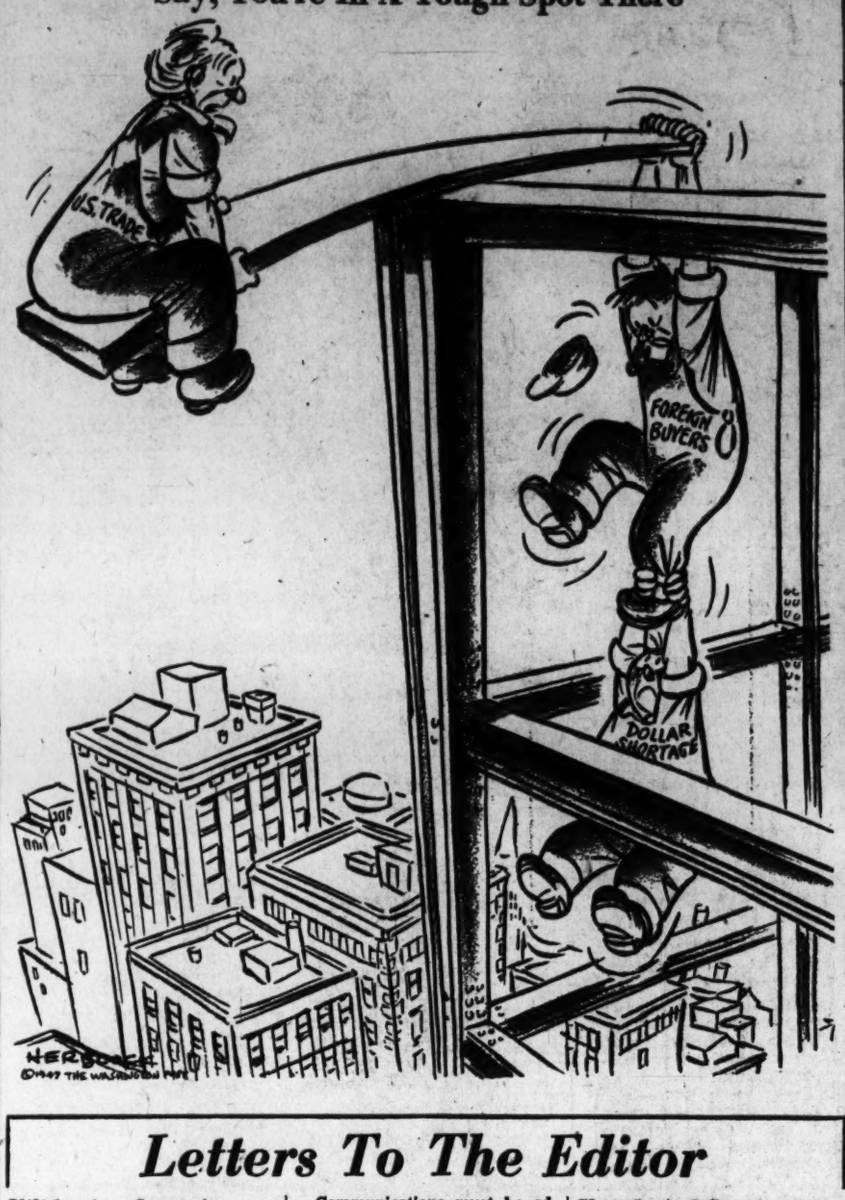
"Say, You're In A Tough Spot There"



Displaced Diplomats

By Malvina Lindsay

When Exile Strikes

HOW DOES it feel to lose one's country overnight? Americans can only guess. Neither the upsets of war, nor of what now passes for peace, have brought them this experience.

The displaced in European camps of course know. So do exiles and refugees from nazism. Now the displaced of peace are beginning to find out—or to know again.

Six men and five women recently walked out of the Hungarian Legation in Washington to become exiles, because their convictions would not permit them to serve their new government. Behind the announcement were 11 human dramas such as the exiled everywhere experience. But these also had a difference. It was a second risk at going it alone for most of those who unhesitatingly cut adrift from their government; a second risk, within a few years, of being called traitors, of being cut off, perhaps forever, from those dear to them at home.

Nearly all had resisted and suffered under Nazi rule. One had been in a concentration camp. One, while in a Gestapo prison, had lost parents and all near relatives. Others had been robbed of their possessions, had lived meager, dangerous lives under Nazi occupation. All had come to America tired and saddened by their ordeals, but eager to help build a new Hungary.

HOW WOMEN, reputed addicts of comfort and security, behave in an exile crisis was shown by the wives and the women legation employes who resigned.

One is breadwinner for an elderly invalid husband and a 13-year-old son. She came here wearing borrowed clothes, having lost everything in the war. She has no special skill, no complete knowledge of English. She called the Hungarian Minister the moment she heard of his decision and said: "I have to follow you and my convictions."

One wife is expecting her first baby in five weeks. She was reared in comfort, became a needy exile during the war. Asked how she will get along, she smiles and says: "This is easy. My husband isn't in a German prison camp as he was three years ago, but in a beautiful, free country. We are together and that is the most important thing."

Another wife has three small children, the youngest 4 months old. She, too, suffered in the war. "We shall have to work very hard for the children," she said, "but we can do it."

One young matron is told how lucky she is not to have children. What a world, she thinks, where her greatest sorrow is held up as luck! Now she must write her elderly parents she may not see them again until the world is really at peace.

A WOMAN EMPLOYE remembers how she told the astonished Nazis, "I won't do it," when they came to the Foreign Office in Budapest where she worked, and ordered her to take the oath of allegiance to their puppet government. She walked out to go in hiding for the rest of the war. This seems easy in comparison.

One wife has a baby 4 weeks old. Neither she nor her 16-year-old daughter speaks anything but Hungarian. When her husband came home to announce his decision she made no whining exclamation, just started packing. Neither did any of the five women who resigned hesitate, though some are handicapped by imperfect English in getting desk jobs. One has already become a waitress.

The exiles know they will yearn at times for the quaint villages and waving wheat fields of Hungary, for the Danube and the fish goulash that fishermen make on open fires on its banks; for beautiful Budapest with its hills and bridges, its gypsy music; for St. Stephen's Day processions and the moving strains of "God Bless Our Country"; for the sight of relatives and friends; for the security and pride of nationality. This, they try to explain to Americans, is what exile means. Nevertheless they rank it below convictions.

Geopolitics

The Pravda commentator who declared that the home of geopolitics had moved from Nazi Germany to the United States (The Post, June 13) injected a lot of free propaganda. But he left himself wide open to the rebuff of intelligent people by his obvious half-truths and the perversion of facts.

While geopolitics is not an exact science because of the human factor involved, it is correctly called an applied science and not, as Pravda implicated, a false science. On the other hand, German "Geopolitik" was merely a theory developed by Haushofer. He combined the geopolitical principles of an Englishman (Mackinder) with such rot as racial superiority and called it "Geopolitik." The Nazis used this theory to justify in their own minds their plans for world conquest.

True geopolitics is merely a study of world affairs. If Pravda had said that we are attempting to spread the principles of democratic ideals on the basis of a study of world affairs, it would have been closer to the truth. But notice that such a statement doesn't pack the punch of red propaganda. Truth, logic and clear thinking have no part in the Communist plan.

Vilification Campaign

Who are these subversive, disloyal people in the State Department's information and cultural division that Representative Taber, House Appropriations Committee chairman, keeps talking about? Where are they? Why doesn't he come out from behind the false whiskers of his generalized statement and name them publicly?

After three and a half years of war, fever, dysentery for OWI and the State Department in a hot, disagreeable foreign land, I return to find myself in an activity in which we are all suspect and, according to Congressman Stefan, "a nest of Communist insects." In my cooler moments I realize that, for purposes I haven't been able to fathom, this is political warfare by Americans against Americans, in a pattern borrowed from the late enemy in which the larger the lie, the more effective the propaganda.

I look back at these years abroad and wonder what has happened to American life. Two of my civilian OWI associates were killed in line of duty, one of them posthumously decorated. Another who went through hazardous operations with a brace on his leg was awarded the Air Medal. Others were cited and decorated by a War Department which closely guards the award to civilians. I doubt if such facts, which could be repeated for OWI out of every theater of the war, have any weight with this small band of men, whose suspicions of the informational process of government is tinged apparently by their habitual aversion to respect for fact.

I spent a morning in 1945 listening to Mr. Taber in the House on OWI before returning to my post from high level consultation in Washington. I flew back heartsick at the subversion practiced under cover of legislative immunity against the men and women who were representing America abroad in a difficult and frequently hazardous activity. What are these objectives of a small group of legislators which require a campaign of such falsification, of vilification of people who are not able to defend themselves?

"Holtzoff Case"

In your editorial of June 14, it was said that "Justice Holtzoff should have recognized the impropriety of presiding at the mass conspiracy trial even if he had not been challenged." That position, I believe, cannot be sustained either in law or reason.

To show the "personal bias or prejudice" required by the statute (U. S. C. Tit. 28, Sec. 25), the defendants simply alleged that up to 1945 Justice Holtzoff was legal adviser to the FBI, and that during that period the FBI investigated the Anti-Fascist Committee. It was not averred that the FBI has ever made a criminal charge against the committee, but only that, sometime after Justice Holtzoff had left the Department of Justice, the FBI included the committee in a list of Communist front groups.

At the present time, members of that Anti-Fascist organization have been indicted, not for being Communists or for any activity which entered into the earlier FBI investigation, but for refusing, and conspiring to refuse, to comply with a congressional subpoena. This offense is alleged to have occurred within the past year, long after the court has severed his connection with the Department of Justice. Do these facts show a "personal bias"?

Consider also the practical consequences of this ruling to the administration of justice. Many members of the District Court and the Supreme Court traditionally come to the bench from the Department of Justice. If the latter department happened to have investigated any group or organization while a particular judge was working there, all members of the group investigated are forever exempt from trial before that judge.

During the recent war, the FBI investigated countless groups. Does Justice Holtzoff, though he has never heard the names even of some of these groups, now have a "personal prejudice" against each and every one of their thousands of members? If so, any criminal whatsoever, whether indicted for murder, rape or robbery, from now until the judge's retirement, can claim personal bias by the sheer accident that he holds membership in one of the investigated groups.

This illustrates the practical consequences and absurd result of such a broad and unwarranted interpretation of the word "personal" as applied to prejudice. J. T. M.

Defenseless Pedestrians

Thank you for your front page news articles of June 13, with top headlines in the killing of the 87-year-old pedestrain. It is a work of mercy to show up these atrocities. The pedestrian has no defense save the press and an occasional judge (like this one); never, or almost never a jury, any more than in the lynching case in the deep South.

Thanks, too, for turning light on the sales tax injustice, e.g., your series on the sales tax as it "works" (or doesn't work) in Maryland and your news item that the House killed the sales tax for the District. I am working to defeat a second time the sales tax for Virginia. It was defeated once before in 1944.

Church And State

Congratulations for your lucid editorials on Federal aid to education, released-time religious instruction, and kindred topics. Your logic is unassailable, and your enunciation of American governmental principles reminds one of the writings of Madison, Jefferson and Paine.

Though many critics may impute a hostile attitude toward religion in your statements, they know such is untrue, both from previous editorials and present. Your critics labor under an illusion, an impression that the founding fathers of our great Nation meant only to prohibit an organic union of church and state. If they would but read the writings of early American statesmen, they would realize that a working union of state and religion is just as dangerous, and can only lead to religious strife and persecution.

James Madison said: "Religion is not in the purview of human government."

Benjamin Franklin wrote: "When a religion is good, I conceive it will support itself, and when it does not support itself, and God does not take care to support it, so that its professors are obliged to call for help of the civil power, 'tis a sign, I apprehend, of its being a bad one."

Thomas Jefferson stated: "It is error alone that needs the support of the government. Truth can stand by itself."

Many more Americans of 1776 could be quoted, but this should be sufficient to start our friends to thinking. If the present trend toward the union of church and state in America isn't halted soon, we face an era of medieval persecution and civil repression such as our forefathers sought to avert.

"Prices Turn Down"

Consumers have been getting more than their share of statistical relief from high prices this year. The bother of it is they can't eat statistics or wear them.

Latest evidence of this is your June 10 editorial, "Prices Turn Downward," in which you say "prices are beginning to drop," also "the peak of postwar inflation is behind us," and "the period of adjustment has begun."

Maybe it has, but few consumers can find the evidence in the stores, nor can they find anything but higher rents, plus evictions, in the rent control bill Congress is cooking.

Where does The Post find the evidence for its cheerful optimism in the price statistics? The daily price index of basic commodities is of no help to housewives unless the same trend shows up in the whole range of wholesale prices and eventually in retail prices.

The following table of the wholesale price trend since a year ago shows that only four of the ten commodity groups have registered a significant decline from their inflation high points, and even these remain 28 to 43 per cent above last June.

It shows also that metal products, house furnishings and fuel and lighting materials reached new highs for the inflation last week, and that two other commodity groups reached their inflation top a week earlier.

It shows that goods with a farm origin are the only ones to have eased off any considerable degree from the inflation high points of March and April. All commodities other than farm products and food have continued to move steadily upward and are still within a minor fraction of their inflation high point.

For all commodities combined, nearly one half of the decline that took place between March 29 and May 3 has been wiped out by the second upswing which has been in progress for four weeks. If this is the period of adjustment consumers are looking for, I would be surprised. The relief we have had has not been enough to put in your hat, nor to buy one.

Hemisphere Defense

By Sumner Welles

Arms Standardization And Peace

THE ADMINISTRATION'S belated effort to return to a constructive application of the good neighbor policy is meeting new difficulties.

Secretary Marshall's removal of the chief individual impediment to normal relations with Argentina prepared the way for the long-postponed hemispheric defense conference. In this more favorable atmosphere it was hoped the Congress would approve the legislation requested by the President to enable the American republics to standardize their military and naval equipment, as well as their methods of training, and thus facilitate collaboration in preserving peace in the Western Hemisphere.

The presidential program is now, however, being subjected to a barrage of criticism which is coming from weirdly disparate sources. The project for inter-American cooperation has long been the favorite object for Communist attack in every part of the Americas. The Communist leaders term it a "pernicious instrument of imperialism" by which the United States seeks to dominate the continent. A number of writers in this country, whose patriotism and sincerity cannot be questioned, are chiming in on the strangely unrealistic ground that the hemispheric project will strengthen fascism. Finally, a week ago, with a great blast of publicity, Senator Taft let it be known that he had become doubtful of the wisdom of the program because of a communication he had received from Col. R. B. Creager, the Republican National Committeeman from Texas.

Colonel Creager is chiefly remembered for his connection with the Coolidge administration. The Latin-American policy of that administration can hardly be regarded as having been conductive to inter-American solidarity. That Colonel Creager should now bewail the threat to the good neighbor policy which he says he beholds in the Administrtion's present program is not without its element of humor.

NONE OF THE arguments advanced against the President's recommendations have even a shadow of validity.

The proposed hemispheric treaty is authorized by Article 52 of the United Nations Charter, which declares that "Nothing in the present charter precludes the existence of regional arrangements or agencies for dealing with such matters relating to international peace and security as are appropriate for regional action." It is envisaged in Article 51, which provides that "Nothing in the present charter shall impair the inherent right of individual or collective self-defense if an armed attack occurs against a member of the United Nations until the Security Council has taken the measures necessary to maintain international peace and security."

The legislation recommended by the President represents the desirable implementation of a hemispheric treaty. It would make it far easier for each individual American republic to take an active part should the need for joint defense arise. If armaments are standardized, the air, military, and naval forces of each state can then collaborate much more efficiently with the forces of their neighbors.

THE BASIC principle upon which any hemispheric defense treaty should be based is that the 21 American nations, by common accord, will adopt joint defense plans. In line with a common strategy, they must also agree upon the measure and the nature of the assistance which each will render if the peace of the Americas is endangered. Had such a treaty been in force, and had hemispheric armaments been standardized at the time of Pearl Harbor, the security of each American State, particularly that of the United States, would have been far greater.

The program is attacked on the ground that the proposed treaty and legislation would stimulate an arms race, increase inter-American rivalries, and strengthen the power of dictatorships. Those charges cannot bear analysis.

If no treaty is negotiated and no legislation adopted, each American republic will increase its armaments as it sees fit. It can easily procure the material it desires from several European sources. By unilateral rather than cooperative action it will arouse the fears and suspicions of all its neighbors. An armaments race would then begin. Military missions from non-American countries would undoubtedly be invited to train the forces which were being armed from abroad. Within a brief period many of the American republics would again be equipped with military and naval armaments of different origins which could not be effectively pooled in inter-American defense. The armed forces of these American states would also be subjected to alien influences which seek to prevent inter-American cooperation.

BY AN inter-American defense treaty, the American republics would jointly fix the extent of the armaments required by each state in order to carry its obligations under such a regional arrangement. A cooperative agreement would, therefore, prevent armament races, and remove the suspicions of certain American states of the ulterior purposes of their neighbors. The rise of militaristic dictatorships would be discouraged because the cooperative machinery established for the maintenance of regional peace would in itself constitute a major deterrent to the aggressive foreign policies to which dictatorships often resort to obtain popular support.

The hemispheric treaty, and the legislation needed to implement such a treaty, would strengthen the United Nations, eliminate excessive armaments as well as armament races within the Americas, and help to maintain the peace of the New World.

The failure to conclude a treaty, and the failure of the Congress to adopt the legislation required to make the treaty effective, could only tend to weaken the inter-American system and thereby encourage increasingly dangerous dissension within the Western Hemisphere.

Lopsided Tax Study

THE POLITICAL clamor following on President Truman's veto of the Republican tax bill is likely to obscure one of the most telling points he made. In the last paragraph of his veto message, he called for a program of tax adjustments and tax reduction "geared to the financial and economic needs of this country."

Childs

That kind of program is long overdue. The late President Roosevelt talked about it often but he never got around to it.

Evidence is growing that some Republicans have a tax program they intend to try to put over next year. It is also evident that they want to try to shift as much of the tax burden as possible from income tax to the excise or sales tax. In other words, they would shift to the kind of tax that penalizes the low-income groups.

A tax program must originate with the House Ways and Means Committee. The other day, Chairman Harold Knutson of that committee named a group of outsiders to help draft a tax plan for 1948. He named them without consulting the full committee and there were prompt cries of dictatorship.

The key men of that committee long have lobbied to reduce income taxes in the higher brackets. In some instances they have openly advocated a Federal sales tax.

THE CHAIRMAN and prime mover of the special "tax study committee" is Roswell Magill, member of one of New York's largest corporation law firms and a professor of law at Columbia University. One of the most influential members is John W. Hanes, who represents large corporate interests in New York, including the Hearst properties. Hanes was one of the two private citizens permitted by the Republican majority to testify before the Ways and Means Committee on the tax bill just vetoed.

Another member is Cheever Cowdin, motion-picture executive who has frequently been a spokesman for the National Association of Manufacturers on taxes and finance. Still another member is Carson S. Duncan, economist of the Association of American Railroads.

Knutson's effort to make this appear a "bipartisan" committee is plain foolish. While there is some window-dressing—members who theoretically represent farm and labor—the key men will speak from the special point of view of great wealth.

An editorial in the New York Journal of Commerce made clear what the Wall Street community thought of the Magill group. The editorial had the headline: "Magill Appointment Underscores Trend Toward Sales Tax." Magill, said the editorial, will play a "key role" in formulating a new tax program.

REPRESENTATIVE AIME J. FORAND of Rhode Island, one of the Democrats who challenged Knutson's right to name these outsiders and give them special powers, pointed out a deadly parallel. It is a parallel which should make the Republican leadership stop, look and listen.

IN 1930, Herbert Hoover was in the White House. Republicans controlled both Senate and House. While the stock market crash of 1929 had jarred confidence, the philosophy of high and unending prosperity was still in the ascendant.

In that fateful year, the Republicans in the House invited businessmen to come in and write a tariff law. They brought into the committee room high priests of high protection—such men as Joseph Grundy of Pennsylvania—and they told them to write their own ticket.

The result was the Smoot-Hawley high-tariff law. Mr. Hoover himself protested. A thousand experts in economics and political science signed an earnest plea to prevent adoption of the law. They knew that it would hasten the tide of depression all over the world.

A tax program that transfers even part of the burden to the low-income groups will take dollars out of the pocket of the average consumer that he otherwise would spend for the products of our factories and farms. It means we shall be less able to buy those products. It means depression.

There should be changes in our antiquated tax structure. The Committee for Economic Development pointed the other day to the need to give small businesses a chance to invest a larger share of their earnings. These and other changes are long overdue. But if they come as merely part of a plan to switch the load to the small wage earner, then we shall be asking for boom and bust in the good old pattern of 1929 and after.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

Politics All The Way

ON THE EVE of a new phase in the troubled history of the labor bill, it must be said that the record to date is not an encouraging demonstration of the law-making process. This is true, moreover, without reference to the merits or demerits of the bill itself. For the plain fact is that the bill's merits or demerits have been subordinated by representatives of all groups to the most obvious and unvarnished considerations of practical political advantage.

At this writing, while the Congress discusses the probability of a presidential veto, a number of Republican Senators are canvassing their colleagues to gain support for letting the veto stand.

Among these men are one or two of the loudest public bellowers for rectification of the "injustices" of existing labor statutes. Yet they would like to avoid passing the labor bill over the expected presidential veto because in this manner they would not be recording themselves a second time, and would force the President to lie in the bed that he had made for himself. Thus, if antilabor feeling in the country diminished, they might manage to conciliate the labor groups in their constituencies, whereas if antilabor feeling rose, they could make the President the goat.

Such Republican leaders as Senators Robert A. Taft and Arthur H. Vandenberg are far too hard-headed to be tempted by this kind of courthouse gang slickness. Yet even Senator Taft, with all his seriousness and ability, at one time urged the Republican Conference to jam through a much more extreme labor measure. He did this despite the absolute certainty of a veto for a bill of this kind, and the equal certainty that a veto of a punitive bill would be sustained. And he made no secret, at the meeting of his fellow Republicans, that he thought it would be advantageous to make "the President take the blame" for failure to pass the labor legislation the country desires.

ONE MUST HASTEN to add, however, that the score between Democrats and Republicans is precisely even. Left-wing Democrats in Senate and House made no secret of their hope that the bill finally prepared by the House-Senate conference would be as near as possible to the punitive version, in order to insure a veto and make the veto message easier to write. And since politics and humanity are not entirely absent, even on the uneasy pinnacle of the White House, this hope was also discernible in some quarters around the President.

The President himself and his immediate advisers must be given credit for approaching the problem of the bill in the same serious spirit as Senator Taft. They have studied it with the utmost care, with an especial view to discovering whether it goes far beyond the carefully limited prescription for labor legislation laid down in the President's message on the state of the Union.

They have discovered such curious phenomena as no less than 33 surviving features of the tough House measure, which has been represented as wholly jettisoned in favor of the milder Senate bill. As one must credit Senator Taft with acting from conviction, so one must credit the President. Nevertheless, just as Senator Taft was not averse to seeing no labor legislation passed and blaming the White House, so also there are some around the White House who live in fear that the presidential veto, if forthcoming, may perhaps be sustained. Their theory is that the ideal situation will be a veto followed by repassage of the bill. The President will thus retain his labor support by the veto, but with the bill on the statute books, will be shielded from blame for any major labor trouble which arises in spite of the change in the law.

IT IS RIDICULOUS, but true, that this kind of motivation can even be discovered in labor groups themselves, among the small but active Communist element. They are screaming loudest against the bill. Currently, they are sponsoring a "veto caravan," a mass procession of protestants, moving from the West Coast by automobile, and converging on Washington to hold public rallies and make a loud, left-wing noise. The caravan was okayed by AFL President William Green in an absent-minded moment.

The announcement of the caravan also carried CIO President Philip Murray's name. When Murray heard of this, he instantly protested, for he saw at once that this kind of demonstration would certainly help the bill to become law. And to help the bill become law, was, of course, the purpose of the "veto caravan's" Communist sponsors. A labor bill on the statute books will give them the domestic issue that they want to start a Wallace-led third party movement. And it will measurably assist them in their campaign to capture more labor strength. That is what they really want.

To this sorry catalogue must be added the public presentation of the bill itself. The American voters desire a labor bill because they have been aroused by strikes. Any Senator or Congressman will admit that the average citizen who advocates the bill does so in the belief that it will stop strikes. But no honest proponent of the bill claims that the measure will have this effect, if you really corner him. Secretary of the Interior Julius A. Krug is authority for the view that it will not even delay a coal strike if John L. Lewis is set on walking out. What is the moral of all this? It is quite simple. The bill itself may be good or bad. But this is a method of preparing major legislation which can certainly be improved in efficiency, care of the country's real interests, and honesty with the voters.

Reich Workers Strike

Hamburg, June 17 (INS).—Thousands of factory workers in three cities in the British occupation zone struck for an hour today and won a demand that the food minister issue meat and fat rations which had been canceled this week.

The Gallup Poll

Senators Are Favored Slightly Over Governors as President

By George Gallup

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., June 17.—Which qualifies a man better for President of the United States—serving as Governor of a State, or serving as a United States Senator?

There are four Senators—Robert A. Taft, John W. Bricker, Arthur H. Vandenberg and Leverett Saltonstall—among the Republican leaders most often talked about today as presidential material; two Governors, Thomas E. Dewey and Earl Warren, and one former Governor, Harold E. Stassen. A former Senator sits in the White House as President.

In the opinion of the Nation's voters the two types of political training, gubernatorial and senatorial, are about equally good in qualifying a man for the White House, but there is a slight preponderance of opinion in favor of the Senate as a "school" for Presidents.

By an interesting coincidence the close division of opinion on the question is matched by a close division in the actual number of Presidents "trained" in the two "schools." In our history the number of men who came up to the White House by way of Governorships is almost exactly equalled by the number who came up through the Senate.

The attitude of the voting population on this whole matter was shown when interviewers for the Institute put this question in a coast-to-coast survey:

"In your opinion, which qualifies a man better for President—serving as Governor of a State or serving as a United States Senator?"

The vote:

Senator	41%
Governor	38
Neither	3
No choice	18

The close division of opinion is found in the rank and file of both parties, as follows:

	Repub. Voters	Dem. Voters
Senator	41%	43%
Governor	40	36
Neither	2	3
No choice	17	18

ONE SUPPOSED drawback to serving in Congress, if a man aspires to be President, is that he must take a stand on national issues and that this may alienate blocs of voters needed if he is to win the Presidency. Governors of States, on the other hand, can remain mum on national problems and be acceptable to all sides.

However, the fact is that of the 32 Presidents of the United States, 5 had been both Senators and Governors. Eight served as Senators but never as Governors of States. Nine served as Governors but never sat in the Senate, although a few of them had terms in the House of Representatives.

There were, in addition, three who served in the House but did not become either Senators or Governors.

This totals 25. Of the remaining seven men, three were Army men, four had varied political and diplomatic careers.

Curiously, one of the most unpopular Presidents in his time, Andrew Johnson, who was nearly impeached, was trained in all political "schools." He had been first a Representative in Congress, then Governor of Tennessee, then a United States Senator.

'Complete' RFC Probe Planned

By The Associated Press

The Senate Banking Committee agreed yesterday to seek $50,000 for what Senator Buck (R., Del.) called a "complete investigation" of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Buck also told a reporter the committee decided to approve legislation extending the RFC for one year beyond June 30.

"We took no vote on either of these matters," Buck said. "But there was no disagreement among those present."

Seven of the 13 members of the committee attended yesterday's meeting. Chairman Tobey (R., N. H.), who was absent, sent word he favors the two steps.

Buck said the committee will convene Friday for a formal vote.

"We are going to make a complete investigation of all phases of RFC operations," Buck said. "The committee will report by next March 1."

Senator Capehart (R., Ind.) said, "We don't want the RFC competing with private industry in its lending operations. We want to see if it is."

The committee recently launched an inquiry into an 80-million-dollar RFC loan to the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. This was billed as a prelude to a general investigation of RFC operations.

The House Banking Committee has finished hearings on extending the RFC's life, but it has taken no further action. House committee attaches said a meeting has been arranged tentatively for today to consider what will be done.

John D. Goodloe, RFC chairman, has told the committee that perhaps Congress should wipe out his agency eventually, but now isn't the time.

Meanwhile, Representative Jensen (R., Iowa) said yesterday a General Accounting Office report may show net losses of nine billion dollars by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

D. C. WCTU Goes on Record Against Draft in Peacetime

The District of Columbia WCTU yesterday adopted resolutions which opposed peacetime conscription of men, women or youth and urged passage of the Capper bill to bar liquor advertising in interstate commerce.

Election and installation of officers were also held at yesterday's session at Francis Asbury Methodist Church. Mrs. Caroline E. Coates, of 109 Maple ave., Takoma Park, was reelected president. She will start her fourth year as president when her present term expires in November.

Other new officers are Mrs. Guy Glossbrenner, 3836 Fulton st. nw., first vice president; Mrs. Barbara Frommelt, 1319 Farragut st. nw., second vice president; Mrs. Viva H. Crowley, 21 6th st. ne., corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Edith Bridge, 3801 35th st., Mount Rainier, assistant corresponding secretary.

A GOOD JOB FOR YOU
U. S. Army
CHOOSE THIS FINE PROFESSION NOW

THE Army Air Forces is pleased to announce to all high school graduates the immediate opening of its new Aviation Career Plan. Under its terms, young men 18 to 34 years of age (17 with parents' consent) may qualify for, and be assured of attending, the AAF Technical School of their choice before they enlist!

Here's how the Plan works

In order to be eligible, you must be a high school graduate (or be able to document equivalent education). Your application will include a transcript of your high school grades, three letters of recommendation, and the names of the three AAF Technical Schools, listed in order of preference, in which you are most interested. This information will be used to determine your qualifications for the course you desire. If you are selected to attend the course you want to take, you may enlist for three years in the Army Air Forces, complete a period of basic training, and be assured of attending the school you have selected. Full details (including a list of schools offered) are available, now, at U. S. Army Recruiting Stations, AAF Bases, Civil Air Patrol Units, or by writing the Commanding General, AAF Training Command, Barksdale Field, La.

It is a Great Opportunity!

The Aviation Career Plan is another example of the Army Air Forces' efforts to give qualified men every chance to equip themselves for well-paid, responsible positions within the Air Forces, or in later civilian life. By taking advantage of this truly remarkable opportunity, a young man can acquire the knowledge and practical experience it takes to get ahead in the world of aviation. It offers, too, an excellent way to prepare for a commission as an officer in the Army of the United States.

By applying immediately, you can get a head start on your career. Look into it today — and join the team that leads the way in new things for aviation!

A VACATION WITH A FUTURE

Consider the advantages of a change to a semi-tropical holiday . . . the temperate climate that compares favorably with that of many northern resorts . . . the famous beaches, playgrounds and resort facilities of America's great year-round vacationland. For a fine holiday—where summer living costs make it possible to enjoy superb vacations on normal budgets—awaits you in Florida and the South this summer. And years of pleasant memories—a glorious future—await your return. Ask your nearest Coast Line agent for additional information and recommendations.

Ringside Table — With Mary Harris

BUSTING ITS BUTTONS is the nitery diversion scene Stephen Kisley and his band have returned to the Carlton's Congo Room after a long stay at Chicago's Edgewater Beach... Little Jack Little is back at El Patio where he's played half a dozen engagements since its opening in '41, i s combining this job with his disc jockeying on WEAM ... Merry-Land has broken out a pair of dizzy fingered pianists, Cliff Conrad and Jimmy Kingsley ... And on Saturday the Neptune Room will present Sammy Ferro and his flashy Tidesmen, also Organist Edith Davies ... All this is happening in little more than a week! Where are those summer doldrums we've heard mentioned?

Stephen Kisley At the Carlton

There'll be an outdoor crab feast at Normandy Farm on Friday, weather permitting. The crabs will be boiled in beer. All you can eat for $2.

REAL ESTATING MAESTROS. Oscar Davis, band leader who preceded Bobby Simpson at the Old New Orleans, is reported joining the spot's owner, Nick Gaston, in the real estate business. This reminds that Milton Davis, who led the band at the defunct Treasure Island, and Paul Kain, leader at the Metronome Room and Glen Echo for several seasons, have also leaped into the busy real estate field.

LOUNGE RIVIERA will have its first wedding breakfast on June 28, after the marriage of Miss Nell Tullis and Robert Vetter. And that's not all. On the following day, June 29, there'll be another wedding breakfast—a huge affair for 600 ... Tonight's customers at the Riviera probably will find the spot connected with the main dining room of Hotel 2400 by a series of folding doors. This arrangement will double the spot's present capacity of 475, be exactly what is needed for weekends and big nights.

"Dyna-Mite," meaning that explosive midget songstress, Yvonne Moray, heads the new revue starting tomorrow at the Lotus. Also in the line-up are the dancing Springers, singing emcee Buddy Shaner and Dave and Dorothy Workman in a "musical surprise."

TRAVEL NEWS. Sam Wong, the already boyishly slim owner of the China Clipper, lost 10 pounds airplaning to Hongkong, says going across the Rockies was the toughest part of the long journey. ... President Paul Schwarz of Washington's musicians' union, is in Detroit at the AFM convention. He postcards that it's "hot," but we don't know whether he means the weather or the convention ... From far-off Turkey comes a card from tall, dark and handy John Vonetes whose last Washington restaurant assignment was as assistant to the Muses' owner, Peter Drogaris. John is now with a Manhattan textile firm. He laments the shortage of niteries in Istanbul ... Luigi, owner of the Pizzeria, will leave soon for Italy. Manager Charlie Moudy will take care of the Pizzeria while Luigi's away.

E. Bradley Clay, recently discharged from the Naval Hospital, is r'aring to go. He's reassembled his Spotlight Band, will soon start making records.

3 Sentenced For Driving While Drunk

Three men who pleaded guilty to drunken driving yesterday drew suspended jail sentences and fines in Municipal Court.

A hung jury resulted in a mistrial in a fourth case involving alleged tipsy driving. No date was set for a new trial.

John Walker, 1315 Park rd. nw., and Henry S. Gripper, 2126 11th st. nw., were each given a suspended sentnece of 90 days and fined $100. If they fail to pay the fine, they must serve an additional 30 days, Judge George D. Neilson decreed.

Charles E. Cole, 631 4th st. ne., received the same penalty.

A mistrial resulted in the case of Charles F. Taylor, 310 E st. nw., when the jury disagreed.

Cole was arrested February 16 at 22d and P sts. nw., when the attention of police were drawn to his car, operated without lights.

Gripper was taken into custody last Christmas night as he was driving on the wrong side of Irving st. nw., in the 600 block.

Walker was arrested May 18, and Taylor was placed under arrest following an altercation with a cab driver on May 13.

Two Eagle Scout Medals Will Be Awarded Tonight

Without Painful Backache
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
When disorder of kidney function permits Poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Owners Told to Defy Law, Raise Rents

By Drew Pearson

Leaders of the Chicago real estate industry have recently issued amazing advice to landlords—namely, that they should deliberately disregard the law and raise rents regardless of Government regulations.

Sen. White

Real estate leaders point out in a confidential bulletin not supposed to be read by the public—that "the Government is now relying almost wholly on tenant enforcement of rent-control regulation."

Therefore, Chicago landlords are advised, "The only possibility for relief now seems to lie in the direction of deliberate disregard for the regulations." The quotation is not ours. It's supplied by the Chicago realtors.

They go on to hint that one good way to help raise rents illegally is to get the Republican Congress to hold down congressional appropriations for the Government agency replacing the OPA.

"If the appropriation for OPA'S successor is held at low levels," the confidential real estate letter advises, "tenants in possession will enforce their rent ceilings. But new tenancy arrangements will be made in increasing numbers at illegal rates."

This advice to flout the law is given in the "market letter of the Chicago Real Estate Boards," accompanied by this caution: "Warning! The value of this letter lies in its being confidential advice."

No wonder they want it to be confidential!

Slapping Down Mr. White

Meek and mild Senator Wallace White of Maine, the Senate majority leader, has just been given another rebuff by the GOP colleagues who elected him. No wonder he won't run for reelection.

All during this session of Congress, White has patiently put up with having Senator Bob Taft poke him from behind to tell him what to do. But the final and most galling blow came recently, when West Virginia's one-term Senator Revercomb bested White in a jurisdictional dispute.

The question was: should the Interstate Commerce Committee of which White is chairman, or the Public Works Committee of which Revercomb is chairman, handle a nomination to the Federal Power Commission — primarily, the nomination of Burton K. Behling as a power commissioner.

For years the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee has considered Federal Power Commission nominations. In fact, it has handled them ever since the power commission was established. However, Revercomb demanded jurisdiction on the ground that his Public Works Committee was handling waterpower and kindred legislation. Finally Revercomb wangled an opinion from the Senate parliamentarian supporting him.

After a brief backstage skirmish with White, Revercomb won out. As Senate majority leader, White tells friends he will not take this humiliating defeat lying down. White may even demand a showdown on the Senate floor.

Note: After all the furious jousting over the FPC nomination, molasses-moving Revercomb hasn't lifted a finger to clear Behling's name through his committee for Senate confirmation. He has been sitting placidly on the nomination for over a month.

Henry Wallace's "Front"

When Clark Foreman, president of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare, heard that the House Un-American Affairs Committee intended to brand his organization as a "front" for communism, he went to see Congressman Herbert Bonner of North Carolina, a member of the committee, and charged that the committee had deliberately timed its report to appear a day before Henry Wallace's Washington speech.

"The coincidence is too remarkable to pass unnoticed," Foreman declared. "Obviously your report was timed to hurt Wallace."

Bonner shrugged.

"It had nothing to do with Wallace," was all he said.

Then Foreman demanded that the report be held up until the conference had a chance for a full hearing.

"It looks like a smear-and-run campaign to me," he accused.

"The report contains nothing but names and evidence of your affiliations," Bonner shot back. "You can run around with whomever you please, but don't squeal and squinch about it."

Foreman considered blocking the Sunday release by court order, but his lawyers decided against it. They could find no precedent for enjoining a congressional committee.

Last Rites Set For 2 More Area Victims of Crash

Funeral services for two more Washington area victims of the DC-4 crash near Hillsboro, Va., last Friday night were announced yesterday.

Miss Minnie Harman, 50, veteran Red Cross worker who lived at 1727 Massachusetts ave. nw., will be buried today at Tazewell, Va. Miss Harman's body was not identified until Monday afternoon and it was erroneously reported that she was buried in a common grave at Leesburg, Va., with unidentified dead from the crash.

It was also announced that services for Edmund J. Stone, an economist in the Office of the Housing Expediter, would be held tomorrow at 4:30 p. m. at the Beverly Hills Church, Alexandria. Mr. Stone lived at 2921 Argyle dr. Alexandria.

Dry Crusading Preacher's Water Supply Is Cut Off

Rose City, Mich., June 17 (U.P.).—The wets and drys in this tense little resort city of 350 population launched a "water war" tonight over the Methodist minister who is fighting to dry up the town.

The battle erupted as the Rev. Cecil H. Scott returned to Rose City after Bishop Raymond J. Wade reappointed him to his pulpit for another year over the bitter objections of city leaders.

Scott brought down the wrath of the mayor, the city fathers, a hotel owner, businessmen, three barkeepers and a sizable number of residents recently with his charges that Rose City was steeped in immorality and drunkenness.

Well Diggers "Busy"

The minister and his wife found that the parsonage was without water. The pipe from a neighboring well had been ripped out and, by coincidence, well diggers were "too busy" to dig a well for him.

Said Mrs. Eddy Fleming, shutting off the valve of the well which has supplied the parsonage with water for 29 years:

"Mr. Scott wanted the town dry. At least part of his wish has come true."

Scott also found there was a shortage of cooking gas, groceries and even gas for his automobile.

Mrs. Scott said her husband finally was able to buy some food today and believed the other "shortages" would come to an end.

Promises Fight

"Every home in Rose City gets its water from wells," Scott said. "Members of the congregation control more than half of them. If my opponents want a water war, perhaps they will get it."

Mayor Morton King, principal target of Scott's withering temperance attacks, found he could not oust Scott legally.

Meanwhile, the pressure campaign against Scott took another tack, his opponents promised to bring in competition.

France Acts on Treaty

Paris, June 17 (AP).—The Council of the Republic, France's upper house of Parliament, unanimously ratified the peace treaty with Italy tonight, completing legislative action on the treaty ratification.

Stopovers in London and Rehoboth

Such a Small World: Theater Notes, From Cairo to 16th and K

By Richard L. Coe

FAR-FLUNG NOTES from a man who lives for pleasure:

Rehoboth Beach, Del.: Who pops up here but Barbara O'Brien, whose name you possibly know not though you might have seen her in some 80 "Our Gang" comedies . . . Barbara's in the Baroque Room of the resort's Plaza through next Saturday night . . . There's talk of this young lady for a revue this fall . . . If she doesn't go back to being Mary Aldrich on that network series . . . Barbara's a young lady now, as you can see from her picture, but there was a time she played with Leslie Howard and Norma Shearer in "Romeo and Juliet" and with Allan Jones in "Show Boat" . . . Barbara tells us she'd work in Washington "if it wasn't so hot" . . . Most unkind.

Barbara O'Brien

Cairo, Egypt: Here are the latest rules for going to the movies: Keep your tickets 'til you leave (all seats are reserved); don't bring in parcels; don't leave while the show is on, in fact, not until the national anthem is over at the end; don't smoke; don't change seats . . . if you do all that and a bomb goes off, it's not your fault, at least it won't look like it!

Lutherville, Md.: For the adventurous Washingtonian, here's another summer theater . . . Baltimore's noted Hilltop Theater, a full-Equity company, opens Monday night with a new comedy by Reginald Lawrence, "Dream of Fair Women" . . . It's a switch on Olney's current "Bill of Divorcement," in that a soldier returns from overseas duty with a new bride to find his first wife, reported dead, very much alive . . . The Hilltop might be called the Swann family's own theater . . . In this first bill, sister Lyn will play the surprised second wife

Alexandria, Va.: Gadsby's Tavern, the scene of a unique revival last season—David Garrick's "The Lying Valet"—will again be the setting for a similar offering by the town's Little Theater . . . The folks got together last night in their workshop off Ramsey's Alley and worked out plans for another Garrick play in the fall . . . Once again you'll be ushered into the historic old house by costumed hostesses equipped with lanterns and curtseys . . . The hope is to make this an annual Gadsby's tradition.

Paris, France: "Carmen" was performed in the Opera Comique the other night for the 2500th time . . . To make the unique record more strange, the Bizet opera was sung by four Carmens, three Micaelas and two Escamillos . . . The Metropolitan's Raoul Jobin was the lone Don Jose . . . The Comique's "Carmen" is always one of the most exciting shows imaginable and, believe us, puts Billy Rose's "Carmen Jones" in the shade.

Chesapeake Beach Park: With "The Fabulous Dorseys" now hitting the Nation's screens, it's probably a pretty good trailer for Jimmy's band . . . The boys in Jimmy's outfit (not Tommy's!) will be on hand here for Friday night dancing . . . This Friday only.

London, England: "Life With Father" is playing to less enthusiasm than two other top American hits, "Oklahoma!" and "Annie Get Your Gun" . . . It seems, not unnaturally, that the British reviewers have found its sentiment a bit too much so for Anglican tastes . . . Leslie Banks is acting Father and Sophie Stewart is Vinnie . . . "Mild" is the word for the critical reception, but the public may take to it better.

Virginia Beach, Va.: Reservations are on the books for Mrs. Hazel Garrison, her husband and their 4-month-old daughter, Patricia . . . Mrs. Garrison, of 4012 3d st. nw., won the "Honeymoon" contest sponsored by Keith's, the Hecht Co. and WRC's Nancy Osgood . . . Her winning letter told of how she, a British war bride, felt on arriving in the States . . . She crossed on the Queen Mary, on which her husband had crossed as a soldier in the dark days of the war . . . Runners-up were Mrs. Robert W. Williams, 4717 South 29th st., Arlington, and Mrs. D. A. Buzzell, 843 North Harrison st., Arlington.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY: For Friday night, the department of painting and sculpture plans an "An Evening of Entertainment" . . . Sophia Delza will give a group of satirical dance monologues and two short films will be shown, one of Myra Hess at the piano and another of British actors in a scene from "Julius Caesar" . . . The Watkins Gallery is the spot on the campus . . . 9 o'clock is the hour.

SIXTEENTH AND K: Registering at the Statler today will be Paramount's starlet, Virginia Welles . . . Virginia will be here for the opening of "Dear Ruth" at the Earle . . . You may recall her from "Kiss and Tell" with Shirley Temple.

THE CAUSE OF IT ALL: Mona Freeman as the teen-ager who takes to cheering up a soldier at mail call in "Dear Ruth," opening tomorrow at the Earle. Joan Caulfield, William Holden, Billy De Wolfe, Edward Arnold and Virginia Welles are others in the comedy

The Worst Is Always Better With a Sun Tan

New York.—Some years ago in Hollywood Al Jolson complained that his movie appearances left him little time to devote to his business investments.

Ben Bernie

"Out here a person must make up his mind whether he's a businessman or an entertainer," Jolson said. "You can't be both — unless your name is Eddie Cantor." Although Jolson's name still isn't Cantor, in this, his sixtieth year, he has managed to combine his business ventures and entertaining to a degree which will earn for him over a million dollars . . . Physically he's changed but little in the past 15 years. He again has the bounce, the grin and the sun-tan. "No matter how bad things are," he insists, "they always seem better with a sun-tan."

Jolson could have augmented his income by $10,000 a week by appearing in a musical this year, were it not for his preference for the Florida sun in the winter months. Every producer on Broadway submitted bids—even the Shuberts, one of whom he once punched in the nose. "I guess this winds him up with you, doesn't it?" the producer was asked that day. Lee Shubert stemmed the flow of blood and shook his head. "Any man who makes a million dollars a year for me may punch me in the nose any time," said Mr. Shubert.

When Jolson last appeared on Broadway, in "Hold On to Your Hats," Ben Bernie asked him about a trip to Miami. "Not this season," Jolson insisted. "With a hit show on my hands, I'm not going South." . . . Bernie then made a bet with him, with witnesses present to certify it, a $250 bet that when the first winter vacationer returned from the South with a tan darker than Al's, the star would leave the show and go to Florida . . . Came the tanned returning vacationer, and—armed with affidavits from his doctor that a long rest in the sun was necessary for the preservation of his health—Jolson went off to Miami.

A prominent New Yorker met an actress, found himself in love, and decided to marry her immediately. He casually mentioned her name to two of his friends; first, to a reporter who told him: "Oh, that girl? For years she was the mistress of a director I know." Then he mentioned her name to Dick Watts, and the drama critic told him: "She's a bad actress" . . . The New Yorker married the lady, and such is the curious reflex of the theater folk that they continued their friendship with the reporter who had exposed her moral turpitude, but never again spoke to Dick Watts because he had described her as a bad actress.

Serge Rubinstein, the convicted draft-dodger who will be deported as soon as his sentence have been served, is making plans to settle in Switzerland. He cannot step foot on British or French soil.

Stevens Joins De Havilland For Films' 'The Snake Pit'

Hollywood.—Mark Stevens was a mighty sick boy when he finished "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now." An old spinal ailment began to kick up; so Twentieth Century gave him a 10-month layoff on full salary. The long rest has done wonders for Mark. He looks—and says he feels—as fit as a fiddle. He'll return to work in a couple of weeks as Olivia De Havilland's husband in "The Snake Pit." The third principal role in the picture—that of the doctor—has not yet been cast . . . Gloria Grahame, the luscious blonde who tried to vamp Jimmy Stewart in "It's a Wonderful Life," is changing studios. RKO liked her work in "Crossfire" so well that it has bought her contract, lock, stock, and barrel, from Metro. She'll be starred in "Roughshod" as her first picture under the new setup, which promises to be fun. In it Claude Jarman, jr., gets a teen-age crush on Gloria and his big brother has to move in to save the day. Gloria is a Hollywood girl who had to make good on Broadway before the movies would give her a tumble. Connie Gilchrist's daughter, Dorothy, is another local girl who sidestepped pictures to win her acting wings on the stage. Now she's been brought back for the next Clark Gable picture, "Homecoming of Ulysses."

Olivia De Havilland

North (Mike) Stars

Another youngster getting a break is Mike North. With a fine background in stock companies, he got only bits and unimportant parts in pictures before Mike Curtiz got interested in him. He'll get the starring role in Curtiz's forthcoming film, "Sugar Foot," a post-Civil War yarn by Clarence Budington Kelland slated for fall production . . . Paramount has bought the new Roy Chanslor novel, "Hazard." It's the story of a woman who is a chronic gambler. She welshes on a big bet, ducks West, and is followed by a trigger man. Sounds like a natural for Paulette Goddard and Alan Ladd . . . Universal-International is to be congratulated on signing John Hambleton as production coordinator on a long-term deal. John, whose ideal is Irving Thalberg, has the dignity and taste required by the highly important job . . . Incidentally, that same studio is sinking some moola into Leland Hayward's production of "The Survivors," which means that studio will get the first crack at the property for the films. The play, written by Irwin Shaw and Peter Viertal, will star Montgomery Clift . . . Mickey Rooney is really fighting for a living. In one day he had to box 28 rounds—equivalent to three bouts in the professional squared circles—for "Killer McCoy." But when you see the sequence on the screen, it'll be only one round.

Difficult Start

Rita Johnson, now appearing with Ray Milland and Charles Laughton in the suspense drama, "The Big Clock," had to sell subscriptions to a stock company season in order to get her first acting job. She started in Worcester, Mass.

Uncredited Contributor

The man who was responsible for the tricks performed by the dogs in "The Emperor Waltz" is Frank Inn, a native of Mooresville, Ind. His name, of course, does not appear on the credits.

Team Reunited

"Welcome Stranger" is the first picture that Bing Crosby and Barry Fitzgerald have made together since they teamed for Academy-award winning performances in their memorable "Going My Way."

When Sweet Sixteen

Mary Hatcher, 17-year-old actress who plays the title role in the 36-star "Variety Girl," got her first big break on her sixteenth birthday. On that day, the Theater Guild signed her for the singing lead in "Oklahoma!"

2½ Billions In Loans Asked Of World Bank

World Bank loans will not only produce the articles of international trade but will also help restore the confidence on which trade depends, District business leaders were told yesterday.

Pineo

Charles C. Pineo, loan director of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development at the same time disclosed that the World Bank had received applications for loans amounting to 2554 million dollars.

How Loans Are Weighed

"These applications," he said, "will be considered in the light of the urgency and usefulness of the project for which the funds will be used, the usefulness of the loan to both the borrower and world trade. The willingness and ability of the borrower to use its own resources to the fullest extent, whether the loan can do what the borrower expects, and whether the borrower can maintain service of the loan."

Pineo emphasized the growing awareness that the prosperity of this country is "directly dependent" upon the state of the world's economic health.

The loan director spoke before the twenty-seventh anniversary luncheon of the Washington Better Business Bureau, held at the Statler Hotel. He was introduced by Eugene Meyer, former head of the World Bank and presently chairman of the board of The Washington Post.

Cites Poor Practices

Claude H. Woodward, bureau director, warned that two powerful forces are operating against good relations between business and the public.

Woodward

"One is the sowing of mistrust of business in the minds of our youth," he said. "And the other is the widespread anti-business propaganda being carried on by certain kinds of organizations and individuals.

Bad business practices are carried out only by a minority, Woodward pointed out. But, he added, these unfair practices are magnified in the public mind, and create demands for more regulatory measures.

"Be sure, that in every advertisement and transaction with the public," Woodward said, "you do your best to make a friend for your product, for your company, for the industry . . . and for all business."

30,701 See Feller Down Nats, 5 to 3

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

POVICH

I'D SAY it's a bum rap Bob Feller is getting for no worse a crime than making a lot of money for himself. In the public prints he has been pictured as a greedy individual who has been sacrificing whatever might be the pennant chances of the Cleveland Club by his collateral enterprises under the firm name of Ro-Fel Inc.

He did go out and make $40,000 on a barnstorming trip last fall with the Feller All Stars. His ghost-written book, "The Strikeout Story," is netting him another tidy sum, and for the last month Feller has held autographing parties in every city. His recorded broadcasts are now being sold to 45 radio stations. He's cleaning up very nicely, in addition to his $80,000 contract with the Cleveland Indians.

And human nature being what it is, that made him a target, if not a fair target, for the critic-minded. At the first sign of a lapse in Feller's pitching skill, the harpoons began to fly. When he was licked five times in his first ten decisions, the bleating was loud, and for the first time in his life he heard Cleveland fans set up the shout of "Take him out!" Business Man Feller couldn't pitch like Pitcher Feller, was the tenor of the squawks.

IN A MILD sort of way, I leaped to the same conclusion a couple of weeks ago when I impertinently reported that Feller was not only the highest-paid pitcher in baseball history but the most overpaid. It is a line not easily digested, but in fairness it has to be. Going into last night's battle with the Nats, he had won his last three games, and his eight wins were tops among the league's pitchers.

Feller's own philosophy is sort of wonderful, incidentally. "If I was just a $10,000 pitcher, nobody would be squawking except myself," he said. "It looks as if you're a bum if you don't make much dough and spend what little you make. But if you get up into the big-money bracket and don't happen to win enough ball games, they call you selfish and greedy. I'll take my chances in the big-money class and trust to my own conscience."

Feller is almost copping a line out of Joe E. Lewis' act in which the droll emcee used to say, "I've been rich, and I've been poor—rich is better." Or the other Lewis quip to the effect that "it doesn't make any difference whether you're rich or poor—as long as you have money."

CLARK GRIFFITH cut loose at Feller the other day with an announcement that he wouldn't permit any of his ball players to barnstorm more than 10 days, in contrast to the 30-day tour of Feller's All Stars last fall. "Feller's trip ruined three major league stars for this season—Mickey Vernon, Stan Musial and Feller himself," Griffith was quoted.

Griffith's man, Vernon, and Musial, are indeed having bad seasons though Feller has lately lifted his winning percentage to a respectable figure, but the Nat's owner is seizing on flimsy evidence perhaps in attributing the slumps of Vernon and Musial to barnstorming with Feller.

What then is the cause of the slumps of Ted Williams and Hal Newhouser, who didn't barnstorm with Feller? The Tigers paid Newhouser $10,000 not to take the Feller trip, and he is having his worst season, six wins and seven defeats, since he took rank as a star. Williams, who was bought off by the Red Sox when he sought to barnstorm with Feller, is hitting less than .300 this year for the first time in his big league career. The guys who didn't go with Feller are doing as badly as those who did, so it behooves Mr. Griffith to come again, I'd say.

THAT IT'S folly to count Feller out, or even discount him at any time, was established long ago. Last season he was having his early troubles, and the complaint was heard that he had left his throwing arm in the Navy. Whereupon Feller in his next start shut up his critics by pitching a no-hitter against the Yankees.

Feller can take pride in the fact, perhaps, that he's counted a flop when he isn't something super. This isn't one of his best years, but look at what he's done . . . won more games than any pitcher in the league . . . pitched four shut-outs, turned in two no-hitters, and one three-hitter. Is that bad? For Feller, maybe the answer is yes, but for any other pitcher it would be labeled wonderful.

He needed relief the other night in Philadelphia before he could win his game, but only after he had twisted his knee when his spikes caught on the mound. Earlier in the night when he had his health, all he did was to strike out nine of the first 11 guys he faced. You wouldn't say the guy is quite through.

The suspicion here is that Feller will be around pitching the best ball in the league for a long time, yet. He pays more attention to physical condition than any other guy in the baseball business. He runs more, watches his diet better, is never out of shape. And out in Iowa where he maintains a couple of college scholarships for deserving kids, they think he's a very nice guy.

PRIDDY SAFE AT THIRD—Jerry Priddy, Nats' second baseman, slides safely into third base on Mark Christman's hit in the second inning of last night's Washington-Cleveland game at Griffith Stadium before the season's largest crowd, 30,701. Ken Keltner covers third for the Indians. Priddy later scored the Nats' first run. Cleveland won, 5-3

Spence Hits Homer in 8th For Season's Top Crowd

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

The Nats sustained a fracture of their three-game winning streak last night in a collision with Bob Feller, a rugged individual who struck out nine men, personally swatted a two-run triple and otherwise displeased Griffith Stadium's largest crowd of the season.

Before 30,701 customers who packed the stands and spilled into the aisles, the Nats took a 5-3 beating from the Cleveland Indians, traceable chiefly to a ragged sixth inning.

The Indians wrenched three runs out of a luckless Buck Newsom in that sixth to blow wide open what had been a tight 2-1 ball game and take a 5-1 lead. Newsom was the victim of an infield error and the expensive Griffith Stadium lights which converted Feller's line drive to center into a triple when Stan Spence lost the ball in the glare.

The Nats' Last Try

Two innings later Feller was jolted out of any tendency toward smugness when Spence blasted a two-run homer over the right field wall to cut the Cleveland lead to 5-3 and restore the Nats to the ball game. But that was the last hit they ever did get.

Feller packed eight of his strikeouts into the first six innings, mixing his fast ball with the improved Feller curve. He gave up eight hits, the same number collected by the Indians off Newsom in six innings. Ray Scarborough turned in a hitless three-inning relief job for the Nats in a brave but futile attempt to keep 'em in the game.

The Indians, however, were swinging from their heels against Newsom and extra base hits figured in all of their runs, with George Metkovich sounding the keynote when he tripled on Newsom's second pitch of the game.

Metkovich's blow was a low line drive to right on which Lewis failed to make a shoestring catch, and when Hal Peck followed with a single the Indians were threatening a big inning. Newsom however limited the damage to one run.

Keltner Doubles to Start It

Keltner led off the second inning with another triple, to deep center, and Feller found himself with a two-run lead when Hegan produced a long fly to left.

The Nats rapped Feller for futile singles by Lewis and Vernon in the first inning, but they got a run back in the second when Priddy led off with a single and raced to third on Christman's single to left. Evans produced a long fly to right that scored Priddy.

The game rocked along at 2-1, Cleveland, with Newsom and Feller in complete charge for a 3-inning stretch until Boudreau led off in the sixth with a double to the left field wall that touched off the Indians' big inning.

Fleming drew a pass from Newsom and Gordon bounced what appeared to be a perfect double-play grounder at Christman. Priddy took Christman's throw to force Fleming, but threw wild into the Washington dugout in a try for a double play, and Boudreau scored with Gordon reaching second on the error.

In this crisis, Keltner was purposely passed and Hegan popped up for the second out, but with two strikes against him Feller lashed a drive into short center and the 30,701 customers were horrified to see Spence standing helplessly in the glare of the stadium lights. The hit rolled to the centerfield wall for a triple, scoring Gordon and Keltner.

Very Mild Threat

The Nats threatened mildly in their own sixth when Lewis and Spence singled. They got nothing but in the eight they tightened up the ball game again.

Yost led off with a looping single to left and with one out, Vernon's short fly to left dropped safely, but the Nats ran out of luck. Yost, forced to hesitate on the baseline, was thrown out at second by Leftfielder Seerey. Then it was that Spence rapped his eighth homer of the year over the rightfield wall. It was the Nats' dying gasp. They didn't get to first base against Feller after that.

How costly was the Nats defeat of last night will be determined today when injuries to Catcher Al Evans and Second Baseman Gerry Priddy will be X-rayed . . . Evans was struck on the middle finger of his throwing hand by a foul tip off Metkovich's bat in the fifth inning and was forced to leave the game . . . Later in the same inning, Priddy was struck on the left knee by a throw from Catcher Rick Ferrell and also quit the game . . . Feller matched his first start of the season when again last night he failed to walk a batter . . . Tonight, the Nats send Sid Hudson against Don Black, Cleveland right-hander.

FBI Wins in Ninth

Federal Bureau of Investigation scored two runs in the last half of the ninth inning to defeat Washington Gas-Light Co., 3-2, yesterday in a Departmental League game on the South Ellipse.

Conzelman Smirks, Disclaims Grid Title Prospects of Cards

By Al Costello
Post Reporter

JIMMY CONZELMAN, colorful character, wit, piano player, singer, writer and, most important of all, coach of the Chicago Cardinal football team, came to town yesterday complaining. But not much.

The erudite Jimmy doesn't seem to like it because a lot of the so-called experts are picking his Cards to win the championship this year.

"We've got practically the same team we had last year," said he, grinning in anticipation. "Of course, fellows like Paul Christman and Pat Harder are nice to have around and we'll win our share of games. But I don't see how they're picking us to win.

"Then, of course," he added as if it was an afterthought, which it wasn't, "we'll have Charley Trippi this year. He should help us."

JIMMY is visiting the East on business—football business that is—and has a trade or two in mind. He wouldn't say whether or not he was interested in cooking up a deal or two with the Redskins. He did, however, admit having several trades in mind with other clubs "but nothing that involves big name stars."

Jimmy thinks the National Football League race this fall will be a honey. He expects competition to be increased 50 per cent over what it was last year, a season that saw upsets almost the rule rather than the exception.

He is inclined to favor the New York Giants to win in the East and figures the Bears are the club to beat in the West. He said:

"The Giants ought to have the best line in the league since the Bear line of 1941. They need a passer but even so I'll go along with Steve Owen and that great line of his.

"THE REDSKINS should have another tough team. They have plenty of reserves and in Ralph Ruthstrom (received from the Rams with Tom Farmer in exchange for Steve Bagarus) they will have one of the best defensive players in the league. Boston is greatly improved and like in our case last year, I think they will be the most improved team in the league.

"Us? Oh, we'll be in there somewhere scrambling around."

Mr. Conzelman grinned again. He wasn't exactly unhappy about his own set-up even if he wasn't saying too much.

Worsham Is 4 Under Par For 13 Holes

Detroit, June 17.—National Open Champion Lew Worsham of Bethesda, Md., toured 13 holes of the Plum Hollow course in four under par today in a practice round before the opening of the P. G. A. tournament.

Lloyd Mangrum, the 1946 Open champion, playing with Worsham, registered three under par for the same 13, before rain chased them both off the course.

Sammy Snead, British Open champ, and runner-up to Worsham in the National Open, carded a 67 in his practice round, one stroke more than he posted yesterday. Bobby Locke, the South Africa champ, stroked the first nine in a par 36. Ben Hogan, the defending P. G. A. titleholder, didn't keep a card, but reported that he played just about par golf.

Hogan, who beat Ed (Porky) Oliver of Wilmington, Del., for the PGA crown last year at Portland, Ore., said he knew "absolutely nothing" about Plum Hollow's rolling fairways and tricky greens before his arrival here and didn't know what to expect of the course the early birds have called one of the finest all-round tests of golf in America.

Par Five Holes Are Long

Dick Metz, the handsome Chicagoan who posted a two-under-par 70 in his first practice round, voiced the general opinion when he declared the rolling tournament layout "calls for every shot in the bag—and they've got to be good ones."

"Those long par 5 holes (there are five of them) are really long," Metz said with a whistle.

Hogan, who never has failed to advance as far as the quarter-finals in the four PGA tourneys he has competed in since 1940, rolled up to the clubhouse in a new, big 1947 automobile he purchased here Monday and headed directly for the practice tee. There he spent nearly two hours, mostly with his woods, which the experts consider the key to Plum Hollow's extreme length.

Hogan, who tied for sixth in the National Open at St. Louis with a 72-hole score of 289, declared his game "isn't what it should be."

1600 Entries, 100 Classes in Horse Show

The fifth annual Maryland Horse Show, formerly the Maryland Hunter Show, will open at the Timonium Fair Grounds at 10 a. m. tomorrow and continue through Sunday with evening sessions scheduled for Friday and Saturday.

The Maryland show is the third largest outdoor equine event to be held in the East this season. Sixteen hundred entries from 27 States, including some of the finest horseflesh in the country, will compete in the 100 class program. These horses will be competing for $10,000 in cash prizes, 14 championships and 16 challenge trophies.

The District will be represented in the hunter and jumper divisions by such campaigners as Dr. and Mrs. Alvin I. Kay's outstanding hunter champion, Portmaker; Admiral and Mrs. Forrest Sherman's Beale Walk; Mrs. Frank Christmas' After Dark, a consistant winner at last year's Maryland show; Mrs. Lee Counselman's Kristi, who will try to repeat her last year's performances by again taking the working hunter tricolor and Dr. and Mrs. Paul Y. Rosenberg's smooth Hylo-Ladd.

The jumper division will be ably represented by Mrs. Garner Hallman's famed leaper, Gray Lark, this versatile performer will also compete in working hunter classes, and the Kays' popular veteran ribbon winner Smacko. In addition to these many van loads of top horses from nearby Virginia and Maryland will make the trip to Timonium.

Tennis School Arranged for Boys and Girls

A youngster interested in tennis said yesterday:

"Why doesn't somebody do something for boys and girls in tennis? There have been basketball and baseball and football and swimming schools. How about giving us a break?"

Very well, here it is:

Every boy and girl in Washington herewith is invited to attend a series of instructional tennis classes, sponsored by The Post in cooperation with the District Recreation Department.

Saturday Morning Classes

Classes will be held from 9 to 10:30 a. m. on Saturdays, July 12, 19 and 26 and August 9.

Bill Shreve, central figure in tennis in the District for years, yesterday agreed to serve as director of this program.

Classes will be conducted at 20 locations where tennis courts are available in the District.

Fred Perry, one of the greatest of international stars, will be asked to participate in the instructional work. Perry now is coaching at Washington and Lee University.

Stars Will Instruct

Well-known Washington players are expected to volunteer their services. These include Gil Bogley, national boys' champion; Barney Welsh, Dave Johnson, Don Leavens, Jim Thackara, John Curtis, Jim Farrin, Phil Neff, Rickey Willis, Bill Gifford, Tony Latona and Hugh Lynch.

Ann Gray, Charlotte Decker, Willie Herbert and Betty Zimmerman are among the girl stars who will be called upon for leadership.

Other leading players who will help are Maurice Jackson, Cylde Freeman, Frank Perkins, Anita Gant, Margaret Peters and Romine Peters.

Detweiler Wins In Atlanta Golf

Atlanta, June 17 (AP).—Three upsets marked first-round play today in the eighteenth annual Women's Western Open Golf Tournament, but the top favorites advanced without too much difficulty.

One of the favorites, Miss Helen Detweiler, formerly of Washington, D. C., and now of Indio, Calif., eliminated Mrs. Sam Israel of New Orleans, the Louisiana champion, 3 and 2. Miss Detweiler, winner of the Western Championship in 1939, gained the right to meet Betty Jameson of San Antonio, 4 and 3 victor over Kay Pearson of Houston.

In the day's most startling reversal, Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., youthful Georgia State champion, eliminated Veteran Jean Hopkins of Cleveland, Ohio, one-up in 19 holes.

Patty Berg of Minneapolis, National Open champion and twice winner of the Western Open, won an uphill battle against Jane Sharkey of Atlanta, finally triumphing two-up.

Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., eliminated Mrs. George Wilcox of Miami, 5 and 4. Miss Kirk ousted Alice O'Neal of Indianapolis, 7 and 6. Louise Suggs of Lithia Springs, Ga., scored a 3 and 2 victory over Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich. Hope Seignious of Greensboro, N. C., defeated Marjorie Row of Riverside, Ontario, 2-up.

Riggs, Budge Lead Advance In Pro Tourney

Forest Hills, N. Y., June 17 (AP).—Defending Champion Bobby Riggs and such other top-seeded play-for-pay stars as Don Budge, Frankie Kovacs and Fred Perry all gained ground today in the second day of the National Professional Lawn Tennis Championships.

Riggs put on his usual steady game as he ran Lloyd Budge of Montclair, N. J., ragged to score an easy straight-set victory, 6—1, 6—3, 6—3, over Don's older brother.

Second-seeded Don Budge made short shrift of Bill Weissbuck, Inwood, N. Y., in straight sets. Frank Kovacs smashed out a 6—2, 6—0, 6—0 triumph over Richard van den Bosch, Sunnyside, N. Y.

Perry, former backbone of the English Davis Cup squad, ran into a bit more trouble than did his three higher ranked rivals, being forced to an extra-game affair in the third set of his 6—4, 6—1, 7—5 triumph over Charles Wood, Bedford Village, N. Y.

Fifth-seeded Welby Van Horn, Chattanooga, Tenn., gained the third round by defeating Bill Douglas, Baltimore, Md., 6—1, 6—1, 7—5. Sixth-seeded Wayne Sabin, Mount Washington, N. H., also reached the third round with a five-set victory over Frank Goeltz, Washington, D. C., 4—6, 6—4, 3—6, 6—2, 6—4.

Smith Medalist In Federal Golf Tourney With 72

Former Champion LeRoy Smith, United States Capitol employe, took medal honors in the opening day of the Federal Golf Association tournament with a 72 yesterday over the Prince Georges Country Club course.

Smith led the 17 low scorers into the final day of 18-hole medal play, which takes place next Tuesday at Prince Georges.

Class A low net laurels went to Howard H. Halpin of the Treasury Department with 77—8—69. The War Department, with 315, won Class A low net honors for team play.

Pep Wins Decision In Return to Ring

Hartford, Conn., June 17 (U.P.).—Willie Pep, world featherweight champion, displayed much of his former prowess when he returned to the ring tonight for the first time since he was seriously injured in an airplane crash on January 5, won an easy 10-round decision from Victor Flores of Mexico City.

Charles Given 'Now or Never' Deadline to Sign for Big Bout

New York, June 17 (AP).—Joe Vella, the little round man who manages Light-heavyweight Champion Gus Lesnevich, admits there's nothing wrong with him $100,000 can't cure—but he's ready to toss that large pile out of the window right now unless Ezzard Charles talks business in a hurry.

It is practically unheard of in fight-managing society, but Joe's steam is up and he's proclaiming to anyone who wants to hear that unless Charles puts his "okay" on the light-heavyweight title match with Lesnevich for September 29 in Crosley Field, home of the Cincinnati Reds, in the next 10 days—there just won't be any match.

It seems the fight-promoting Becker Brothers of Cincinnati offered Gus in the neighborhood of that hundred-grand—which is a nice neighborhood to be in, even Joe admits—to take on Charles, and Joe agreed to it by phone. The formal signing is scheduled for the end of this week.

But now, Joe says, Charles is a-hemming and a-hawing about agreeing to the tussle, and the latest Joe hears is that Ezzard wants to wait until his bout here with Elmer Ray July 25 before making up his mind. Joe figures Ezzard is playing one fight against the other, stalling off his decision on the Lesnevich bout until he sees if he can whip Ray, and thus possibly get a shot at Joe Louis' heavyweight bauble.

Rookie Scheib Beats Tigers For A's Again

Philadelphia, June 17 (AP).—Carl Scheib, 20-year-old right-hander, pitched the second complete game of his career in organized baseball tonight and for the second time within a week he defeated the Detroit Tigers, 5-2, before a crowd of 24,261.

With Scheib hurling five-hit ball, the Athletics struck from behind in the seventh inning to score four runs off Al Benton.

After a single, sacrifice and an error had given the Mackmen a 1-0 lead in the sixth, the Tigers jumped out in front with two runs in the top half of the seventh. But the A's retaliated. Benton walked Hank Majeski and Scheib to start the frame. After Eddie Joost moved them along with a sacrifice, Barney McCosky was passed purposely. Elmer Valo then doubled two runs home and Sam Chapman did likewise for the other two tallies.

Landon Net Aces In Quarterfinals

Rye, N. Y., June 17.—Gilbert Bogley and Jack Yates, both of Landon School of Washington, D. C., advanced to the quarterfinals of the Mansuring Island Invitation Tournament as they each scored easy third round victories here today.

Bogley, the 1946 United States boys champion, defeated Bob Cole, 6—0, 6—4. Yates scored a 6—4, 6—0 victory over Thomas Kent. Landon, seeded No. 1 in the tourney, is leading in team points.

Bosox Down Browns for 7th Straight

Boston, June 17 (AP).—The defending American League Champion Boston Red Sox rang up their seventh victory in a row today—the 172d anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill—by defeating the St. Louis Browns 6-5. The victory streak is the longest the Sox have achieved this season.

For starter Dave Ferriss, who was shaky in the early innings and who weakened late in the game after he was struck by a hard hit ball, it was his sixth decision of the year against five defeats.

Brownie Catcher Les Moss slugged a three-run homer in the second and Sam Mele duplicated for the Sox in the next inning. The four bagger was Moss' second of the season and for Mele it was his fifth, his first at home.

St. Louis second baseman Johnny Berardino was struck on the left forearm by a Ferriss pitch in the second inning and forced to leave the game. Preliminary x-ray examination at St. Elizabeth's Hospital indicated a possible fracture.

From the second through the seventh, when he was struck on the right calf by a hard ball hit by Billy Hitchcock, who replaced Berardino, Ferriss yielded only two hits. In the eighth the Browns scored twice and Earl Johnson finished.

Babe Accepts Bid To Ladies Golf Club

Gullane, Scotland, June 17 (AP).—Mrs. Mildred Babe Didrikson Zaharias, winner of the British Women's Amateur Golf championship over the Gullane course last week, said today she had accepted a life membership in the Gullane Ladies Golf Club.

Yale Beats Harvard, 1-0

New Haven, Conn., June 17 (AP).—The Yale baseball team won the Eastern Intercollegiate League championship for the second year in a row today—scoring a 1 to 0 victory over Harvard on an unearned run in the fourth inning.

Russia Nears Eligibility for 1948 Olympics

Stockholm, June 17 (AP).—Russia has been given memberships in four world sports controlling federations and now needs only to organize committees in the Soviet to be eligible for an invitation to the 1948 Olympics in London, International Olympic Committee President J. Sigfrid Edstrom announced tonight.

Edstrom said that the Russians already were members of the international bodies controlling soccer football, wrestling, weight lifting and basketball.

He added that they also had applied for memberships in track, swimming, boxing and marksmanship.

One of Dead Heat Winners Disqualified at Charles Town

Pandoramint Declared Lone Victor

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., June 17. A racing rarity—a dead heat and a disqualification of one of the twin winners—high-lighted the Tuesday program here. R. E. Caldwell's Nobby Boy and S. J. Flammia's Pandoramint came into the wire so tightly locked in the fourth race that the camera could not separate them—but the stewards did.

Nobby Boy came out of the gate from the outside post position and cut across horses, forcing them back before going into the lead to stay all but the last jump. Without waiting for formalities after the race, the stewards lighted the "objection" sign.

When the picture showed the dead heat, Nobby Boy was taken out of the win bracket and placed last. Thus the whole victory went to Pandoramint, ridden by Jockey Ray Arduini of Washington. In the new placings W. C. Rick's Floater was second and B. Rinaldi's Moon Meadow was third.

Set Down for 15 Days.

Jockey Willie Kelly, making his second saddle appearance of the meeting, was aboard Nobby Boy and opinion was divided as to whether Kelly or the horse was to blame. However, the stewards had a one-track mind on the subject and suspended Kelly for 15 days.

Pandoramint's victory was worth a $36 win mutuel to her scattered backers and proved one of several spots on the program where there was an accent on old age. Pandoramint is a 12-year-old mare.

In fact a couple of 10 years old combined to produce a $250.40 payoff on the daily double that went to 30 ticketholders. E. J. Picard's Argos came through on the inside rail to win the first event at a $13 mutuel. R. H. Herring's Wale Signal used the same tactics to take the second at a $31.40 mutuel.

Tough Day for Baird

Backers of Apprentice Jimmy Baird had a lot of headaches as he lost with regularity until the sixth race, a purse event and the listed feature. Baird was aboard M. O. Parson's Corley's Pet and took the 7-year-old mare to the front to stay there. Mrs. H. S. Grinder's Alarosa was second and the Oakhill Farm's Gray Moose was third. Corley's Pet paid $12 and was clocked in 1:26 for the about seven furlongs over a track that was fast for the first time in five days.

Doris Hart Wins

London, June 17 (AP).—Doris Hart of Miami, member of the United States Wightman Cup team, easily defeated Romania's Magda Rurak, 6—3, 6—3, in the second round of the London Grass Court Tennis Tourney today.

Bennings

Charles Town, W. Va.

Dear Folks:

Wale Signal, a 10-year-old mare, was the winner of today's second race. Until this season she was on a breeding farm, but in five years produced only two sets of twins which died. R. Palmer brought her here and then traded her to R. H. Herring for Ebony Lake, a younger horse. Wale Signal brought joy and cash to Owner Herring by coming through with a going-away victory. The old gal actually appeared proud when she returned to the winner's circle. She is a daughter of Prince of Wales, who helped the E. B. McLean Stable to lead the country in money won in 1927. Jockey Peewee Hummer, who is no longer as small as his nickname suggests, is making a comeback after serving in the Armed Forces during the war. He has been doing well despite a limited number of mounts. Jockey P. Kirkpatrick, racing's Gene Autrey, arrived from his home in Maine. Claiming of horses, once an event of note hereabouts, is commonplace now. To date 21 horses have changed hands by this method and the transactions have involved a total of $23.000. See you on the rail. BILL.

Braves' 16 Hits Rout Reds, 11-1

Five Hurlers Battered by N. L. Leaders

Cincinnati, June 17 (AP).—The pace-setting Boston Braves pounded five Cincinnati Pitchers for 16 hits today to win an easy ball game, 11 to 1.

The Reds' only run was a homer by Third Baseman Grady Hatton, his fifth round-tripper of the season.

Ken Peterson, rookie left hander, started for Cincinnati but did not last out the first inning. He was replaced by Eddie Erautt with two out after the National League leaders had scored three runs on five singles. Johnnie Hetki, Everet Lively and Ken Raffensberger, acquired from Philadelphia last Saturday, also saw action on the Cincinnati mound.

Cincinnati had won six out of its last eight games before being pounced on by the Boston busters. A crowd of 5,417 saw the one-sided contest.

Redskins' Stralka Shopping For Job on the Sidelines

Clem Stralka, veteran Redskin guard, has decided to quit as an active player in favor of a coaching career.

Stralka

The nine-year veteran who joined the 'Skins in 1938, yesterday was in Wilmington, Del., conferring with John DeLuca, president, and coach George Vanerosa of the Wilmington C11ppers regarding the line coaching barth with the American Association club.

Stralka has been troubled for the past couple of years with a trick knee which was the major factor in his decision to terminate his playing career.

He attended the conference with full permission of the Redskins, who use the Clippers as a minor league farm club.

"Little Bill," so dubbed by his teammates because of his stocky build and barrel chest and rip-snorting tendencies on the field, came to the pros direct from Georgetown University where he was regular guard for three years, captaining the eleven in his final season, 1937.

Clem was a member of the three Eastern Division championship teams, 1940, '42 and '45, the '42 eleven defeating the Chicago Bears, 14-6, for the league championship. He served three years in the Navy in the Pacific.

Bob Brownell Choice to Add Maryland Amateur to Victories

Bobby Brownell, Washington's ranking amateur golfer, is favored to win the twenty-third annual Maryland State Amateur Tournament, which begins tomorrow morning at the Columbia Country Club.

The holder of the District of Columbia, Middle Atlantic and Kenwood Invitational championships is the standout of the field of 88. Absent from the entry list is Otto Greiner of Baltimore, who won the Maryland Amateur last year, but has since turned pro.

Tomorrow's play will consist of a qualification round, 18 holes of medal play with the low 32 players continuing match play. Two rounds, 18 holes of match play, will take place Friday, a third and a semifinal round of 18 holes each on Saturday, and finally the championship round of 36 holes on Sunday.

In addition to the championship trophy, prizes will be awarded the medalist and runner-up for the championship.

Kramer Topseeded In British Tennis

London, June 17 (AP).—Jack Kramer of Los Angeles and Margaret Osborne of San Francisco were seeded first today for the All-England lawn tennis championships at Wimbledon starting Monday.

No British players were seeded in the men's singles division headed by Kramer who led the United States team to victory in the Davis Cup finals last winter, but Kay Stammers Menzies and Mrs. Jean Nicol Bostock were rated sixth and seventh, respectively, in the women's championships.

Sharkey Wrestles The Sheik Tonight

Babe Sharkey, the former wrestling champion, and Emir Badui, the Arabian sheik, will tangle in tonight's feature bout at Turner's Arena, with the winner slated for an important part on next Wednesday's Damon Runyon Cancer Fund show at Griffith Stadium.

Also bidding for spots on the June 26 show are Gino Garibaldi and Billy Darnell of Kansas, who clash tonight in a semiwindup; Maurice LaChappelle and Abe Stein, participants in a 30-minute special, and Jan Blears, the Britisher, and George Bruckman, local grappler, who battle in another 30-minute tussle.

Opening the show at 8:45 are Joe Montana and Bill Hutchins.

New Oval Planned For Laurel Track

Baltimore, June 17 (AP).—A new racing strip will be ready at Laurel Park when the 25-day fall meeting at the Washington-Baltimore boulevard track opens October 1.

The Maryland Jockey Club, operator of Pimlico, purchased Laurel last winter, and President Henry A. Parr 3d said this was one of the first improvements planned for the track.

The new strip is to be patterned after the Delaware Park track in the matter of drainage, banking and soil. Clark Pardee, Delaware Park track superintendent, will aid in rebuilding the Laurel oval.

Packers Sign Tackle, Halfback for '47 Season

Green Bay, Wisc., June 17 (AP).—Coach E. L. (Curley) Lambeau of the Green Bay Packers today announced the signing of two veterans, 275-pound Tackle Tiny Croft and Halfback Ken Keuper, raising to 29 the number of men under contract for the 1947 season.

Midget Racing Carnival Planned for Lanham

Racing Director Irvin Fried last night announced that he is planning a mammoth carnival of midget automobile racing for the West Lanham, Md., Speedway in the near future which will donate 10 per cent of its receipts to the Damon Runyon Cancer Research Fund.

Meanwhile, he is assembling an all-star field to participate in the twice postponed 1947 opening of Lanham to little car competition with a seven-event program Friday night at 8:30 o'clock.

Two District Area Men Kill Selves

A telephone company supervisor shot and killed himself yesterday, and the staff director of a House subcommittee slashed his wrist and ankles with a razor in a second suicide.

Howard Moore Bollinger, 54, general dial system supervisor of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., shot himself in the right temple with a .22-caliber Remington pump gun. The shooting took place in the bathroom of his home at 1809 Parkside dr. nw., shortly before 8 a. m. He was pronounced dead a few minutes later.

Chet Eubanks Sinclair, 37, of 1300 Linden lane, Silver Spring, Md., a former State Department economist, was found dead in a room at the YMCA, 1736 G st. nw., about 10 a. m. His left wrist and both ankles had been slashed. Two bloodstained razor blades were found at his side.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued certificates of suicide in both deaths. Both men had been despondent over ill-health for sometime, according to police.

Bollinger, recently elected president of the American Institute of Engineers, had undergone two operations in the past month. He returned to his home Monday night after attending a convention of telephone engineers in Montreal, Canada, his wife, Mrs. Helen Bollinger, told police.

She said her husband was pacing the bedroom floor when she awoke yesterday morning, and she went downstairs to call the family physician. Then she heard a shot upstairs, she said.

The family doctor, Dr. Harvey Kreuzburg, of 7852 16th st. nw., came immediately and pronounced Bollinger dead, police said. Bollinger left no notes, they said.

Sinclair, who started work May 1 in the office of Representative George H. Bender (D., Ohio), as staff director of the Subcommittee on Procurement and Buildings of the House Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Departments, was found in a YMCA room by a maid.

Bollinger Sinclair

Police said he registered at the YMCA Monday evening. His wife, Mrs. Constance D. Sinclair, reported him missing late Monday night. Police said he left a note, addressed to his wife, in which he indicated despondency over ill health.

Bollinger entered the Bell telephone system as an instructor in Philadelphia in July, 1910.

He came to Washington in September, 1920, as supervisor of methods in the plant department and supervised installation of the first dial central office in Washington. In 1928 he was named dial system superintendent.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two sons, Robert Bollinger, of Detroit, and Howard Bollinger, jr., a student at Howard University.

Sinclair served for three years in the Army Air Corps. After his release in 1944, he became a senior economic analyst for the Justice Department. A year later, he became economist to the State Department's Division of International Resources.

Reds Use U. S. Plates to Print German Money, Senators Told

By The Associated Press

Assistant Secretary of War Howard C. Petersen told Senators yesterday that Russia has blocked all efforts for currency reform in Germany and still is printing occupation money from engraving plates furnished by the United States before the invasion.

Petersen testified before the combined membership of three Senate committees that despite "strenuous efforts" the Allied Control Council in Germany has failed to force an accounting by the Russians of the paper money they have manufactured and put into circulation.

Petersen said there appears to be no way of separating the Russian-produced occupation marks from those printed by the United States, Great Britain and France.

The Army, he added, has redeemed some 380 million dollars worth of "excess" invasion money since the Russians were given the printing plates.

By excess, Petersen explained, he meant occupation money holdings the Army has accumulated over and above the dollars appropriated by Congress thus far for expenditures abroad.

Petersen added that this situation is being met in currency operations overseas and the "War Department does not propose to ask Congress for an appropriation to effect this reduction."

The Federal Diary

By Jerry Kluttz

Bill Would Give Aid To Laid-Off Workers

The big news yesterday for Federal workers took place in Congress. For example:

1. It was revealed that Senator Langer has had a bill drawn to help laid-off employes. The bill would bring them under unemployment compensation at a weekly rate, not to exceed 10 weeks, equal to 25 per cent of basic salaries, or $20 a week, whichever is greater. The benefit would be paid by either the States or the Civil Service Commission and they would be reimbursed, in turn, by Social Security.

The bill also would pay transportation costs, plus the $6 daily expense account for travel time, of those employes who return to their homes within 30 days after discharge. Also, it provides for a two-week dismissal wage to the victims of economy firings.

The bill would be retroactive to March 1. Up to late yesterday it had not been decided who would introduce it. Langer would sponsor it if the measure could be referred to his Civil Service Committee. However, since it would amend the Social Security Act, the bill would be referred to either the Finance or Labor and Public Welfare Committee. When this parliamentary question is determined, Langer will try to persuade a member of the committee that would consider the bill to join with him in introducing it.

Retirement Bill Approved

2. The Stevenson subcommittee of the House Civil Service Committee also took a big step to help employes who will be fired. It gave unanimous approval to the Langer-Chavez-Stevenson retirement bill, the same measure now awaiting Senate debate.

The House made one important change—to permit employes to withdraw their money from the retire system when they leave Government regardless of length of service. Employes who have five or more years of service, or a combination of five years of Government and military service, must now leave their money in the system and draw a pension in later years.

The bill also would increase pensions, reduce the retirement ages, and increase the employe contribution from 5 to 6 per cent. By reducing the optional retirement ages, many older employes who are laid off would be eligible for pensions.

Sees Loyalty Bill Loopholes

3. Chairman Leo Allen of the potent House Rules Committee charged that the President's Federal employe loyalty program was "full of loopholes" and that it "remains for the GOP congress to blast the Communists out of the Federal service."

He said not one single Communist had been fired under the President's order. Also, that Civil Service, the FBI and the House Un-American Activities Committee each had files on disloyal employes who he said should be fired promptly. He demanded that the last Communist in Government should be fired before the first loyal American is discharged.

4. The Senate Civil Service Committee postponed action on the Flanders bill to raise salaries of Cabinet members and other Federal officials. But it approved a bill to increase mileage of rural carriers by a cent, and it okayed a proposed joint resolution to make an inquiry into business practices of the Postoffice Department.

VFW Asks Amendment

5. It came to light that the Cain-Rees bill to amend the Veterans' Preference Act has hit unexpected opposition. The bill was proposed by the Veterans of Foreign Wars which now wants the measure amended. The VFW wants that provision stricken out which would require a veteran to have a 30 per cent service-connected disability before he could be "floated" to the top of a Civil Service eligible list and be given the first chance at a Federal job. It wants the present 10 per cent provision continued.

The Disabled American Veterans has come out in opposition to the entire bill, and the American Legion is reported to insist on the single provision that a veteran get a passing grade or at least 70 before preference or either 5 or 10 points is added. A third provision in the bill would require a veteran to have a service-connected disability of at least 10 points before he could be given 10-point preference.

6. The House has approved continuance beyond June 30 of the Jones-Forand Retirement Act. This measure permits retirement on a reduced pension at 55 for laid-off employes who have at least 25 years of service. Representative Forand will continue his fight to get the 55 age restriction removed, however. The House also voted to bring Senate reporters under the retirement system. The Senate passed a bill to create a Board of Geographic Names in Interior.

Rules Committee Chairman Allen has thrown his support behind the Jones bill to allow dismissed employes to withdraw their money from the retirement system . . . The Senate has restored funds to carry on the fish market news service of Interior's Fish and Wildlife Service. The House refused funds for this project . . . Civil Service yesterday recommended to the Congress that it approve a bill which would make by a clear-cut Federal policy that the salary of a supervisor is not determined by the number of persons he supervises.

Montgomery Funds Slash Is Approved

Commissioners Say Democrats Treat Education Board as 'Political Adjunct'

A recommended $400,000 cut in funds requested for 1947-48 by the Montgomery County Board of Education was approved yesterday by the County Commissioners.

In approving a $5,696,711 fiscal budget, which calls for an increase in the tax rate from $1.50 to $1.88, the Republican commissioners also loosed a blast at county Democrats.

"It is unfortunate that the Democratic Central Committee of Montgomery County regards the Board of Education as its political adjunct," the commissioners' statement said.

At a public hearing on the budget June 12, speakers on the subject of heed for greater school funds dominated the floor. Second most controversial budget item was a proposed $14,000 cut in funds asked to supplement by 20 per cent the salaries of State welfare workers in the county. Restoration of the $14,000 appropriation was announced yesterday by County Supervisor Irving G. McNayr.

The Commissioners also voted to:

1. Continue the County Home as an almshouse.

2. Increase the Welfare Board's hospitalization appropriation to provide for an increase of from $4 to $6 in per diem paid hospitals for charity patients.

3. Allot $9000 to the Health Department for salary increases to nurses.

4. Appoint Wilbert Nerlich, Darnestown, Md., as purchasing agent at $4500 per year.

5. Increase Police Chief Charles M. Orme's salary from $4000 to $5000.

With formal adoption of the budget yesterday the commissioners were commended by County Supervisor McNayr, who said: "I want to congratulate you for having the guts to face realistically a difficult situation." The budget is effective July 1.

Indicating that the tax rate should have been increased long ago for the community of 130,000, he pointed out the 38-cent tax hike voted yesterday was the first in 13 years.

He was immediately joined by the veteran Republican leader and counsel to the board, F. Bernard Welsh, who declared that 27 cents of the 38-cent hike will go toward "paying debts of other fellows who preceded you."

City Milk Cost Is 7th Highest Of U. S. Areas

In only six out of the 100 most important milk marketing areas in the country are farmers paid more for fluid milk than in the Washington area, the Department of Agriculture reported yesterday.

All six are in sections where, unlike Washington, there is little dairy farming. They are Birmingham, Ala.; Savannah, Ga.; Jacksonville, Miami and St. Petersburg, Fla., and Houston, Texas.

The farm price for fluid milk in the Washington milkshed is $5.66 per 100 pounds. This compares with $4.63 in Boston; $4.76 in New York City; $4.79 in Philadelphia; $4.90 in Baltimore and $5.83 in Birmingham. The national average is $4.42.

"Milk prices at retail declined in about one in every eight markets during early June," the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported. The national retail, home-delivered milk price was 18.3 cents as compared with 19.5 cents in Washington.

Union's Fare Suit Dismissal Asked

The Public Utilities Commission asked District Court yesterday to dismiss the suit brought by the Washington Industrial Union Council to contest the increased fares granted the Capital Transit Co.

District Court earlier denied the council's petitions for a temporary injunction and restraining orders. Still pending is the suit for a permanent injunction.

PUC attorneys claim the suit is legally insufficient, and that the court does not have jurisdiction in the matter.

McKinley High Principal Wins Second 'Diploma' at Central

EXACTING—Frank C. Daniel, principal of McKinley (Tech) High School, is as much at home in the school's shops as at his desk. Fifty years ago he was a Central High graduate and last night got his second Central "diploma"

McKinley High School's principal, Frank C. Daniel, received his second "diploma" last night from Central High School. Fifty years had elapsed since his graduation from the school.

Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, president of the Board of Education, presented him the certificate of award during the school's graduation exercises for having "honorably completed a half century of eminently worthy citizenship in the fields of education and social service."

Daniel, now a slight gray-haired man, was regimental cadet colonel when he received his Central High School diploma.

For all but four of the intervening years since that graduation he has been associated with District schools and has spent 26 of them as principal of McKinley. He will end that association in October when on reaching 70 he will retire.

During his 46 years as an educator Daniel has combined academic and mechanical training.

A fellow principal has admiringly said that under Daniel's direction McKinley has "been training its student body in the happy combination of hand and mind, in the dignity of tools and instruments as well as in the convincing force of history and languages."

Daniel is as much at home in McKinley's wood and metal shops as behind his desk. While a student at Central he took the first technical courses ever offered in Washington public schools. Shortly after graduating from Dickinson College he was appointed a teacher at the Manual Training School which later became McKinley. Nine years later he was promoted to principal.

The making of things is also his hobby. He has turned the basement of his home at 3815 Jocelyn st. nw. into a metal and woodwork shop. "Chips and shavings" are its principal products, he says. Actually he fashions furniture and jewelry.

More Than 3000 Pupils Are Graduated Here

More than 3000 students received diplomas in public high school and junior high school graduations yesterday. Schools holding exercises were: Anacostia, Central, Eastern, Wilson, Eliot, Gordon, Jefferson, Kramer, Langley, MacFarland, Taft, Bell Vocational, Burdick Vocational, Dunbar, Browne, Francis, Garnet-Patterson, Randall and Margaret Murray Washington Vocational.

In addition 207 students were graduated from Montgomery Blair High School in Silver Spring.

Photographic Society Will Meet Tonight

C. E. Timmons will speak at a meeting of the National Photographic Society this evening at 8:15 at the New National Museum Auditorium. Mr. Timmons, who has been with Harris & Ewing for the past 28 years, will also judge competitive color slides submitted by members of the society.

Fiscal 1948

D. C. Budget Hearing Set For Today

Public hearings on Washington's budget for fiscal 1948 will start at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

House District Appropriations Chairman Walt Horan (R., Wash.) said his group would be joined by members of the Senate District Appropriations Subcommittee to hear citizens discuss municipal spending plans.

The hearing will be held in the Appropriations Committee Room, first floor of the House wing of the Capitol. Horan said he hoped to complete the public hearing in one day.

He said the committee would hear only those who have complied with congressional reorganization law by submitting advance summaries of their testimony.

Spur Routes For Benning Line Proposed

Two rush-hour "spur" bus routes would overcome major objections to substituting buses for streetcars on the Rosslyn-Benning line's eastern section, Capital Transit Co. officials said yesterday.

They told the Public Utilities Commission the spur lines would bypass the downtown section and provide direct rush-hour service to Potomac Park and 14th and U st. areas.

This, plus new downtown "turn around" facilities, would cut downtown congestion without taking patrons away from the H st. ne. business district during normal shopping hours and on Saturdays, they maintained.

Northeast business interests, however, remained at odds over the proposal.

Lloyd W. Chisholm, president of Northeast Businessmen's Association, attacked the plan, saying that even the partial loss of transit service would hurt business and property values along H st.

Louis Burman, who said he owns property at 15th and H sts. ne., and at Minnesota ave. and Benning rd. ne., said buses would increase rather than destroy property values and would help business.

David J. Weltman, representing the Benning Businessmen's Association, urged that buses be substituted for streetcars on Benning rd., east of 15th st. ne.

Others opposing the plan included: Benjamin Striner, of the Federation of Businessmen's Associations; Andrew Gemeny, of the Northeast Businessmen's Association; and Charles M. Maize of the Kenilworth Citizens Association.

Favoring the plan were: Dr. T. T. Roberts, pastor of Minnesota ave. Christian Church: Isaiah F. Jordan, of the Deanwood Civic Association; and O. W. McDonald, of the Far Northeast Council of Civic Associations.

The hearing will be resumed today at 10 a.m.

Richberg, Henderson To Debate on WINX

Donald Richberg, former general counsel of NRA, and Leon Henderson, former OPA administrator, will discuss the Taft-Hartley labor bill over Stations WINX and WINX-FM tonight and tomorrow night.

Richberg will speak at 8:15 p. m. today on "Why the President Should Sign the Labor Bill."

Henderson will appear at the same time tomorrow, speaking on "Why the President Should Veto the Labor Bill."

Preventive Urged

Child Mental Health Program Is Essential, Says Pediatrician

Washington needs a mental health program for its children if delinquency is to be avoided, according to Dr. Henry H. Lichtenberg, chief of pediatrics of the Group Health Association.

He said such a program is just as necessary for the normal child as vaccination against smallpox or whooping cough.

Catholic University and the Child Guidance Clinic of the District of Columbia are already doing an excellent job of helping children who have already got into trouble, Dr. Lichtenberg said.

He stated, however, that there is a real need to study and correct the behavior problems of normal children before they become serious.

This "preventive mental health program" will be discussed tomorrow night by Dr. Lichtenberg at a special meeting of the Group Health Association. If it is approved by the members, it will become a part of Group Health's regular medical care program.

Under the proposed program, he explained, mothers of very young children would discuss their problems with workers trained in child behavior. In spite of emphasis on the younger children, guidance would not be limited to any age group, he said.

Nevius Tract Investment Already Big

If Use Forbidden For VA Hospital, U. S. Would Lose At Least $150,000

Congressional action forbidding the use of the Nevius tract as site for the new 15-million-dollar Veterans' Administration hospital here will cost the Federal Government between $150,000 and $200,000, The Post learned yesterday.

A checkup discloses that VA has already spent $100,000 in fees for architects' and engineers' plans. Termination of present contracts would cost another $50,000 to $100,000.

On top of the cost, one high VA official pointed out, elimination of the Nevius site, on the Arlington side of Memorial Bridge, would probably delay by a year the erection of a new 750-bed veterans' hospital in the Washington area.

Congressional action regarding hospital sites and buildings is expected on the floor of the House today when the independent offices appropriations bill is opened for amendments.

Representative Howard Smith (D., Va.), who obtained the rule permitting hospital amendments in the House Rules Committee Monday, said yesterday he has not yet decided whether to ask Congress to eliminate funds for a hospital on the Nevius site.

The Congressman is on record opposing the site. VA has already taken possession of the Nevius site via court order.

Funds Increase Asked For VA Hospitals

Veterans' Administration needs 28,000 added personnel and 100 million dollars more to carry out a "complete" medical and hospital program for the fiscal year of 1948, the House Veterans Affairs Committee was informed yesterday.

The figures were given out by Maj. Gen. Paul R. Hawley, VA medical chief, in reply to a direct question during a committee hearing into the VA medical program.

The House Appropriations Committee gave the VA medical department all personnel and funds submitted by VA in its budget request, Hawley said. But, he explained, his own department's estimates of needs had been previously slashed by the Budget Bureau.

Interrogation developed that Dr. Hawley could not voluntarily bring up the cut before the Appropriations Committee because of a White House directive forbidding executive agency officials from contesting Budget Bureau figures before congressional committees.

General Hawley said that beginning July 1 the VA medical department will operate under a personnel ceiling of 59,636, as against 61,521 today. Some 5700 beds are vacant, he added, because of personnel shortage.

Fairfax Girl 7th Area Victim Of Spotted Fever

A 9-year-old Fairfax County girl yesterday became the seventh Washington area person to be infected with Rocky Mountain spotted fever in 1947.

The girl was reported in "quite fair" condition at Georgetown Hospital. A "clinical diagnosis" late Monday revealed she was suffering from spotted fever, Dr. Ernest Aschenbach reported.

Six previous cases have been reported: Two in the District and two each in Arlington and Montgomery counties.

Only one fatality has resulted. A 70-year-old man, a resident of the 2700 block of 29th st. se., died from spotted fever May 15.

Holtzoff Suspends Contempt Fine, Not Reprimand

Justice Alexander Holtzoff relented yesterday on the pocketbook of Attorney John G. Saul but didn't help his pride at all.

Saul on Monday was fined $10 for contempt of court in absenting himself 12 minutes during a trial in the courtroom of Justice Holtzoff. Yesterday Justice Holtzoff repeated that Saul had often been tardy and that this was disrespectful to court and jury. He then suspended the fine, after which Saul said: "It is my policy to give all my attention and all my zeal to helping my clients."

Twenty minutes later a jury returned a verdict finding his client, Carroll W. Stewart, 21, 1522 8th st. nw., guilty of stealing $12.25.

AVC Delegates Off to Convention

More than 100 delegates representing 26 American Veterans Committee chapters in greater Washington, will leave for Milwaukee today to attend the second national AVC convention there.

The convention will open there tomorrow and continue through Sunday.

The local delegation will be headed by Joseph A. Clorety, jr., chairman of the AVC's Greater Washington Area Council.

Robert R. Nathan, former chairman of the War Production Board's planning committee and chairman now of Chapter No. 1, AVC, here, will attend the convention to present a domestic policy program he has drawn up.

No Sentiment

Thieves Mar Celebration, Loot Church

Thieves with little religion and no sentiment were abroad in Washington early yesterday.

They ransacked a house at 326 Gallatin st. nw., where Mr. and Mrs. Martin G. Gorman were preparing to celebrate their nineteenth wedding anniversary; then took $100 from Metropolitan Baptist Church, 6th and A sts. ne.

The Gormans lost seven souvenir silver dollars; $300 in bills, binoculars, a movie camera, tie pins and cuff links.

Dr. K. Owen White, 3200 Gainesville st. se., pastor of Metropolitan Church, said the thief forced the door on the church office and made off with the cash.

The robbery of jewelry valued at $792 from the show window of the Ross Co., 1311 F st. nw., was reported to police yesterday. Robert M. King, manager, said the thief had shattered the show window and taken the gems.

Other thieves who wearied when their job was only half done took 14 new tires from the Fort Carroll Service Station at 3711 Nichols ave. se. But they left 14 more in the rack.

Those who entered the service station at 5130 Wisconsin ave. nw. didn't fare so well. They got 59 pennies.

James H. Satcher, of the Satcher Motor Co., 5100 Wisconsin ave., lost a 9 mm. German Luger pistol given him as a war souvenir. Thieves forced open a side window and took nothing but the pistol.

Also among yesterday's losers was Irvin Schweitz, 1655 15th st. nw. Someone took 64 cartons of cigarettes from his parked jeep station wagon in front of 432 11th st. nw., but left assorted groceries in the car.

VFW Sessions End With Plea For Readiness

Legislation for a comprehensive "national readiness program" was urged in resolutions adopted at the final session of the Veterans of Foreign Wars encampment in the Mayflower Hotel last night.

The department also adopted a resolution on labor union membership in which it asked that union membership not be a condition of employment, that retention of union membership not depend upon participation in strikes deemed unnecessary or unpatriotic.

Adoption of a plan for mobilization of manpower for warwork, peacetime training in defense production, universal military training, plans for price fixing, rationing and currency and other preparedness measures were urged in the resolution calling for a comprehensive national readiness program.

Albert M. Armstrong, of Equality-Walter Reed Post, was elected District department commander shortly after last midnight. Harold M. DeHart was named senior vice commander, the post Armstrong held this year. Ballots for other positions were still being counted.

Mrs. Martha Reynolds was elected department president of the auxiliary at its concluding session in the Hamilton Hotel last night. She succeeds Mrs. Grace Fields.

Mrs. Edna Rose was elected senior vice president of the auxiliary. Other officers installed were: Mrs. Frances Dove, junior vice president; Mrs. Edith Dunston, treasurer; Mrs. Freda Foster, chaplain; Mrs. Ethel Orme, guard; Mrs. Cleo Franc, secretary, and Mrs. Florence Armstrong, past department president, chief of staff. Mrs. Ethel Holliday was re-elected conductress. Mrs. Alice Chadwick, national auxiliary representative, was the installing officer.

Approximately $7538

2044 Donate Pepco Refunds To Children's Hospital Drive

The Children's Hospital building fund is getting a big boost from Washingtonians who have agreed to divert Potomac Electric Power Co. refunds to the $1,300,000 campaign goal.

Pepco officials announced at the close of business yesterday a total of 2044 consumers had authorized contribution of refunds to the drive, still about $80,000 short of its goal. The figure represents an increase of 817 over Monday.

On the basis of an average refund of $3.60 to each consumer, contributions to date would swell the building fund by $7538.40.

Officials of the company said the plan is meeting enthusiastic response. Many coupons authorizing donations have been accompanied by letters indorsing the proposal. At The Post, where the coupons also are being accepted, similar letters are being received.

The refunds represent returns on electric bills ordered by the Public Utilities Commission for 1944-45-46, after the company was ordered to cut rates to residential consumers.

Letters or coupons authorizing the donations to the building fund may be sent directly to the company or to room 200 at The Post. All authorizations must be postmarked no later than Wednesday, June 25.

Recreation Needs Cited For District Playgrounds

90 Organizations Present Views At Annual Meeting Of City Board

The District Recreation Board last night got an earful of Washington's play needs.

Delegates from approximately 90 civic organizations and parent-teacher associations in the District presented their views at the annual meeting in the Recreation Office, 3149 16th st. nw.

The Hill Crest Citizens' Association requested the board to consider its needs for night lighting of baseball diamonds and tennis courts, in order to give adults in the community additional recreation facilities.

Harry S. Wender, chairman of the board, indorsed the request He said:

"No lighted area for night recreation exists at the present time under the jurisdiction of this board, and it is badly needed feature."

Chillum Heights Citizens' Association asked that Keene School be provided with an auditorium and Rudolph School be furnished an auditorium and more classroom space.

Park View P-TA asked that the Park View playground be surfaced.

National Gateway Association asked for improvement of facilities on the Dakota playground.

Other organizations asked for more personnel to supervise playground facilities, swimming pools, soft ball, baseball, volley ball equipment and areas, indoor recreation facilities, and for "play streets" where there is no possibility of establishing playgrounds.

On the request for play streets, Wender said:

"The board does not stand for play streets unless there is absolutely no recreational facility available. We do not want to encourage playing in the streets under any condition."

Mt. Rainier Man Ends 30 Years As Army Employe

Earl G. Kleinheinz, 3205 Perry st., Mount Rainier, Md., this week completed 30 years of service as a Civil Service employe of the Quartermaster Corps.

Kleinheinz

Now employed as administrative assistant in the office of the staff quartermaster at Andrews Field, Klienheinz was personally commended on his long service by Gen. George C. Kenny, commanding general of the Strategic Air Command.

Kleinheinz entered the Civil Service in 1917 at the age of 24 as a clerk in the office of the Quartermaster General. He served in Manila with the Philippine department from 1919 to 1922, and has been employed in the District of Washington, Third Corps Area Headquarters and at Bolling Field during his three decades with the service.

Bondsman's Lack Of Trust Lands Connors in Jail

Raymond Connors, 34, who was acquitted last year of the celebrated trailer-camp murder here, went to jail last night because his bondsman didn't trust him.

Connors was due in District Court June 10 for a preliminary hearing on a perjury charge growing out of the trial and on an auto theft charge. He did not appear until yesterday when he showed Chief Justice Bolitha J. Laws a New York physician's certificate of illness.

The bondsman who had posted $1500 bond to insure Connors' presence, relinquished custody to the court. All day long Connors sat in the lockup waiting for another bondsman to bail him out, but none appeared.

Justice Laws set June 30 for the trials.

Wild Shot Nicks Man In Shooting Gallery

Joseph Caruso, 60, manager of a shooting gallery at 435 9th st. nw., was nicked on the left hand and left ear last night when a shot caromed off a target in his establishment. Caruso, who lives at 809 E st. nw., was treated at Casualty Hospital.

Part-Time Resident Must Have D. C. Tags

Does a motorist, who lives in Baltimore four days a week and in Washington three days a week, have to procure District license tags or Maryland tags?

That was the question posed Municipal Court Judge Armond Scott in traffic court yesterday. Scott passed the ball to Traffic Director George Keneipp, who said the motorist would have to get both sets of tags.

Attorney David Hornstein, representing Aaron Levin, a business broker with offices in the Tower building, who maintains a residence in Baltimore, argued that a man couldn't have two legal residences and hence his Maryland tags should be legal ——. Levin rooms overnight in the District three times weekly.

Scott pondered a while and said: "Let's put the matter over for a week. I'm interested in getting the reaction of the traffic director."

Later, Keneipp told reporters that according to the District's reciprocity agreement with Maryland, if a motorist garages his car for 90 accumulative days in a year in either of the sections, he must register for tage of the area involved.

"Since it is evident that Levin parks his car here overnight at least 90 times a year, he must get District tags," the traffic director said. "We are not keen on this business of forcing people to get two sets of tags—but that is the only solution under present law."

The agreement with Virginia, Keneipp said, provides that vehicles from one jurisdiction may be garaged in the other not more than four nights a week.

He Greets 'His Boys'

It was Dr. Hedrick, family physician, rather than Representative Hedrick (D., W. Va.) yesterday in greeting 41 West Virginia boys visiting Washington.

Hedrick told a reporter he "brought into the world" probably more than one half of the young visitors, members of a Sunday school class at Crab Orchard Baptist Church, near Beckley.

Representative and Mrs. Hedrick plan to take the party, headed by Sunday School Teacher Robert C. Byrd, to Arlington National Cemetery and Mount Vernon today. The group will leave tonight to return home via Richmond, Va.

4 Girls Aid Hospital

Four little girls yesterday aided the $40,000 Arlington Hospital fund drive by $33.89 they had collected in a house-to-house canvass.

The girls, aged 6 to 8, call themselves the "Busy Bee Club." President is Carol Anne Van Landingham, 7, 3812 S. 16th st.; treasurer, Patricia May McCrea, 8, 2001 S. Court House rd.; secretary, Nancy Ann Guin, 8, 1705 S. Pollard st., and "the" member, Betty Lou Anderlot, 6, 3616 S. 16th st.

Whist! He's Acquitted

Geranimo Lewis, 48, was charged with drunkenness when he was found clad only in shorts, asleep in a station wagon on 8th st. near T nw., June 10.

Yesterday in Municipal Court he told this story to Judge Nadine Gallagher:

"I had been playing whist with friends until 2 a. m. As I walked home, three men grabbed me, stripped me of my trousers, coat, panama hat, socks and shoes and threw me in the rear of a car. Then one of them poured a sweet-smelling liquid over my face. The next thing I remember was awakening in a cell at the Thirteenth Precinct." He said $63 was missing.

"That story is beyond the realm of the wildest imagination," Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark King told the judge.

Not so cynical was Judge Gallagher. "I find you not guilty," she told Lewis. "Charges dismissed."

Lions Elect President

William E. Cartwright has been elected president of the Georgetown Lions Club to succeed Robert T. Keith. Other officers are James J. McKittrick, first vice president; Hugh T. Nicolson, second vice president; Paul E. Casassa, third vice president; Henry G. Milans, jr., secretary-treasurer; Frederick W. Langbein, lion tamer; John S. Killeen, tail twister, and Cyrus M. Murray and W. Preston Williams, directors.

The Major Is Thankful

Maj. Edward Russell was back at his desk at Andrews Field yesterday, thankful for Army orders that called for him to report back for duty last Sunday afternoon.

Major Russell, who is personnel management officer in Strategic Air Command Headquarters, had been a passenger aboard the B-29 bomber which crashed in Vermont Sunday after a training flight from Tucson, Ariz.

The Army officer was planning to go on to his home at Charlemont, Mass., but he didn't have time. He left the plane in Pittsburgh and continued on to Washington.

Orchestra in Debut

The Patent Office Orchestra will give its first Washington concert tonight at 8 o'clock in the Department of Commerce auditorium, 14th st. between E st. and Constitution ave. nw.

Boys Camp to Open

Camp Letts, Md., will open its forty-first season to District-area youngsters on June 22, Chairman Channing S. Walker, of the YMCA camp committee, announced yesterday. Two hundred boys, ranging from 8 to 16 years, will be entertained at the camp for an eight-week period.

The camp, situated on the Rhode River at Edgewater, Md., is directed by Wayne C. Somer, secretary of the American Recreation Society.

Playgrounds to Open

Twenty-five Arlington playgrounds will open for the summer Monday at 1 p. m.

They will be open from 9 to 5:30 weekdays, from 9 to 12:30 p. m. on Saturdays, and will be closed Sundays.

Playgrounds, open until Augst 22, will be at the following schools: Barcroft, Cherrydale, Swanson Junior High, Henry Clay, James Monroe, Kate Waller Barrett, Maury, Nellie Custis, Thomas Jefferson Junior High, Patrick Henry, Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson, Thomas Nelson Page, Walter Reed, Washington - Lee High, Woodlawn, Woodrow Wilson, Fairlington, Shirley Homes, Picket Homes, Langston, Kemper and Hoffman-Boston. Others will be in Lubber Run Park, the Virginia Highlands Playground, and on the Green Valley Athletic Field.

Western Union Fined

The Western Union Telegraph Co., 1405 G st. nw., was fined $350 yesterday by Municipal Court Judge Nadine Gallagher on a seven-count charge of violating the female eight-hour-day law. Charges were brought by the D. C. Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board. It was alleged that some women employes of the company had worked more than 48 hours a week, more than eight hours a day and more than six days a week.

109 Contracts Delayed

Contracts to permit 109 Arlington school teachers to teach next fall must still be issued, Charles Walsh, assistant school superintendent, said yesterday.

Of the 350 teachers employed during the past year, he said, only 241 have receievd new contracts. Contract delay is caused by the newly announced teachers' salary schedule and the fact that many teachers hold temporary war emergency certificates, Walsh explained.

Recommendations Sent

Recommendations for four added safety measures at the Melrose grade crossing of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, where two men were killed when their auto was hit by a train several weeks ago, are being forwarded to the railroad by Hyattsville Town Council.

Approved by council Monday night, the recommendations call for 24-hour watchman service at the crossing; an electric circuit which would ring the warning bell at the crossing for a longer period; coordination of the highway traffic light with that of the stoplight at the tracks, and a "brightly painted" center line on the highway at its intersection with the tracks.

2 Go to Traffic Parley . .

Two Alexandria officials will attend the four-day National Institute for Traffic Training in Atlanta, starting June 23. They are Police Lieut. George F. Everly and K. W. Smith of the Traffic Control Department. The institute aims to help in solving the problems arising from congested traffic conditions.

Faces Two Charges

An Alexandria man was held for the grand jury action yesterday on charges of theft of an automobile and attempted rape.

James Ingram, 29, of 501 N. Henry st., was charged with trying to rape a 6-year-old girl Monday evening in the house where he was a roomer. Police said that he then stole a truck belonging to Lester Hall, 406 N. Henry st., and attempted to escape. He was picked up in Arlington County the same night.

Flag for Boys' Camp

An American flag for the Police Boys' Camp will be presented at Alexandria police headquarters today at 4 p.m. by the John Alexander chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. The chapter said the flag would be presented in memory of deceased members of the chapter and of Charles H. Grimm, for whom the camp was named. Grimm, son of Police Sergt. Henry Grimm, was killed on Iwo Jima.

Morris, Canfield Feted

Justice James W. Morris of District Court and Austin F. Canfield, former president of the District Bar Association, were guests of honor last night at a joint installation of officers of American Legion Posts 85 and 312 in Cherrydale, Arlington County.

Daniel Bid Is Low

A low bid of $32,283 for construction of an Arlington Water Department storage building was received by Acting County Manager Albert T. Lundberg yesterday. The bid, one of five submitted, was offered by E. L. Daniel, Highest offer was that of Lee T. Turner, who bid $38,953. The building will be at Seminary rd. and S. 29th st., Arlington.

SCROLL HUNG IN HOSPITAL—Gilbert L. Hall, president of the board of trustees of Arlington Hospital, hands to Marian Isabel Mitchell the scroll in honor of her mother, the late Mrs. Isabel Mitchell who started the movement for a county hospital in 1933. The scroll was presented to Hall by Mrs. Albert Henderson, of 305 N. Kenmore st., Arlington, president, on behalf of the Creative Arts Club. To Miss Mitchell went the honor of hanging the memorial in the hospital, which her mother saw dedicated in March, 1944, a year before her death

Farm Wives' Short Course Opens at Md.

The farm wife's life is universal, but the American and English rural dwellers are better fed and better clothed, Maryland farm wives were told yesterday.

Lady Worsley Taylor

Then they began a five-day rural women's short course at the University of Maryland to learn how to make the life even better.

Enrollment for the opening day at College Park boomed to 876, many of them "repeaters" from past courses. Eighty will receive certificates for four-year attendance tomorrow.

Lady Worsley-Taylor, president of the Women's Institute for England and Wales, told them "the average American and English farm woman has more amenities, more food and clothing than farm women on the continent."

They were told they are in an "ideological struggle" after the "shooting part of World War II" by Representative Walter H. Judd (R., Minn.).

Among other speakers were Dr. T. B. Symons, dean of the University Agricultural College and director of the State extension service, who welcomed the women; Dr. Roger B. Corbett, associate dean of the Agricultural College; Howard Leverton, of the Maryland Farm Bureau, and Arthur Hamilton of the State Grange. Dr. H. C. Bird, president of the university, held a reception for the short course members last night in the university armory.

Fairfax Board Authorizes School Wing

At its semimonthly meeting yesterday the Fairfax County School Board authorized the construction of a $350,000 wing to the Fairfax High School. Plans for a new elementary school in Falls Church were also discussed.

Superintendent of Schools W. T. Woodson said that the Fairfax addition will include classrooms, library, cafeteria, and a new heating plant. He said that work will get under way immediately.

Lack of a contractor's estimate prevented final action on the Oak St. School in Falls Church. Original plans had been rejected as too expensive. The architect's plans submitted to the board yesterday omitted the originally scheduled auditorium and cafeteria.

Woodson said that a special meeting would be called when the contractor's estimate is ready on the new plans. It is believed that they fall within the $350,000 allotted.

The board also provided for a board of teachers and supervisors to revise the new eighth grade course of study. This last year was the first that there has been an eighth grade as such in the county school system. Previously, there had been seven grades of primary and grammar school and four years of high school.

M. E. Perkins Dies; Guided Many Authors

Stamford, Conn., June 17.—Maxwell Evarts Perkins, 62, editor in chief of Charles Scribner's Sons, publishers of New York, under whose guidance such writers as Thomas Wolfe, Ernest Hemingway, F. Scott Fitzgerald and Ring Lardner won their places in American literature, died at 4 a. m. today in Stamford Hospital. He lived in New Canaan, Conn.

Mr. Perkins was born in New York, of a family whose roots went back deep in New England life. A grandfather, William Maxwell Evarts, had been Secretary of State under Rutherford B. Hayes, and his father a New York lawyer and one of the founders of the Boston Museum of New York.

The son attended St. Paul's School in Concord, N. H., and Harvard College, where he was graduated in 1907. After three months at a Boston settlement house and a little more than a year as a reporter on the New York Times, he joined Scribner's in 1909. At the time of his death he was vice president and director of the company, as well as editor in chief.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Louise Saunders, and five daughters, Mrs. John C. Frothingham, Misses Nancy and Jane M. Perkins of New Canaan, Mrs. Douglas Gorlline and Mrs. Robert G. King.

At Falls Church

H. E. Strong Policeman, Is Dead at 53

Harry E. Strong, 53, Falls Church policeman and veteran of two wars, will be given a soldier's burial in Arlington Cemetery tomorrow. Services will be held in Fort Myer Chapel at 2 p. m.

Mr. Strong

Known to many Falls Church residents simply as "Pop," Mr. Strong suffered a heart attack in police headquarters Monday. He died shortly afterwards in Bethesda Naval Hospital.

Mr. Strong had pulled through a heart attack last February. When his condition looked critical, his Falls Church American Legion Post named June 7 as "Harry Strong Day," and invited the schoolboy safety patrol to a picnic in his honor.

Recovering quickly, Mr. Strong turned up at his own "memorial day," passed out ice cream, and supervised athletics in the hot sun.

He served in 1917-19 with General Pershing's headquarters company in France, when all of "Pershing's Boys" were six feet tall or more. Earlier he was with Pershing on the border and in later years treasured an autographed picture of the General on his white horse.

At 49, Mr. Strong enlisted in the Army Air Corps for World War II, was shipped overseas at 50 and stationed at Hickam Field, Hawaii.

Between wars, he was a Washington policeman for six years and driver for a Washington dairy for 12. He had served more than two years on the Falls Church police force at the time of his death.

As a veteran, he belonged to the local American Legion Post and the Crouch-Marcus VFW post in Arlington.

He leaves his 91-year-old father, Ralph W. Strong of Cleveland; two sons, Thomas and Robert, both of Falls Church; two sisters, Mrs. Grace Thomas, Cleveland, and Mrs. Virginia Shanks, Columbus, Ohio, and a nephew, Jack Thomas, Cleveland.

Miss Myrtle Sullivan

Funeral services for Miss Myrtle Evelyn Sullivan, 15, of 226 35th st. ne., who died Monday at her home, will be held today at 2 p. m. at the Maryland Avenue Baptist Church. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

A graduate of the Eliot Junior High School, Miss Sullivan had completed the tenth grade at Anacostia High School. She had been confined to her home, suffering from a form of anemia, for the last four months.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Sullivan; three brothers, Joseph J. Sullivan, jr., Raymond T. Sullivan, and Robert E. Sullivan, and a sister, Miss Ruby Mae Sullivan.

Mrs. Jane C. Anderson

Mrs. Jane C. Anderson, 62, a resident of Greater Washington for more than 20 years, died yesterday at her home, 507 Pershing dr., Silver Spring, Md.

The widow of Edward S. Anderson, she was born in Fort Custer, Mont., and came to Washington as a girl. She worked for the Department of Agriculture, leaving to make her home in Ireland. In 1926, she returned to Washington and lived here until moving to Silver Spring eight years ago.

She leaves three daughters, Mrs. Ann F. Hollingsworth of near Forestville, Md.; Mrs. Mary E. Cummings and Miss Jane D. Anderson, both of 507 Pershing dr.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 11 a. m. at the Pumphrey Warner funeral home, 8434 Georgia ave., Silver Spring, Md. Burial will be at Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Tiger Cubs Born at Sea

Baltimore, Md., June 17 (AP).—Customs officials were scratching their heads today about a twin problem that came here with the docking of the steamship Mormacmoon.

The freighter left Copenhagen with 14 animals consigned to the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus. It docked with 16.

Two tiger cubs were born at sea three days ago.

500 Taximen Lack Policies

At least 500 District cab drivers were off the job and insurance shopping yesterday.

But 1200 more had beaten the Public Utilities Commission's midnight deadline for getting new policies in lieu of those written by the Keystone Mutual Casualty Co. of Pittsburgh.

The company's authority to conduct insurance business in Washington was canceled by District Superintendent of Insurance Albert F. Jordan after a Pennsylvania insurance commission probe of the company.

The order here involved 1718 taxis, most of them in fleets. By midafternoon yesterday, the PUC reported 893 new certificates of insurance had been filed by drivers of operating companies. In addition, 277 more reported their applications were being processed.

A similar suspension order against cabs carrying Pittsburgh company's insurance was imposed by the Virginia State Corporation Commission, but most drivers in nearby Virginia have obtained additional coverage.

In Maryland the order halted the company from writing new insurance and renewing policies, but did not suspend cab operations.

Recreation Workers Complete Training

One hundred D. C. summer recreation workers today will complete a three-day training program.

During the sessions, they received training in sports, and discussed the D. C. Recreation Center program for special events. Playgrounds and swimming pools will open for the season tomorrow morning.

Rent Rise Dismissal Denied

A motion for dismissal of the Realest Corporation's petition for a 17½ per cent rent boost at the Westchester Apartments was denied by Rent Control Examiner Ernest F. Williams for the second time yesterday.

The motion, submitted by Attorney Milton W. King on behalf of a group of tenants, was overruled by the examiner on the ground that he has not heard sufficient evidence.

The hearing, which has been under way at the Force School, 1740 Massachusetts ave. nw., for the past two days, was recessed late yesterday afternoon until 2 p. m. today.

The proposal for higher rents was called "premature" by King, who said it was based on increased operating costs which have not been proven and on other increased expenditures which have not yet been developed.

Ernest F. Henry, attorney for the owners, said operating costs at the apartment had risen from $218,713.89 in 1940 to $286,907.47 in 1946. Tax increases since 1941, he said, have amounted to $5847.12 annually.

Frau Sauckel Fined

Berchtesgaden, Germany, June 17 (U.P.).—Comparatively light punishment consisting of a $100 fine and three years' probation was imposed today by a denazification court on Frau Elizabeth Sauckel, widow of the Nazi slave labor boss, Fritz Sauckel, who was hanged as a major war criminal.

Frau Sauckel was told to go home and "bring up your children in a democratic manner." She is the mother of eight.

Suit Seeks Art in Smithsonian

The Smithsonian Institution was charged yesterday with keeping illegally a four-million-dollar art collection, in a civil suit in District Court.

The charge was made by Mrs. Charlayne Whitely Gellatly of New York City. She claims she is administratrix to the estate of her deceased husband, John Gellatly, who died in 1931.

The United States Court of Claims has declared that the Smithsonian had the right to possession of the collection. But Stanley Suydam, attorney for Mrs. Gellatly argues that the finding of that court was improper. Paintings by Whistler, Van Dyck and Rubens are in the collection.

Mr. Gellatly, in his will, left his wife little more than $70, an umbrella and an empty suitcase. A New York court declared his will invalid, including the art collection provision.

Mr. Aitcheson, Mrs. Odom Wed

Mrs. Margaret Carlson Odom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Carlson of Arlington, Va., was married yesterday evening to John Kenneth Aitcheson, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Aitcheson of Alexandria, Va. The Rev. George Tittman performed the candlelight ceremony in St. Mary's Episcopal Church and a reception followed at Washington Golf and Country Club.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a mauve gown with matching picture hat and carried an orchid on her prayer book. Miss Betty Lou Carlson, gowned in aqua dotted swiss with matching picture hat and carrying Johanna Hill roses, was her sister's maid of honor. Begardus Werth was best man and ushers were W. Robbins Lindsey, J. Dulany Hammond, jr., John P. Quarles and Dabney T. Waring.

After their motor trip to Mexico City Mr. and Mrs. Aitcheson will be at home in Alexandria. The bride, widow of the late Lieut. Alfred F. Odom, AAF, attended Arlington Hall Junior College and George Washington University. Her husband attended Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Town Talk—

The Rain Wouldn't 'Go Away' But None Missed the Garden, So Gay the Music

By Eva Hinton

"RAIN, RAIN GO AWAY," that favorite nursery rhyme of generations of children pressing their noses against rain-washed windowpanes, could have been the theme song of the Thomas A. Stones the other evening. The Counselor of the Canadian Embassy and his charming wife gave a small dance of a summer evening when the stars refused to shine and the man in the moon sent down bucketsful of water instead of moon beams.

But the house was so spacious, the porch so inviting, and Sidney's music so gay, that nobody missed the garden which made a scenic backdrop beyond the porch where floodlights showed the bright green grass and the darker trees through a curtain of crystal rain.

Mrs. Stone wore a becoming egg-shell crepe evening dress with appropriate raindrop embroidery on the bodice. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. W. C. F. Ewing, who came with Mr. Ewing to town for the dance, had chosen one of the smart, new, short evening dresses in dark blue taffeta

Mme. Bonnet, squired by her distinguished looking husband, the French Ambassador, set off her raven hair and dark eyes with a flower print on a pink ground. The Assistant British Naval Attache, Comdr. F. G. S. Bowring, was in dancing mood because that afternoon between the showers he had made nine holes in 36. "It was only the second nine," he said frankly, "and I'll never be able to do it again!"

Gen. Wade Hampton Haislip, who has recently been made a permanent major general, had swapped his uniform for a white dinner jacket. When Mrs. Haislip remarked that she could rarely get the general out for evening parties he muttered something about "early rising."

"Oh," said a reconverted civilian, "do they still get up betimes in the Army?"

"You'd think so if you had that sunrise gun at Fort Myer going off under your window at 6:30 every morning," replied General Haislip, who continued to enjoy the Stones' party.

Most intriguing gown of the evening was Mrs. Sam Scrivener's black lace over rose satin. Most indefatigable dancers were the host, Ralph Forster, and Andre Boissier.

THE STONES' PARTY was one of the farewell appearances in Washington of popular Andre Boissier and his beautiful wife, who are leaving for Switzerland the end of this week. Mr. Boissier will have a job at the foreign office in Berne, but they don't yet know where they will live. Mr. Boissier's family owns a house in Berne, but it is rented to a women's club and he hasn't the heart to dislodge the good ladies. Instead he thinks he'll get the members all together and ask their help house-hunting. "With 300 women helping me I should find a house," he hopes.

Meanwhile he is winning his way handily toward the top in the men's singles of the Chevy Chase tennis tournament and it's nip and tuck whether his beat will leave before he loses (or wins).

ONE of Washington's most fascinating visitors is beautiful Mercedes Azcarate who is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Tom Burke. She is the daughter of Gen. Juan Francisco Azcarate, onetime military attache at the Mexican Embassy here and after that Mexican Ambassador to Germany. And it was he who had to take it on the chin from the Nazis when he broke off relations with them on behalf of his country.

Her mother, whom she is said to resemble very strongly, is Mrs. Burke's sister, one of the musically talented del Pulgar sisters. Mercedes resembles her mother in that, too. She was singing and playing the guitar most charmingly in the Burkes' garden the other evening after dinner.

Turner-Kuldell Nuptials Read

St. Gabriel's Rectory was the scene of the wedding on June 7 of Miss Dorothy Louise Kuldell and Robert Archer Turner. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Frederick Kuldell and Mr. Turner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Benson Turner.

The Rev. John B. Roeder officiated at the ceremony. The bride was attired in a lace-trimmed dove gray afternoon frock. A white straw picture hat and white accessories, and corsage of gardenias completed her ensemble. Mrs. Peter C. Turner was matron of honor and wore a pale pink dress with navy hat and accessories. Her flowers were pink carnations. Mr. Turner served as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple left on a honeymoon and will reside in Baltimore after June 21. Mr. Turner served in the Marine Corps during the war. He is now studying engineering at Johns Hopkins University and is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity.

Davis—Tobiassen

Miss Lila Tobiassen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Einar Tobiassen, became the bride on June 8 of Ralph J. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Baetes Davis, all of this city.

The Rev. D. R. Holms officiated at the ceremony at St. Matthew's Lutheran Church and a reception followed at the Admiral Club.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of white lace and train length veil. Her bouquet was of gardenias and lilies of the valley with an orchid center. Miss Lorna Drange, maid of honor, wore a green taffeta frock and carried a bouquet of mixed summer flowers. Miss Mary Von Blon and Mrs. Jeonnette Smith, bridesmaids, were costumed in yellow. Jack Salb served as best man and ushering were Jack Martin, George Wilsher, Bill Mortimer and Ralph Tobiassen.

Alexanders' Daughters Make Bows

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Alexander's pretty daughters—blonde Mary Pearl and dark-haired Suzanne, were presented to society yesterday at a garden tea given by their parents. Later there was a dinner party at home for the young group and following that a dance at the Chevy Chase Club.

The party from 5 to 7 was to introduce the two girls to the friends of their parents. Mrs. Alexander had assisting her at the tea table Mrs. Harry McBride, Mrs. John Casey, Mrs. Leo Brison Norris, Mrs. Royal Reynolds, Mrs. Hans Stamm, Mrs. Robert Moran, Mrs. Arthur P. Hall, Mrs. John Hicks 2d and Mrs. William Bailey Sims.

Friends, Debs Assist

The debutantes had asked a number of mutual friends and spring debs to assist. These included Miss Beatrice Blair, Miss Carol Bradley, Miss Sherley Smith, Mlle. Nora Martins, Miss Marjorie Rhett, Miss Mary Durant, Miss Grace Fletcher of Alpina, Mich., and Miss Jeannie Vickers of Lancaster, Pa.

Dr. and Mrs. Alexander and their daughters received indoors, the hostess wearing a draped coral gown which she changed for a black lace combined with white for the dance at the club.

Wear White Organdy

Her daughters wore twin frocks of bouffant white organdy made with lace ruffles at the hem and forming an off-the-shoulder bertha. Pink roses held the cascading ruffles on the skirts and the debutantes carried old-fashioned nosegays with orchid centers.

In the garden there was a buffet table under a striped marquee and Jack Morton and his orchestra to play.

Miss Suzanne Alexander, who was graduated from the Madeira School this month, will go to Switzerland to study next fall. She will leave today with Miss Sherley Smith, debutante daughter of Mrs. Deering Howe, for New York, where they'll spend a gay two weeks and will go to Southampton to visit in July.

Dr. and Mrs. Alexander and their daughters will spend the summer at their cottage on Lake Sunapee, N. H.

Miss Graham Is Tea Hostess

MISS ELEANOR GRAHAM entertained at tea on Sunday for Miss Jane Lawther who will be married tomorrow to Charles Hanson Toll. Miss Graham will be maid of honor for Miss Lawther.

Other guests were Miss Ernestine Aiken, Miss Virginia Daniels, Miss Peggy Butler, Miss Jean Evans, Miss Jane Kinsman, Miss Elizabeth Roberts, Miss Pat Slaughter, Miss Molly Timms and Miss Rolande Young. Miss Josephine Gongwer and Miss Kitty Ahlstron of Gloucester, Va., who will be bridesmaids, were also guests.

Mrs. Lewthwaite Here

Mrs. Rainald Lewthwaite, who arrived from England a few weeks ago, has been spending several days in Washington. The wife of Lieut. Col. R. G. Lewthwaite, she is accompanied by two of her children, Master David Lewthwaite and Miss Margaret Lewthwaite.

Society Welcomes De Lleras; Plans Farewells for Bradens

By Marie McNair

WASHINGTON, the city of hails and farewells, is welcoming the new head of the Pan American Union and Senora de Lleras, as it prepares to bid former Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Spruille Braden farewell.

The Director General of the Pan American Union and Senora de Lleras are no strangers here. In a career studded with state appointments Dr. Lleras was Ambassador of Colombia four years ago. He and his family arrived in the Capital early in June and, as luck would have it, found Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Brooke's house in Georgetown available for the summer.

Bradens Hosts Tonight

This evening Mr. and Mrs. Braden will entertain at dinner in honor of Dr. and Senora de Lleras at the Carlton. Tomorrow night they'll be guests at dinner of Dr. Jose Mora, Ambassador to the Pan American Union from Uruguay, and Saturday evening Sumner Welles, former Undersecretary of State, has planned a stag dinner for Dr. Lleras at his Oxon Hill country place.

Mrs. Braden

Senora de Lleras, daughter of Gen. Atruro Puga of Chile, will have an opportunity to meet a large segment of feminine Washington at a reception at the Carlton to be given by the Pan American Liasion Committee of Women's Organizations, June 24. Chilean born Mrs. Thomas Burke is in charge of invitations.

One-time President of his country, Dr. Lleras is a journalist by profession. He founded the newspaper El Liberal and was for a number of years editor in chief of El Tiempo. Serving brilliantly as head of the Colombian delegation to the Inter-American Conference to Mexico in 1945, he was later sent to the U. N. Conference in San Francisco.

SPRUILLE BRADEN, whose resignation from his State Department post was no surprise, is preparing to leave at the end of the month for New York.

Fourteen years of making a home in other people's homes seems to be at an end for Mrs. Braden, his little Chilean wife. She's looking forward to getting her stored furnishings into an apartment which is already leased but which she has yet to see. Decision as to their new abode was left to the Braden's daughter, Mrs. William H. Lyons, who made the selection from real estate agents' brief lists.

Just back from a trip to Montana, where Mr. Braden was born, both are saying goodby to their friends at a series of small and informal parties. They will dine with the French Ambassador and Mme. Bonnet on June 26.

TOWN TOPICS:

AT THE AGE of 10, Bobbie Goodfellow of Westchester, N. Y., has starred in three distinct careers. His present title is national baton twirling champion, and he'll exhibit his art at the benefit garden party this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Martin Vogel to be given by the Women's Action Committee for Lasting Peace. When a tiny tot Bobbie was a Powers model (believe it or not) and last fall he took up skating. The result—he came out second in the Eastern States Skating Championship. Bobbie was brought to Washington by Mrs. Vinson Lawford who visits friends here often.

Pen Women To Celebrate Founders' Day

The fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the National League of American Pen Women will be celebrated by the District of Columbia Branch on Saturday, June 28, 4 to 7 o'clock, at the Virginia Hills Country Club, just outside Alexandria.

Formal observance of Founders' Day has been an annual affair of the District of Columbia branch since 1936, when inaugurated at the suggestion of Mrs. William Walton Badgley, a District of Columbia past president. The recently organized Alexandria Branch has been invited to attend.

Mrs. Tiller Honored Guest

The guest of honor this year will be Mrs. Theodore Hance Tiller, first president and founder of the District of Columbia Branch, which was established at the first national convention in Washington, D. C., April, 1921. She will give recollections of the early days of the national and District organizations.

Reminiscences are also expected from Mrs. Theodore Cunningham of Hanover, N. H., Mrs. Richard L. Hoxie of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Aaron D Newman of the Alexandria Branch, who are among the few living members associated with the early history of the organization. None of the original 17 founding members is now alive.

Catharine Clark Becomes Bride

Underwood & Underwood

MRS. DONALD W. LEWIS
. . . Alexandria bride

In Alexandria's Christ Episcopal Church last night, Miss Catharine Elizabeth Clark and Donald William Lewis were married, the Rev. Comer B. Lile officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Douglas Clark of Alexandria, and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Deems W. Lewis of Gillette, Wyo.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore white satin and a long tulle veil held by a wreath of orange blossoms. Her flowers were a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Clyde Warren, matron of honor, wore pink marquisette and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Elaine Clark, Miss Janet Lambdin, Miss Lois Jones and Miss Betty Lou Shaver were bridesmaids, costumed in pastel frocks and carrying bouquets of mixed flowers.

Clyde Warren acted as best man, and the ushers were Marvin Rowley, Bedford Renn and Gordon Lambin.

A reception followed the ceremony at the George Mason Hotel, after which the couple left for Asheville, N. C. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will make their home in Lafayette, Ind.

Garretts Honored At Farewell Party

GEORGE ANGUS GARRETT, newly appointed Minister to Ireland, and Mrs. Garrett were entertained at a farewell party yesterday afternoon at the 1925 F Street Club. They are sailing for Ireland July 9.

For weeks Mr. and Mrs. Garrett have been feted at a round of parties. Yesterday, all their close friends who have been unable to find an available date on the Garrett calendar, banded together to give them a gay farewell.

Mrs. John H. Gross, the former Laura Curtis, came down from her home at Bethlehem, Pa., for the event and will return to Bethlehem today.

Local Clubwomen Departing To Attend Annual Conclaves

By Genevieve Reynolds

A SIZABLE portion of Washington's feminine clubdom is scattering to the four corners of the Nation. The magnets are the many annual conclaves either in session or starting next week.

One of the largest local delegations will leave for New York City this weekend to attend the five-day, annual assembly of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, opening Monday in the Commodore Hotel. Mrs. Edward C. Magdeburger, newly installed president of the D. C. Federation, will be one of the speakers at the presidents' dinner scheduled Thursday night, June 26.

Plenty of Company

Accompanying her will be 15 delegates from the local federation who also represent various clubs affiliated with the federation. These include Mrs. E. Morgan Pryse of the Marietta Park Women's Club who is newly elected first vice president of the federation; Mrs. Gertrude Parks of the Political Study Club and past president of the D. C. Federation; Mrs. Edward E. Covert and Mrs. Luther Lemon, Takoma Park Women's Clubs; Mrs. Ernest W. Howard, Ladies' Auxiliary of the D. C. Fire Department; Mrs. Erich W. Schwartze, National M. Eleanor Brackenridge Club; Mrs. J. Frank Mulkern, D. C. Sunshine and Community Society; Mrs. Leslie B. Wright, Forrest Hills Garden Club; Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, Women's City Club; Mrs. Charles P. Keyser, Women's City Club; Mrs. Ludo C. Pickett and Mrs. J. E. Atkinson, Entre Nous Club; Mrs. Wendell Lund and Mrs. Dean Snyder, Town Club, and Mrs. John T. Kennedy, Political Study Club.

In addition to the official federation delegation, the Nation's Capital will be well represented by celebrities, observers, speakers and visitors. The First Lady will be guest of honor at one of the dinner sessions. Mrs. Robert P. Patterson, wife of the Secretary of War, Frances Perkins, member of the United States Civil Service Commission, will be among the speakers.

At a special meeting of the D. C. Federation held yesterday at the Women's City Club, local delegates and club president lined up for the battle on resolutions to be introduced during the national convention. Mrs. Magdeburger, D. C. Federation head also selected new department heads. Among those chosen were Mrs. Otto Hammerlund of Petworth Woman's Club, American Home; Mrs. Frank J. Mulkern of the Sunshine and Community Society, club extension; Mrs. Charles Biliosly of the Town Club, education department; Mrs. Harry De Long of Marietta Park Women's Club, international relations; Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley of the Women's City Club, legislation; Mrs. Ernest W. Howard, press and publicity.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Newly Engaged to Lad She Has Known Less Than a Year, Girl Is Assailed by Doubts As to Whether She Loves Him Sufficiently

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: A little less than a year ago I met a young man to whom I became engaged eight months later. Now he is out of the Army and we plan to be married soon. Bridesmaids and ushers have been chosen; also church and reception arrangements have been made.

Our parents think we are a little young, but otherwise they don't object. He is 21 and I am 18. We are of the same nationality and faith; we've had our share of running around and should be ready to settle down; but at times I doubt my love for him, due to various little things.

I don't like to say, "I love you," if there is a chance that anyone might hear. On nights when I don't see him, I'd just as soon he didn't telephone, as it interrupts my evening. I'm in no hurry to make final preparations for the wedding and was rather talked into the plans we've made so far.

If I love him, why am I disappointed in my engagement ring? And why do I involuntarily look twice whenever I see a tall blond husky man? I've always admired that type, and my fiance is moderate size and has dark hair. I am crazy about dancing and he doesn't dance at all; in fact, he doesn't care to learn, although he has promised he will before we marry.

Does She Know What Love Is?

ON THE OTHER hand, we have many tastes in common and mostly I'm very happy in his company, although at times, due to our sensitivity, we get very irritable. If I don't see him for a couple of days I find myself counting the hours until we meet; and I find it heavenly to be in his arms. Also, I am really interested when he talks about himself, although usually bored when boys do that.

Is mine a love that is sensible and calm, the kind that will last a lifetime? If it were just a passing fancy, would it have lasted this long? Maybe I'm too romantically minded, thinking "love" means being swept off your feet. Have the movies given me a wrong idea of what love is?

I've mentioned some of my doubts to him, and when we talk things over I feel wonderful for a while. But later, when I'm alone, these doubts return. If I should back out now there would be a lot of talk among my relatives and I'm afraid to think what it would do to him. Before he met me, he didn't care what happened to him. Now he practically lives for the times we are together.

Is it fair to myself to marry him, feeling as I do? Is it fair to him to have a wife who isn't sure she loves him? If we marry, we must stay together until "death do us part," because our church prohibits divorce. Please help me make a right decision. F. K.

This Isn't Love; It's Sex Appeal

DEAR F. K.: In my opinion, you're most certainly not in love with this lad. He is physically magnetic to you, but otherwise negative on the score of compatibility so far as you are concerned. In fact, when you're not in his arms, his personality is disappointing to a degree that is irritating and embarrassing by turns.

Aside from his sex appeal, his only other attraction for you is his offer of marriage, per se. It offers a change of pace which you think is due. At 18, you've been around so much that you should be ready to settle down, you say. Which means you've been going at too fast a clip for your age, all through the teens. You need to slow down, get your bearings and take your time about choosing a husband.

I've had to cut your letter in half, leaving out much significant material, including that portion where you speak of feeling "just thrilled" when the wedding is talked about; then ask whether this is due to excitement or conceit at knowing you are the main topic of conversation. Exactly so. You've hit the nail on the head. Your common sense is asserting itself in that shrewd bit of self analysis.

Wise to Cancel Wedding Plans

REAL love—the kind guaranteed to last a lifetime, with care—is buoyant and tranquil around the clock, sure of itself and the other's rightness, when true minds are joined in resolve to marry. It is bliss in the sense that contentment is bliss; hence nothing like the uneasy ebb-and-flow of mixed feelings that stymie you.

If yours were a passing fancy, would it last this long? Less than a year isn't very long; and for a newly engaged girl you're in pretty low spirits about your choice. I gather your fancy has passed its prime and wouldn't survive a year's engagement—or the appearance of a husky blond suitor on the scene!

My advice is to call off the wedding, cancelling arrangements yourself if your parents won't act for you—although they should, when they find you converted to their sound view that 18 is precariously young to venture marriage that must last a lifetime. As for how the lad takes this reversal—that's his assignment, not your worry. If he takes it badly, in a weakling way, you'll have proof that he is a bad matrimonial risk. M. H.

Caught in the Rain

If you have gotten some rain drops on the washable silk summer dress, try rubbing them with the hem of the garment or else scratching them lightly with the fingernail. Almost always they will scratch out and save the whole dress from being washed.

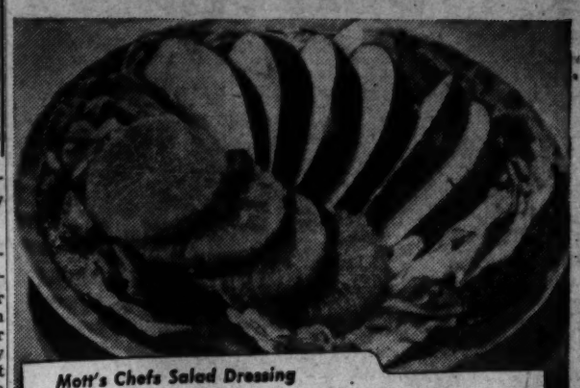
Salad Sparkler!



Mott's Chefs Salad Dressing

1 tablespoon sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 clove garlic, if desired
¼ cup Mott's Pure Cider Vinegar
½ cup salad oil

Combine sugar, salt, mustard, paprika, garlic in bottle or shaker. Add Mott's Pure Cider Vinegar, tangy and rich. Add oil. Shake thoroughly. Sprinkle on salad just before serving. Then taste that sparkling flavor! See how your family cheers! Another favorite for salads is Mott's Distilled White Vinegar, crystal-clear, subtle, delicate. Always say "Mott's Vinegar" for that deep, rich, mellowed-in-wood flavor!

Your Questions on Homemaking

Can you please suggest a heat resisting method of refinishing the white enameled top of a stove that has been stained by alcohol? Also, is there any certain method of removing pencil marks from water painted wallpaper without destroying the design? How does one go about putting a professional looking finish on unfinished furniture?
B. R.

There is no home method of refinishing the white enameled top of a stove. The only way you can restore it is to purchase a new top which I understand is available. Consult your stove dealer.

There is no certain method of removing pencil marks from nonwashable wallpaper. You might try this: Dampen a clean cloth with carbon tetrachloride and sponge lightly. Do not rub. If the first treatment lightens the mark but does not remove it, gently keep sponging it. If a ring is left, apply a poultice of commercial dry cleaning powder and carbon tetrachloride. Let dry and brush off. Caution: Test this treatment on an inconspicuous spot because carbon tetrachloride sometimes makes certain wallpaper pigments run.

Sand your unfinished furniture thoroughly with a fine sandpaper wrapped around a padded wood block. Wipe off dust with lintless rag. Apply undercoat if enamel is to be used or apply a first coat of enamel thinned 10 per cent with a solution made by the manufacturer of enamel. Let dry thoroughly. Sand lightly. Apply 2 more coats of enamel. Let dry thoroughly and sand lightly after each one. Rub down with paste made of pumice or rottenstone and lemon oil. Wipe dry with a clean soft cloth. If varnish or shellac is to be used instead of enamel, follow the same procedure as above, substituting one or the other for the enamel.

Could you please tell me how to get scratch removing polish out of clothing? I have tried soaking them in milk, and other things.
D. W.

On washable materials, scratch removing polish may be removed by first rubbing vaseline into the stain, to soften it and then soaking in turpentine. Rub occasionally, then wash in warm suds and rinse.

I was washing a pair of nylon hose for the first time and they got up against a white rayon slip also being washed for the first time. Some of the dye from the hose made quite a few brownish stains on the slip. Is there any way these can be removed?
J. D. Mac K.

Soak your slip in a solution of one tablespoon of household bleach to one quart of water, for 15 minutes. Rinse three times and repeat if necessary.

I plan to paint a chest of drawers for use in the baby's room and I would like to decorate it a bit with a design, flowers or animals or such. I'd like something nicer than decals—in fact I would like to paint free-handed, but lack the ability. Can you tell me how one uses stencils or where I can buy the necessary materials?
J. M.

There is a paint store on 13th st. that has a collection of stencils, some of which might be suitable for redecorating babies' furniture. Such stencils are hard to find because of the shortage of stencil paper. If you choose one of these, follow the directions which will come with the stencil.

Don't underestimate your ability along this line until you try your hand at it. I've known several women who have developed an interesting hobby and one even worked up a business for herself by decorating furniture—and all of them declare they have no real ability along artistic lines, only a real interest in the work. For their design ideas they clip and file all pictures of decorated furniture they can lay their hands on. There has been a wealth of such material in the past several years in magazines. Also, there is a paint company which puts out a book giving suggestions for decorating furniture with the Peter Hunt type of decorations. This book is available, free, I think at a New York ave. paint store.

This paint store will be able to help you with the kinds of paint to use and so forth. Most folks, who go in for that type of furniture decoration, use the tube paints. They say they get truer and a larger variety of colors. This is a good thing for a beginner to know—if you make a mistake you can always paint the mistake out with your background color and start fresh!

I say that children of first cousins are second cousins. My family say they are third cousins. Please settle this for us.
A. J. G.

Children of first cousins are second cousins, once removed. The "once removed" means that they are of different generations.

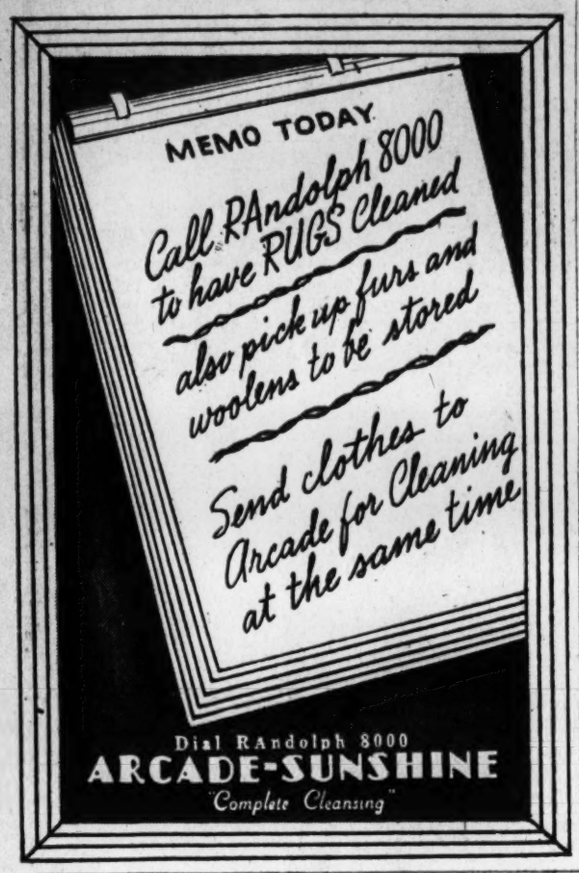
Md. Firemen Open Sessions

The Maryland State Firemen's Association last night prefaced its fifty-fifth annual convention, to be held today through Friday, with a dinner meeting for State officers, committee members and guests.

Dinner and convention sessions are being held at Frostburg, Allegany County, Md., with nearly 2000 delegates from some 200 volunteer fire departments registered.

Business sessions will open at 2 p. m., today, and will include addresses by Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, and Theodore R. McKeldlin, former mayor of Baltimore. Representative J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.) will speak at 7 p. m.



$35,000 Voted For Probe of Postmasters

The Senate yesterday voted $35,000 for an investigation of postmaster appointments.

Approval of an inquiry resolution sponsored by Senator Langer (R., N. Dak.) came on a roll call vote, 44 to 35, as Democratic cries of "politics" were brushed aside.

The resolution does not require action by the House nor approval by President Truman.

The investigation will be made by the Senate Civil Service Committee, which Langer heads.

Langer's committee has been holding up confirmation of 927 postmaster appointments pending the inquiry.

Jr. Police Plan Sunday Open House

With the campaign to raise $25,000 to maintain and expand the organization's activities past the halfway stage, the Junior Police and Citizens' Corps will hold "open house" beginning at 4 p. m. Sunday at headquarters, 720 Barry pl. nw.

Police Officer Oliver A. Cowan, founder and director, said the occasion will mark the unveiling of a mural which was painted on the wall of headquarters by students of Howard University.

WHEN I WON THE BEAUTY QUEEN CONTEST, TWO MODEL AGENCIES ASKED ME TO COME IN FOR AN INTERVIEW--BUT I MIGHT TAKE A POSITION AS AN AIRLINE STEWARDESS! THE UNIFORMS'D LOOK AWFULLY CUTE ON ME!
WHAT KIND OF OPERATIONS, BRIGHTEYES?
PERHAPS, IF YOU PROVE TO HER SHE CAN'T GET A JOB, SHE'LL CUT HER VISIT SHORT, BRICK!
I'D LIKE TO LAND HER A JOB, AUNT MARY!... AS STEWARDESS ON A ROCKET SHIP TO THE MOON!

MICKEY FINN

I CAN STILL HARDLY BELIEVE IT, MINTY—I NEVER THOUGHT YOU'D FALL FOR ANYONE—AND I WAS JUST AS POSITIVE THAT MISS TITE NEVER WOULD EITHER!
WELL, PHIL—WE BOTH HAVE A GREAT DEAL IN COMMON—
—WE DISCOVERED THAT WE HAD THE SAME FRIENDS, ALTHOUGH WE HAD BOTH SADLY NEGLECTED THEM FOR YEARS—THAT WE LIKED THE SAME THINGS—AND—WELL—THAT WE HAD BOTH BEEN LONELY—TOO LONG! YOU SEE, PHIL——
NOW WAIT A MINUTE, MINTY—ARE YOU BOTH GOIN' OVERBOARD JUST BECAUSE YOU'RE LONESOME OR BECAUSE YOU REALLY LOVE EACH OTHER?
BECAUSE WE LOVE EACH OTHER, PHIL! I WENT OVERBOARD THAT VERY FIRST NIGHT I MET HER!
THAT'S ALL I WANTED TO KNOW! NOW WHEN ARE YOU GOING TO ANNOUNCE IT?
WE'RE NOT GOING TO ANNOUNCE IT, PHIL! WE WANT IT TO BE VERY SIMPLE—AND QUIET!

WINNIE WINKLE

AW, LISTEN, HONEY! USE YOUR HEAD FOR SOMETHING BESIDES A PRETTY HAT-RACK!!
WHAT OTHER REASON WOULD YOUR DAD HAVE FOR TAKING UP THOSE REAL ESTATE OPTIONS AND PROMISING TO PAY MONEY HE HASN'T GOT?
I'LL TELL YOU!!
FATHER WAS TRYING TO NAIL DOWN ALL THOSE PROSPECTS FOR US!!
NOW I'LL TELL ONE!

DOTTY

HUH? WHAT--? WHY, I HAVEN'T ANY IDEA!!
MM--BUT THAT'S A GOOD QUESTION--NOW LET ME THINK---
30 MINUTES LATER
THE ANSWER IS FOURTEEN APPLES!!

Movie Manager Diagnoses Buddy's Ailment

MYSTERY SOLVED

A picture in the Sunday morning Post solved a mystery for the manager of the Seco Theater in Silver Spring.

On Saturday, an usher brought in an 11-year-old patron and said, "Boss, this boy isn't feeling well."

"That's too bad," said the manager. "Have you eaten something that disagreed with you, son?"

"No, sir, I don't think so," replied Buddy Wright, of 8421 Piney Branch rd. "I just don't feel well."

"I'd better take you home," said the manager—and he did. Mrs. Wright thanked him for his trouble, and the incident would have been forgotten — except for that picture in The Post the next day.

Buddy

Buddy had been snapped the afternoon before at a strawberry festival at the Marvin Memorial Methodist Church at Four Corners, Md. The caption under the picture read:

"There was ice cream for the youngsters, and 'all the strawberries you can eat'."

What a wonderful way to get sick.

Next time you start out for one of those shindigs, Buddy, take me along.

SPRECHEN ZIE DEUTSCH?

Linda Smith (District 0519) spent a year in Germany, but she can't read the language. So she doesn't know what's in three letters she's gotten from over there. She writes:

"I tried to get them translated at one of the language schools, but I could take a ship to Germany and get it done first hand for what they wanted to charge me.

"Do you suppose that perhaps some war brides or other German-speaking District Liners might come to my rescue?"

I'll be very much surprised if they don't, Linda. District Liners are the best neighbors in the world.

WRONG AGAIN

On June 14 we had an item about the start of Eugene Meyer's fifteenth year as owner of The Post. (Mr. Meyer took over the paper on June 13, 1933.)

Paul J. French of 2021 Hanover st., Silver Spring, Md., nails me dead to rights and points out I was off one day in my figures.

If we start reckoning on June 13, the first year ends on the following June 12. The second year (and subsequent years) begin on the 13th—not the 14th.

I'm sorry, boss—and I did try so hard to make sure THAT item would be right.

DISCRIMINATION

Mrs. M. S. Wright, of 3610 35th st. nw., sends this one along.

"Eleven-year-old Jimmy was studying the European plan and American plan rates listed by the hotel in which he was vacationing with his parents. After a few minutes of deep concentration, he observed:

"'These foreigners get all the breaks. They can stay at this hotel a lot cheaper than we Americans can'."

GIVE-AWAYS

"We're leaving town, and can't take the kittens along. They're black and six weeks old."—ORdway 5366.

OH, IT DOES, DOES IT?

Maxine Davis of 3307 N st. nw. is the author of "Washington as a Summer Resort," which appears in the July issue of Holiday.

A note from the publisher of the magaine confides that "the story disputes that Washington is so hot that it is unpleasant."

THANKS, ED

Some time ago we ran an item about a lady who painted a picture and donated it to Children's Hospital.

That item gave Edward J. Reiss of 722 17th st. nw. an idea. Ed also painted a picture, and auctioned it off among his coworkers in the Adjutant General's Office.

Beulah Yousey of 3116 Woodley rd. nw. handled the moolah, and has turned over her check for $87.50, which I'm forwarding to the hospital.

Aren't people grand?

LOST

If you found a cane made of lightcolored wood, Anne Maloney of 1307 12th st. nw. would like you to know that a disabled lady is very much in need of it.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

The Bridge Deck

By Florence Osborn

You would think that the bidding of a small slam would be easy for a pair of master players who have won lifelong bridge honors.

Today's Hand

♣ K Q J 8 7

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	2 ♡	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♠	Pass
6 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: 6 ♠.

Not so. At the recent world and national masters individual championships the boys had enormous difficulty in getting to six on the simple hand shown in the box. Only half of them managed to reach the right bid of six hearts; others stopped short or landed in the wrong contract. At hearts the only loser is the club ace.

The worst result was achieved by Ben O. Johnson of Spartanburg, S. C., and Jerome Scheuer of Boston, who landed in six no-trump, received an unfavorable spade opening lead to go down three tricks.

Scheuer's four no-trump reply to the two-bid is a conventional response, somewhat popular with tournament players, to indicate two aces.

Johnson's five-spade call after the convention threw Scheuer off; he understood it as indicating spade strength rather than a void, and went to six no-trump. With the spade opening knocking out his ace at once, all he could do was to run home with seven heart tricks and his two aces for nine tricks.

Our hearts are one

Our hearts are joined because we are . . . Engaged to marry now . . . We have exchanged a promise that . . . Will soon become a vow . . . No matter what the future holds . . . Or what the world may do . . . I know that you belong to me . . And I belong to you . . This little ring that has no end . . . Reflects our lasting love . . . Eternal as the heavens and . . . The silver stars above . . . We may be faced from time to time . . With trouble and with stress . . . But underneath it all will be . . . Our dream of happiness . . . And just as long as you are mine . . . And I belong to you . . . I know that we will find a way . . To make our dream come true.

PLENTY OF PARKING SPACE HERE!

● Don't worry about this Little Man. He may be too small for his Daddy's shoes . . . but he more than makes up for it in heart-filling joy. That's the right Parking Space he's in, and you can be sure his Dad would have it no other way . . . even though it means a scuffed-up pair of Sunday-best shoes.

● But when it comes to your right Parking Space (for the family sedan, that is), we at The Hecht Co. are ready to serve you. When you shop at The Hecht Co. there's no need to seek out a Parking Spot . . . ten blocks from your destination. None of the mental stress and strain—because you lost your curb-stone franchise, bought with a parking meter nickel. No costly little tickets issued by alert Guardians of the Law. And no minor mementoes . . . such as a dented fender or a bent bumper, by the guy who squeezed in behind you.

● The Hecht Co.'s 4-Story Parking Building does away with all of these Shoppers' Headaches . . . and makes your parking problem as simple as driving into your own garage back home. Just drive in the NEW entrance on F Street between Sixth and Seventh (the only entrance to our Parking Building) . . . You'll find our parking attendants courteous and accommodating. From the moment you give your car over to their custody . . . until you're ready for the trip home . . . you can rest easy that your car is in safe hands.

● Forget about carrying heavy packages over crowded city streets. Forget about meeting parking deadlines. Make your next shopping day unhurried . . . and unharassed . . . by using The Hecht Co.'s Parking Building.

● Like all of our other customer services—it's here to serve YOU.
